ACTION ON COAL PROBLEM URGED

European Aid Meeting Gets Late Reprieve

Compromise Proposal Is Offered By France

PARIS, July 1 (AP) — France gave the Three-Power Foreign Ministers' conference a 24-hour reprieve late today by offering a last-minute compromise proposal on European recovery which averted for the moment, at least, a collapse of the conversations.

Foreign Minister Georges Bidault said the new offer represented France's final position in the three-power efforts to implement the aid-Europe plan of United States Secretary of State George C. Marshall.

Want Russian Answer

Both Bidault and British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin pressed for a prompt answer from Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov—French quarters reported — and put the French propositions up to Molotov on a take-it-or-leave-it basis.

(A Moscow radio broadcast, heard in London, quoted a Paris dispatch from Tass, Soviet News Agency, as saying Bidault's last-minute proposal did not differ "from the first French proposal or from the British plan." Molotov turned down both plans.)

Bidault advanced his proposals as a compromise measure designed to meet Russian objections against "interference" in national internal affairs, and appealed to Molotov for conciliation to salvage the aid Europe conference.

British and French sources said Molotov insisted on a full day's recess to permit him to study the French propositions. Bidault at first demanded a decision today, but Molotov said the usual practice was to allow time for study.

The session, accordingly, was adjourned after only one hour and 40 minutes. The ministers agreed to meet Wednesday afternoon, but there was no promise that the deadlock might be broken.

Bevin was said by British and French sources to have insisted that Molotov bring in a definite "yes" or "no" answer tomorrow. Molotov, however declined to commit himself.

British circles tonight were pessimistic and French sources predicted that tomorrow would be the conference's last session. Only an hour before Bidault spoke, French quarters had predicted a sudden end at today's meeting.

Bidault Opens Session

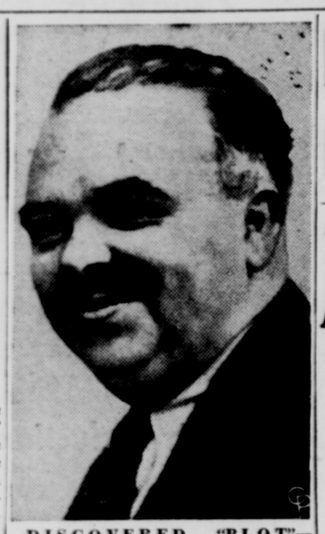

Bidault, opening this afternoon's session, told Molotov that France could not accept Russia's proposal of yesterday limiting the plan to a simple declaration by European nations as to their economic needs.

He said the Soviet proposal did not provide for European self aid and hence it would never be accepted by the United States.

Bevin spoke up in similar vein.

Bidault then made the new French proposals to establish an International Co-operation Committee, with six technical sub-committees, to draft a report on European resources and needs before September 1.

This report, which would be the basis for aid under the Marshall plan, would be submitted "for observations" to the United Nations Economic Commission for Europe at Geneva. This provision seemed designed to allay Russian suspicions by giving the U. N. general supervision over the operation of the Marshall plan.

DISCOVERED "PLOT"—France's Minister of the Interior Edouard Depreux (above) has announced the discovery of a widespread plot by a clandestine organization known as the Black Maquis to overthrow the French Republic and set up a military dictatorship. Several army officers and a Rightist leader have already been arrested in the plot.

Plot To Seize French Airports, Planes Smashed

Group Believed Part Of Black Maquis Plan

PARIS, July 1 (AP)—The National Security police said today a conspirators' plot to seize all of France's military airports and her fighter and bombing planes had been smashed.

The plot evidentyl was part of an over-all plan by a Right Wing Underground Organization which called itself the Black Maquis to overthrow the fourth Republic by civil war next month and establish a military dictatorship. The government announced yesterday the Black Maquis' plan had been thwarted.

The police organization's general Information Bureau said Capt. Roger Prat of the French Air Force had been arrested in connection with the military airport plot. At a given signal, the police said, many members of the air force would attempt to seize the flying fields.

As the security police ranged through France seeking to capture conspirators involved in the revolutionary conspiracy, it was announced that Claude Chauvel, 20-year-old son of the Secretary-General of the foreign affairs ministry, had been arrested.

Two other men, the police said, were arrested on charges of soliciting funds for the conspirators, while a warrant was issued for Count Aurouet de Merwels, described as "one of the principal members" of the revolutionary group.

Earlier, a man who described himself as a leader in the attempt to establish an "anti-Communist" government in france said in an interview that 25,000 armed men were ready to lead a "march on Paris at the appropriate moment."

The self-designated spokesman of the Black Maquis boasted the plot would not be crushed by the arrest of conspirators.

"For every one of us they arrest," he said, "there are two to take his place."

Four Prisoners, Two Officials Hurt In Riot

PENDLETON, Ind., July 1. (AP)—Four Indiana State Reformatory prisoners were shot and wounded and two prison officials were injured in a riot at the institution today, R. D. Moore, superintendent reported.

Moore said the riot started when two prisoners, armed with scissors and iron bars, rushed a "prisoner cadet" in the prison library after the cadet had reprimanded them in a meal lineup.

The officers were injured as the two men made a rush toward the unidentified prisoner cadet and then ran into the yard.

Wounded prisoners are Henry Jackson, 23, Howard Curley, 24, Lee Shartley, 24, and Harry Taylor, 21.

Hagerstown Hotel Damaged By Fire

HAGERSTOWN, Md., July 1—(AP)—An undetermined number of guests were forced to vacate their rooms in the Colonial Hotel here this evening when a fire broke out on the fourth and top floor of the structure.

No one was injured by the flames in the 76-room hotel, but the damage from water and the blaze was unofficially estimated at approximately $40,000.

The entire fourth floor was destroyed by the fire, with the water entering rooms below.

The blaze occurred during an electrical storm and may have been caused by a bolt of lightning, hotel officials said.

11-Year-Old Bronx Boy Is Chewed To Death By 5 Dogs While Playing

NEW YORK, July 1 (AP)—An 11-year-old Bronx boy was chewed and clawed to death today by five bull dogs, one of which apparently had gone mad, police reported.

A patrolman, investigating the incident, also was attacked and knocked to the ground by the mad dog before other policemen shot and killed the animal, authorities said.

Later another boy, Joseph Sherer, 15, saw five dogs running around and chewing on an object. Coming closer he saw the boy's bare feet, chewed to the bone, protruding from some tall grass about 200 feet from the pool.

Sherer called police. When Patrolman Louis Rissone, 31, approached the boy's body, one of the white, short-haired dogs lunged at him before he could draw his pistol and threw him to the ground. As he wrestled with the dog Sgt. Fred Werner shot and wounded the animal.

Marshall Blasts Propaganda On His European Aid Program

Says Red Charges Are "Malicious"

WASHINGTON, July 1 (AP)—Secretary of State Marshall today assailed, as "fantastic" and "malicious," Russian charges that his aid-to-Europe plan represents dollar imperialism.

At the same time, he laid down the rule that whatever aid this country grants to war-stricken nations must not be used for "selfish economic or political" purposes but for the world's peace and security.

Believed To Be Reply

This was taken as his reply to critics who have demanded to know what conditions this country would attach to its assistance. Foreign Minister Molotov of Russia is reported to have raised such a question in Paris, where he is conferring with foreign ministers of Britain and France.

This conference grew out of Marshall's suggestion in a speech at Harvard University June 5 that the European nations get together to create an economic recovery program for themselves, making use first of their own resources. He promised that the United States would support that program to the fullest extent practicable.

Marshall's remarks today, his first major speech since the Harvard address, were made before the Women's National Press Club. The occasion was the induction of Ruth Cowan of the Associated Press as the club's new president. A number of distinguished guests were present, including President Robert McLean of the Associated Press, and cabinet officers.

Marshall proclaimed four "demands" which he said the American people attach to economic assistance furnished foreign countries:

1. That it "shall be effectively used for the purpose for which it was intended" (either relief or economic reconstruction).

2. That it "should not be expended to serve selfish economic or political interests."

3. That it should be used "specifically to assist in economic rehabilitation."

To Be Used For Peace

4. That it should serve the purpose of "restoring hope and confidence among the people concerned that the world will know peace and security in the future."

Marshall spoke in general terms and did not specifically mention either the Paris meeting or Russia.

He declared that "there could be no more fantastic misrepresentation, no more malicious distortion of the truth than the frequent propaganda assertions or implications that the United States has imperialist aims or that American aid has been offered in order to fasten upon the recipients some form of political and economic domination."

Truman Uses Low Politics, Wherry Says

Criticizes Message On Rent Control Law

WASHINGTON, July 1 — (AP) — Senator Wherry of Nebraska accused President Truman of "low down political methods" and demanded that he either prosecute real estate lobbyists or "apologize to Congress."

In an angry Senate speech, the Republican Whip opened fire on the message Mr. Truman sent Congress yesterday in signing the new Rent Control Bill. The President objected to a provision permitting 15 per cent increases in cases where tenants agree in return for a lease running through 1948. He also struck at "brazen" real estate lobbyists.

Beats His Desk

Beating his desk for emphasis, Wherry shouted that the President's message constituted the use of "low down political methods."

He said he objected to the President's assertion that the operations of the real estate lobbyists bordered on the "subversive."

"I challenge him to bring one man in here who is guilty of subversive activity," Wheery thundered. "Subversive—he is putting them right in the corner with Communists. To me subversive means criminal. And if there is any criminal liability here the President of the United States should have every one of these men brought into court.

"If there are subversive activities, the Department of Justice has a job to do and the President of the United States knows it."

Earlier Senator Taylor (D-Idaho) introduced a resolution calling for an inquiry by the Senate Banking Committee of the "real estate lobby."

The resolution would authorize the committee to look into the "activities, connections, methods and financing of all organizations and groups, commonly known as the real estate lobby." It would provide for $50,000 expenses and require a report by January 1.

Calls For Investigation

The resolution would provide for investigation of groups "which are seeking to influence legislative or executive action detrimental to the maintenance of fair and stable rents and prices for new housing and to increase construction shelter xxx."

Taylor told the Senate the Republicans were guilty of political trickery in passing the rent bill.

Refering to the Idaho Senator as "that man Taylor," Wherry said he had been "sitting around here for months hearing that babbling spring of information flow on."

British Seek Food Pact With Russia

LONDON, July 1 (AP)—The British Government is negotiating with Hungary and Yugoslavia, as well as with Russia, for large quantities of food, John Strachey, food minister, disclosed today.

Strachey said the government hoped to make agreements that would "fit in well" with the aid-Europe program of United States Secretary of State George C. Marshall.

He told the House of Commons that a British mission already had obtained "agreement in principle" with the Hungarian cabinet on a three-year contract covering export to Britain of bacon, eggs, poultry, lard, sunflower oil and other foodstuffs.

He added that similar negotiations were going on with Yugoslavia and said an agreement is "quite possible" within the next few weeks.

Strachey made his statement in reply to Conservatives who accused him of lack of foresight and urged that government bulk buying be abandoned. In announcing the negotiations with Hungary and Yugoslavia, he also touched on the British trade mission now in Moscow.

"If toleration and moderation are shown by both sides," he said, "something of great value to the economy of both countries might emerge."

Strachey linked the trade negotiations directly with the Marshall plan, declaring "it is the essence of the scheme put forward on the initiative of Mr. Marshall.

House Considers Tax Cutting Bill Again

WASHINGTON, July 1—(AP)—Speaker Martin (R-Mass) said today the House is in a mood to pass quickly the revised $4,000,000,000 Income Tax Reduction Bill—but later announced it won't be called up if Senate Republican leaders should object.

"The more I think of the idea, the better I like it," said Martin. This was shortly before House and Senate GOP chieftains huddled to consider the chances of putting the new bill across.

Yugoslavia Denies Starting Trouble

LAKE SUCCESS, July 1 (AP) — Yugoslavia struck back at the United States today with a veiled reference to "open intimidation" in the Balkans and a long denial that the Belgrade government ever stirred up trouble in that area.

Dr. Joza Vilfan, New Yugoslav delegate to the United Nations and former Attorney General of his country, hit at the United States in an hour-long speech to the U. N. Security Council and, without naming names, he finally declared:

"We agree that most recently there exist in international relations methods of intimidation—not only concealed intimidation, as stated by the representative of the United States—but even open intimidation. In any event, Yugoslavia is the last country which could be accused of intimidation. But as to intimidation, the Balkan countries can tell much."

Warren R. Austin, United States delegate, charged in a sharp speech last week that Yugoslavia, Bulgaria and Albania were causing the trouble in the Balkans. A majority of the U.N. Balkans Investigating Commission already had decided that those three countries were mainly responsible for the Balkan disorders.

Danish Consul Dies

BALTIMORE, July 1 (AP) — Holger Block Jespersen, 54, Danish consul in Baltimore since 1941, died at his home today of a heart attack.

BABY, MOTHER REUNITED—Mrs. William Gale, Jr., looks down at Greta Mary Gale, 2½, in a Westwood, Calif., Hospital bed where she was brought from Lassen National Forest, the place where she was found yesterday morning after being missing for 48 hours. The child's parents Monday declared they believed she had been kidnapped.

Four More Levees Hit By Flooding Mississippi River

Torrential Rains Cause 12-Inch Rise

ST. LOUIS, July 1 — (AP) — The surging Mississippi River, concentrating its flood waters now on Missouri and Illinois lowlands burst through four more levees today with the added impetus of a 12-inch rise from torrential local rains and forced evacuation of the towns of Dupo and East Carondelet, Ill., by their combined populace of 3,100.

90 Per Cent Of Women Flee

Mayor Delmar Valine of Dupo said 90 per cent of the women and children and 50 per cent of the men had left.

The towns are across the river from the old Jefferson Barracks, Mo., Army post immediately south of St. Louis.

As the rising waters went over the prairie Du Pont levee along the Illinois Central Railroad tracks and by-passed the Missouri Pacific Railroad embankment which staved off the 1944 flood, Dupo and East Carondelet residents worked swiftly to store their furniture in box cars.

Army engineers said the finish of the four-day fight to bolster the weakened barricade might have been different except for the overnight rain which measured two and one-half inches. Most of it came in a downpour in less than a two-hour period.

Volunteer workers were caught off guard by the sudden swish of river water over the levee flank which washed out a 14-foot hole that widened to 75 feet in minutes. Army engineers passed along word to retreat to higher ground.

"We had it stopped cold until the rain came up," one engineer said as he watched the swirling water cut away the dike which days of back-breaking labor had built up.

Water Drained Off

"The ground couldn't absorb the water and it drained off but when it reached the river it came right back.

"You can't beat water. You can fight hell out of fire but you can't fight water."

In St. Louis lightning struck a streetcar and a residence and the temperature dropped 22 degrees in an hour during the rainstorm. Sewer covers were popped off by the force of runoff water and one city street was barricaded after the pavement bulged from the pressure of storm drains loaded to capacity.

Unstream and across the river a few miles from downtown St. Louis the Mississippi washed out the Chouteau-Nameoki-Venice, Ill., levee, causing immediate evacuation orders to all families still in the area. The levee was the secondary line of defense behind the Chouteau Island levee which went out yesterday.

Lost Child Found Alive On Mountain

Located 12 Hours After Tolan Dies

LASSEN NATIONAL FOREST, Calif., July 1 (AP)—Twelve hours after the shock of her disappearance caused the death of her grandfather, former Congressman John H. Tolan of California, toddling Greta Mary Gale was found alive and unharmed early today.

The two-and-a-half year old Greta, shivering in just panties in the 25-degree mountain cold, was located barely a mile from the Tolan summer cabin on the steep boulder-strewn slope of Mt. Harkness.

Rushed To Hospital

Rushed to a hospital near Westwood, she was found to be in good condition, surprisingly clean and unmussed, and apparently little the worse from the sharp night cold and 48 hours without food or water.

It was surmised she may have staged a childish version of hide-and-seek to evade searchers, who had, however, scoured every inch of the area covering three square miles around the cabin.

Veteran trappers and mountain men at Lee's Camp expressed amazement the child could have climbed the 35-degree boulder-strewn slope, and survived two nights in the mountain air. Last night the thermometer dropped to 25 degrees.

When found by Francis W. Keller, 52, veteran state lion hunter of French Gulch, Greta was huddled face down in a small grassy gully on the mountain slope above the Tolan cabin.

FBI Called In Search

Fears of kidnapping were voiced yesterday by the child's father, Assistant District Attorney William Gale, Jr., of Oakland, and the FBI dispatched agents from San Francisco to make liaison with the search party.

The death of Tolan, her paternal grandfather, was a tragic corollary to her disappearance Sunday morning.

When the child wandered away from the cabin about 10 a. m. Sunday, almost before the eyes of her mother, Tolan joined in the search.

68 Die In Blast On Italian Ship

ROME, July 1—(AP)—Sixty-eight persons were killed and several others were believed trapped below decks today when the Italian munitions ship Panigaglia exploded at Porto Santo Stefano, near Civitavecchia, the Port of Rome, the Italian News Agency ANSA reported.

The 643-ton vessel was unloading munitions which she had transported from the former Italian island fortress of Pantelleria when the blast occurred.

ANSA said that 55 crew members, 12 longshoremen and the marshal of the port were known to have been killed. Rome afternoon newspapers reported that the death toll was "more than 70."

Several hours after the blast, rescue workers reported that they heard tappings in the extreme after section of the shattered vessel, and divers immediately went to work with blow torches to cut their way into the hold to determine if there were any survivors.

Only four bodies had been recovered by this afternoon, five hours after the blast, ANSA said.

Allied Military sources in Rome said the Italian Navy had been transferring explosives from Pantelleria to the Italian mainland under terms of the Italian Peace Treaty, which calls for the demilitarization of the tiny bastion situated between Sicily and Tunis.

Crippling Blow Is Dealt By Red Army In China

Reporter Describes Ruins Of Szepingkai

(EDITOR'S NOTE: John Roderick, Associated Press correspondent who has had several "firsts" in covering various Chinese theaters since V-J day, scores again—with the first eyewitness account from Chinese Communist razed Szepingkai. Roderick was the first foreign correspondent to reach that Manchurian city, arriving only 24 hours after the Communists withdrew after burning it.)

By JOHN RODERICK

SZEPINGKAI, July 1—(AP)—Chinese Communists delivered a crippling blow to the government's Manchurian forces in the past month of battling for Szepingkai.

This city, about halfway between Changchun, the Manchurian capital, and Mukden, now is a collection of smouldering debris over which hangs the acrid smell of charred ruins and the sickening sweet odor of death.

First Reporter To Enter

I arrived in Szepingkai 24 hours after the Communists pulled out—the first foreign correspondent to enter the pummeled city.

Alighting from a Chinese transport in company with Chinese reporters, I rode through almost indescribable ruin and rubble to headquarters of Gen. Chen Ming-Zen, commander of the outnumbered 71st Army in the middle (high) school of the Victorian Athelis Teaching Society, a Canadian mission, all of whose personnel escaped unhurt.

How seriously the Nationals suffered under the maddingly persistent pounding of the Communist regulars, particularly during the past 17 days, probably will remain a military secret.

Gen. Chen, a tough Hunanese who led his troops against the Japanese in Burma, says this is by far the worst experience he has undergone. He described last lear's battle for Szepingkai as "a curtain raiser" by comparison.

He estimated that the battle for Szepingkai would rank second in severity of fighting only to the battle for Shanghai in the early days of the Sino-Japanese War.

Gives Inkling Of Losses

Chen furnished an inkling of the size of the 71st Army losses when he said that only one battalion remains of the 88th Division. It was the 88th Division that held the Central Bank Building and municipal offices in the face of murderous fire the past few days after the Communists fought into the city.

There are about 400 human beings still alive. The day before 7,000 answered roll call.

Pressed for more exact figures on the government's overall casualties, Chen said he could say only "they were brave men. Where once there were battalions, now only handfuls remain."

Truman Asked To Invoke Law On Any Strike

Authors Of Labor Bill Urge Usage

WASHINGTON, July 1 (AP)—The authors of the Taft-Hartley Labor Law called on President Truman tonight to invoke the new law to cope with any paralyzing coal strike.

Meantime, there were reports of imminent developments in contract negotiations between John L. Lewis and some segments of the soft coal industry. However, Charles O'Neill, a spokesman for the Operators Negotiating Committee, said no announcement would be made tonight.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) said now is the time to face the coal problem. He said that if a crippling strike occurs, Mr. Truman should appoint a board of inquiry under the new act.

Hartley Goes Further

Rep. Hartley (R-NJ) the other sponsor of the act, went further. He said the President should immediately name the inquiry board.

In a speech to the National Association of Personnel Directors in New York, he said the second step in combating a coal strike "is prompt action by the President through the Attorney General after receiving the report of the board of inquiry, to enjoin the strike which means that the strike is barred for a period of 60 days."

"Following that, the walkout is enjoined for another 20 days while the National Relations Board polls the employes of each employer involved to learn if they wish to accept the final terms offered by the employer," Hartley continued.

"Thirdly, should the strike take place after this machinery has been fully utilized, the President is then to submit to Congress a full report of the entire proceedings which will then provide the basis for the legislation."

At the same time, there were reports that "something may break" soon as a result of negotiations reported under way between John L. Lewis and some leading coal mine representatives.

Persons in touch with the situation said Harry Moses, head of the coal interests of United States Steel Corporation, and George M. Humphrey, Board chairman of the Pittsburgh Consolidation Coal Company, were in conference with Lewis.

There were reports that an agreement was sought on the basis of granting Lewis's demand for a 35 cent hourly wage increase, bringing the miners' pay to $13.05 for an eight hour portal-to-portal day, but repecting his demand that the levy for the United Mine Workers welfare fund be increased from 5 cents a ton to 10.

Senator Taft, co-author of the Taft-Hartley Labor law, said in a formal statement that he does not look with favor on proposals that the government continue operation of the coal mines, turned back to private owners yesterday when the Smith-Connally Plant Seizure Act expired.

Would Meet Problem Now

"It is clear," Taft said, "that sooner or later the mines must be returned to the owners and that we must some time face the problem of a new agreement between miners and operators. It would seem that now is as good a time to meet that problem as any other time."

Asserting that the Taft-Hartley Act enacted over President Truman's veto does not outlaw legitimate strikes, Taft said he has "no means of knowing who is right and who is wrong in the negotiations now proceeding between the Union and the employers."

"Certainly," he said, "no strike was justified prior to July 1, but I do not know enough at this time to condemn either the miners' union or the operators for what may happen after today."

Actress Is Sought

HOLLYWOOD, July 1 (AP) — Two men were jailed and Madge Meredith, who recently skyrocketed from studio lunchroom cashier to screen stardom, were sought for questioning today as police pressed an inquiry into the alleged kidnaping and beating of her former business manager and a companion.

Col. Kilian, Once Tried On Cruelty Charges, Sues For Army Promotion

WASHINGTON, July 1 (AP) — Col. A. Kilian, defendant in an Army military trial involving alleged cruel treatment of American troops, today filed suit in Federal District Court to require President Truman to submit his name to the Senate for promotion to the permanent rank of colonel in the regular Army.

Kilian contended in his suit that the President sent his name to the Senate for confirmation in 1946 but withdrew it. He said a new promotion list submitted to the Senate on March 31, 1947, did not include his name.

Kilian asserted that the President's action deprived him of his "rights under the constitution." The Colonel contended that the President lacked authority to remove names from promotion lists.

Kilian, of Highland Park, Ill., was tried in Germany on a charge of permitting "cruel and unusual punishment" of American soldiers imprisoned in the Replacement Depot guardhouse at Lichfield, England. He was convicted by a 7-member military court.

European Aid Meeting Gets Late Reprieve

Compromise Proposal Is Offered By France

PARIS, July 1 (AP) — France gave the Three-Power Foreign Ministers' conference a 24-hour reprieve late today by offering a last-minute compromise proposal on European recovery which averted for the moment, at least, a collapse of the conversations.

Foreign Minister Georges Bidault said the new offer represented France's final position in the three-power efforts to implement the aid-Europe plan of United States Secretary of State George C. Marshall.

Want Russian Answer

Both Bidault and British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin pressed for a prompt answer from Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov—French quarters reported — and put the French propositions up to Molotov on a take-it-or-leave-it basis.

(A Moscow radio broadcast, heard in London, quoted a Paris dispatch from Tass, Soviet News Agency, as saying Bidault's last-minute proposal did not differ "from the first French proposal or from the British plan." Molotov turned down both plans.)

Bidault advanced his proposals as a compromise measure designed to meet Russian objections against "interference" in national internal affairs, and appealed to Molotov for conciliation to salvage the aid Europe conference.

British and French sources said Molotov insisted on a full day's recess to permit him to study the French propositions. Bidault at first demanded a decision today, but Molotov said the usual practice was to allow time for study.

Bevin was said by British and French sources to have insisted that Molotov bring in a definite "yes" or "no" answer tomorrow. Molotov, however declined to commit himself.

British circles tonight were pessimistic and French sources predicted that tomorrow would be the conference's last session. Only an hour before Bidault spoke, French quarters had predicted a sudden end at today's meeting.

Bidault Opens Session

Bidault, opening this afternoon's session, told Molotov that France could not accept Russia's proposal of yesterday limiting the plan to a simple declaration by European nations as to their economic needs.

He said the Soviet proposal did not provide for European self aid and hence it would never be accepted by the United States.

Bevin spoke up in similar vein.

Bidault then made the new French proposals to establish an International Co-operation Committee, with six technical sub-committees, to draft a report on European resources and needs before September 1.

This report, which would be the basis for aid under the Marshall plan, would be submitted "for observations" to the United Nations Economic Commission for Europe at Geneva. This provision seemed designed to allay Russian suspicions by giving the U. N. general supervision over the operation of the Marshall plan.

As the security police ranged through France seeking to capture conspirators involved in the revolutionary conspiracy, it was announced that Claude Chauvel, 20-year-old son of the Secretary-General of the foreign affairs ministry, had been arrested.

Two other men, the police said, were arrested on charges of soliciting funds for the conspirators, while a warrant was issued for Count Aurouet de Merwels, described as "one of the principal members" of the revolutionary group.

Earlier, a man who described himself as a leader in the attempt to establish an "anti-Communist" government in france said in an interview that 25,000 armed men were ready to lead a "march on Paris at the appropriate moment."

The self-designated spokesman of the Black Maquis boasted the plot would not be crushed by the arrest of conspirators.

"For every one of us they arrest," he said, "there are two to take his place."

Hagerstown Hotel Damaged By Fire

HAGERSTOWN, Md., July 1—(AP)—An undetermined number of guests were forced to vacate their rooms in the Colonial Hotel here this evening when a fire broke out on the fourth and top floor of the structure.

No one was injured by the flames in the 76-room hotel, but the damage from water and the blaze was unofficially estimated at approximately $40,000.

The entire fourth floor was destroyed by the fire, with the water entering rooms below.

The blaze occurred during an electrical storm and may have been caused by a bolt of lightning, hotel officials said.

Marshall Blasts Propaganda On His European Aid Program

Says Red Charges Are "Malicious"

WASHINGTON, July 1 (AP)—Secretary of State Marshall today assailed, as "fantastic" and "malicious," Russian charges that his aid-to-Europe plan represents dollar imperialism.

At the same time, he laid down the rule that whatever aid this country grants to war-stricken nations must not be used for "selfish economic or political" purposes but for the world's peace and security.

Believed To Be Reply

This was taken as his reply to critics who have demanded to know what conditions this country would attach to its assistance. Foreign Minister Molotov of Russia is reported to have raised such a question in Paris, where he is conferring with foreign ministers of Britain and France.

This conference grew out of Marshall's suggestion in a speech at Harvard University June 5 that the European nations get together to create an economic recovery program for themselves, making use first of their own resources. He promised that the United States would support that program to the fullest extent practicable.

Marshall's remarks today, his first major speech since the Harvard address, were made before the Women's National Press Club. The occasion was the induction of Ruth Cowan of the Associated Press as the club's new president. A number of distinguished guests were present, including President Robert McLean of the Associated Press, and cabinet officers.

Marshall proclaimed four "demands" which he said the American people attach to economic assistance furnished foreign countries:

1. That it "shall be effectively used for the purpose for which it was intended" (either relief or economic reconstruction).

2. That it "should not be expended to serve selfish economic or political interests."

3. That it should be used "specifically to assist in economic rehabilitation."

To Be Used For Peace

4. That it should serve the purpose of "restoring hope and confidence among the people concerned that the world will know peace and security in the future."

Marshall spoke in general terms and did not specifically mention either the Paris meeting or Russia.

He declared that "there could be no more fantastic misrepresentation, no more malicious distortion of the truth than the frequent propaganda assertions or implications that the United States has imperialist aims or that American aid has been offered in order to fasten upon the recipients some form of political and economic domination."

Truman Uses Low Politics, Wherry Says

Criticizes Message On Rent Control Law

WASHINGTON, July 1 — (AP) — Senator Wherry of Nebraska accused President Truman of "low down political methods" and demanded that he either prosecute real estate lobbyists or "apologize to Congress."

In an angry Senate speech, the Republican Whip opened fire on the message Mr. Truman sent Congress yesterday in signing the new Rent Control Bill. The President objected to a provision permitting 15 per cent increases in cases where tenants agree in return for a lease running through 1948. He also struck at "brazen" real estate lobbyists.

Beats His Desk

Beating his desk for emphasis, Wherry shouted that the President's message constituted the use of "low down political methods."

He said he objected to the President's assertion that the operations of the real estate lobbyists bordered on the "subversive."

"I challenge him to bring one man in here who is guilty of subversive activity," Wheery thundered. "Subversive—he is putting them right in the corner with Communists. To me subversive means criminal. And if there is any criminal liability here the President of the United States should have every one of these men brought into court.

"If there are subversive activities, the Department of Justice has a job to do and the President of the United States knows it."

Earlier Senator Taylor (D-Idaho) introduced a resolution calling for an inquiry by the Senate Banking Committee of the "real estate lobby."

The resolution would authorize the committee to look into the "activities, connections, methods and financing of all organizations and groups, commonly known as the real estate lobby." It would provide for $50,000 expenses and require a report by January 1.

Calls For Investigation

The resolution would provide for investigation of groups "which are seeking to influence legislative or executive action detrimental to the maintenance of fair and stable rents and prices for new housing and to increase construction shelter xxx."

Taylor told the Senate the Republicans were guilty of political trickery in passing the rent bill.

Refering to the Idaho Senator as "that man Taylor," Wherry said he had been "sitting around here for months hearing that babbling spring of information flow on."

British Seek Food Pact With Russia

LONDON, July 1 (AP)—The British Government is negotiating with Hungary and Yugoslavia, as well as with Russia, for large quantities of food, John Strachey, food minister, disclosed today.

Strachey said the government hoped to make agreements that would "fit in well" with the aid-Europe program of United States Secretary of State George C. Marshall.

He told the House of Commons that a British mission already had obtained "agreement in principle" with the Hungarian cabinet on a three-year contract covering export to Britain of bacon, eggs, poultry, lard, sunflower oil and other foodstuffs.

He added that similar negotiations were going on with Yugoslavia and said an agreement is "quite possible" within the next few weeks.

Strachey made his statement in reply to Conservatives who accused him of lack of foresight and urged that government bulk buying be abandoned. In announcing the negotiations with Hungary and Yugoslavia, he also touched on the British trade mission now in Moscow.

"If toleration and moderation are shown by both sides," he said, "something of great value to the economy of both countries might emerge."

Strachey linked the trade negotiations directly with the Marshall plan, declaring "it is the essence of the scheme put forward on the initiative of Mr. Marshall.

House Considers Tax Cutting Bill Again

WASHINGTON, July 1—(AP)—Speaker Martin (R-Mass) said today the House is in a mood to pass quickly the revised $4,000,000,000 Income Tax Reduction Bill—but later announced it won't be called up if Senate Republican leaders should object.

"The more I think of the idea, the better I like it," said Martin. This was shortly before House and Senate GOP chieftains huddled to consider the chances of putting the new bill across.

Yugoslavia Denies Starting Trouble

LAKE SUCCESS, July 1 (AP) — Yugoslavia struck back at the United States today with a veiled reference to "open intimidation" in the Balkans and a long denial that the Belgrade government ever stirred up trouble in that area.

Dr. Joza Vilfan, New Yugoslav delegate to the United Nations and former Attorney General of his country, hit at the United States in an hour-long speech to the U. N. Security Council and, without naming names, he finally declared:

"We agree that most recently there exist in international relations methods of intimidation—not only concealed intimidation, as stated by the representative of the United States—but even open intimidation. In any event, Yugoslavia is the last country which could be accused of intimidation. But as to intimidation, the Balkan countries can tell much."

Warren R. Austin, United States delegate, charged in a sharp speech last week that Yugoslavia, Bulgaria and Albania were causing the trouble in the Balkans. A majority of the U.N. Balkans Investigating Commission already had decided that those three countries were mainly responsible for the Balkan disorders.

Danish Consul Dies

BALTIMORE, July 1 (AP) — Holger Block Jespersen, 54, Danish consul in Baltimore since 1941, died at his home today of a heart attack.

BABY, MOTHER REUNITED—Mrs. William Gale, Jr., looks down at Greta Mary Gale, 2½, in a Westwood, Calif., Hospital bed where she was brought from Lassen National Forest, the place where she was found yesterday morning after being missing for 48 hours. Four More Levees Hit By Flooding Mississippi River

Torrential Rains Cause 12-Inch Rise

ST. LOUIS, July 1 — (AP) — The surging Mississippi River, concentrating its flood waters now on Missouri and Illinois lowlands burst through four more levees today with the added impetus of a 12-inch rise from torrential local rains and forced evacuation of the towns of Dupo and East Carondelet, Ill., by their combined populace of 3,100.

90 Per Cent Of Women Flee

Mayor Delmar Valine of Dupo said 90 per cent of the women and children and 50 per cent of the men had left.

The towns are across the river from the old Jefferson Barracks, Mo., Army post immediately south of St. Louis.

As the rising waters went over the prairie Du Pont levee along the Illinois Central Railroad tracks and by-passed the Missouri Pacific Railroad embankment which staved off the 1944 flood, Dupo and East Carondelet residents worked swiftly to store their furniture in box cars.

Army engineers said the finish of the four-day fight to bolster the weakened barricade might have been different except for the overnight rain which measured two and one-half inches. Most of it came in a downpour in less than a two-hour period.

Volunteer workers were caught off guard by the sudden swish of river water over the levee flank which washed out a 14-foot hole that widened to 75 feet in minutes. Army engineers passed along word to retreat to higher ground.

"We had it stopped cold until the rain came up," one engineer said as he watched the swirling water cut away the dike which days of back-breaking labor had built up.

Water Drained Off

"The ground couldn't absorb the water and it drained off but when it reached the river it came right back.

"You can't beat water. You can fight hell out of fire but you can't fight water."

In St. Louis lightning struck a streetcar and a residence and the temperature dropped 22 degrees in an hour during the rainstorm. Sewer covers were popped off by the force of runoff water and one city street was barricaded after the pavement bulged from the pressure of storm drains loaded to capacity.

Unstream and across the river a few miles from downtown St. Louis the Mississippi washed out the Chouteau-Nameoki-Venice, Ill., levee, causing immediate evacuation orders to all families still in the area. The levee was the secondary line of defense behind the Chouteau Island levee which went out yesterday.

Lost Child Found Alive On Mountain

Located 12 Hours After Tolan Dies

LASSEN NATIONAL FOREST, Calif., July 1 (AP)—Twelve hours after the shock of her disappearance caused the death of her grandfather, former Congressman John H. Tolan of California, toddling Greta Mary Gale was found alive and unharmed early today.

The two-and-a-half year old Greta, shivering in just panties in the 25-degree mountain cold, was located barely a mile from the Tolan summer cabin on the steep boulder-strewn slope of Mt. Harkness.

Rushed To Hospital

Rushed to a hospital near Westwood, she was found to be in good condition, surprisingly clean and unmussed, and apparently little the worse from the sharp night cold and 48 hours without food or water.

It was surmised she may have staged a childish version of hide-and-seek to evade searchers, who had, however, scoured every inch of the area covering three square miles around the cabin.

Veteran trappers and mountain men at Lee's Camp expressed amazement the child could have climbed the 35-degree boulder-strewn slope, and survived two nights in the mountain air. Last night the thermometer dropped to 25 degrees.

When found by Francis W. Keller, 52, veteran state lion hunter of French Gulch, Greta was huddled face down in a small grassy gully on the mountain slope above the Tolan cabin.

FBI Called In Search

Fears of kidnapping were voiced yesterday by the child's father, Assistant District Attorney William Gale, Jr., of Oakland, and the FBI dispatched agents from San Francisco to make liaison with the search party.

The death of Tolan, her paternal grandfather, was a tragic corollary to her disappearance Sunday morning.

When the child wandered away from the cabin about 10 a. m. Sunday, almost before the eyes of her mother, Tolan joined in the search.

68 Die In Blast On Italian Ship

ROME, July 1—(AP)—Sixty-eight persons were killed and several others were believed trapped below decks today when the Italian munitions ship Panigaglia exploded at Porto Santo Stefano, near Civitavecchia, the Port of Rome, the Italian News Agency ANSA reported.

The 643-ton vessel was unloading munitions which she had transported from the former Italian island fortress of Pantelleria when the blast occurred.

ANSA said that 56 crew members, 12 longshoremen and the marshal of the port were known to have been killed. Rome afternoon newspapers reported that the death toll was "more than 70."

Several hours after the blast, rescue workers reported that they heard tappings in the extreme after section of the shattered vessel, and divers immediately went to work with blow torches to cut their way into the hold to determine if there were any survivors.

Only four bodies had been recovered by this afternoon, five hours after the blast, ANSA said.

Allied Military sources in Rome said the Italian Navy had been transferring explosives from Pantelleria to the Italian mainland under terms of the Italian Peace Treaty, which calls for the demilitarization of the tiny bastion situated between Sicily and Tunis.

Crippling Blow Is Dealt By Red Army In China

Reporter Describes Ruins Of Szepingkai

(EDITOR'S NOTE: John Roderick, Associated Press correspondent who has had several "firsts" in covering various Chinese theaters since V-J day, scores again—with the first eyewitness account from Chinese Communist razed Szepingkai. Roderick was the first foreign correspondent to reach that Manchurian city, arriving only 24 hours after the Communists withdrew after burning it.)

By JOHN RODERICK

SZEPINGKAI, July 1—(AP)—Chinese Communists delivered a crippling blow to the government's Manchurian forces in the past month of battling for Szepingkai.

This city, about halfway between Changchun, the Manchurian capital, and Mukden, now is a collection of smouldering debris over which hangs the acrid smell of charred ruins and the sickening sweet odor of death.

First Reporter To Enter

I arrived in Szepingkai 24 hours after the Communists pulled out—the first foreign correspondent to enter the pummeled city.

Alighting from a Chinese transport in company with Chinese reporters, I rode through almost indescribable ruin and rubble to headquarters of Gen. Chen Ming-Zen, commander of the outnumbered 71st Army in the middle (high) school of the Victorian Athelis Teaching Society, a Canadian mission, all of whose personnel escaped unhurt.

How seriously the Nationals suffered under the maddingly persistent pounding of the Communist regulars, particularly during the past 17 days, probably will remain a military secret.

Gen. Chen, a tough Hunanese who led his troops against the Japanese in Burma, says this is by far the worst experience he has undergone. He described last lear's battle for Szepingkai as "a curtain raiser" by comparison.

He estimated that the battle for Szepingkai would rank second in severity of fighting only to the battle for Shanghai in the early days of the Sino-Japanese War.

Gives Inkling Of Losses

Chen furnished an inkling of the size of the 71st Army losses when he said that only one battalion remains of the 88th Division. It was the 88th Division that held the Central Bank Building and municipal offices in the face of murderous fire the past few days after the Communists fought into the city.

There are about 400 human beings still alive. The day before 7,000 answered roll call.

Pressed for more exact figures on the government's overall casualties, Chen said he could say only "they were brave men. Where once there were battalions, now only handfuls remain."

Truman Asked To Invoke Law On Any Strike

Authors Of Labor Bill Urge Usage

WASHINGTON, July 1 (AP)—The authors of the Taft-Hartley Labor Law called on President Truman tonight to invoke the new law to cope with any paralyzing coal strike.

Meantime, there were reports of imminent developments in contract negotiations between John L. Lewis and some segments of the soft coal industry. However, Charles O'Neill, a spokesman for the Operators Negotiating Committee, said no announcement would be made tonight.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) said now is the time to face the coal problem. He said that if a crippling strike occurs, Mr. Truman should appoint a board of inquiry under the new act.

Hartley Goes Further

Rep. Hartley (R-NJ) the other sponsor of the act, went further. He said the President should immediately name the inquiry board.

In a speech to the National Association of Personnel Directors in New York, he said the second step in combating a coal strike "is prompt action by the President through the Attorney General after receiving the report of the board of inquiry, to enjoin the strike which means that the strike is barred for a period of 60 days."

"Following that, the walkout is enjoined for another 20 days while the National Relations Board polls the employes of each employer involved to learn if they wish to accept the final terms offered by the employer," Hartley continued.

"Thirdly, should the strike take place after this machinery has been fully utilized, the President is then to submit to Congress a full report of the entire proceedings which will then provide the basis for the legislation."

At the same time, there were reports that "something may break" soon as a result of negotiations reported under way between John L. Lewis and some leading coal mine representatives.

Persons in touch with the situation said Harry Moses, head of the coal interests of United States Steel Corporation, and George M. Humphrey, Board chairman of the Pittsburgh Consolidation Coal Company, were in conference with Lewis.

There were reports that an agreement was sought on the basis of granting Lewis's demand for a 35 cent hourly wage increase, bringing the miners' pay to $13.05 for an eight hour portal-to-portal day, but repecting his demand that the levy for the United Mine Workers welfare fund be increased from 5 cents a ton to 10.

Senator Taft, co-author of the Taft-Hartley Labor law, said in a formal statement that he does not look with favor on proposals that the government continue operation of the coal mines, turned back to private owners yesterday when the Smith-Connally Plant Seizure Act expired.

Would Meet Problem Now

"It is clear," Taft said, "that sooner or later the mines must be returned to the owners and that we must some time face the problem of a new agreement between miners and operators. It would seem that now is as good a time to meet that problem as any other time."

Asserting that the Taft-Hartley Act enacted over President Truman's veto does not outlaw legitimate strikes, Taft said he has "no means of knowing who is right and who is wrong in the negotiations now proceeding between the Union and the employers."

"Certainly," he said, "no strike was justified prior to July 1, but I do not know enough at this time to condemn either the miners' union or the operators for what may happen after today."

Members of Lewis' United Mine Workers left the pits June 26 on a 10-day vacation without any indication whether they will return to work when that time expires next Tuesday.

11-Year-Old Bronx Boy Is Chewed To Death By 5 Dogs While Playing

NEW YORK, July 1 (AP)—An 11-year-old Bronx boy was chewed and clawed to death today by five bull dogs, one of which apparently had gone mad, police reported.

A patrolman, investigating the incident, also was attacked and knocked to the ground by the mad dog before other policemen shot and killed the animal, authorities said.

Later another boy, Joseph Sherer, 15, saw five dogs running around and chewing on an object. Coming closer he saw the boy's bare feet, chewed to the bone, protruding from some tall grass about 200 feet from the pool.

Sherer called police. When Patrolman Louis Rissone, 31, approached the boy's body, one of the white, short-haired dogs lunged at him before he could draw his pistol and threw him to the ground. As he wrestled with the dog Sgt. Fred Werner shot and wounded the animal.

Col. Kilian, Once Tried On Cruelty Charges, Sues For Army Promotion

WASHINGTON, July 1 (AP) — Col. A. Kilian, defendant in an Army military trial involving alleged cruel treatment of American troops, today filed suit in Federal District Court to require President Truman to submit his name to the Senate for promotion to the permanent rank of colonel in the regular Army.

Kilian contended in his suit that the President sent his name to the Senate for confirmation in 1946 but withdrew it. He said a new promotion list submitted to the Senate on March 31, 1947, did not include his name.

Kilian asserted that the President's action deprived him of his "rights under the constitution." The Colonel contended that the President lacked authority to remove names from promotion lists.

Kilian, of Highland Park, Ill., was tried in Germany on a charge of permitting "cruel and unusual punishment" of American soldiers imprisoned in the Replacement Depot guardhouse at Lichfield, England. He was convicted by a 7-member military court.

Federal Action Against Lynching Approved In Principle, Poll Shows

Majority In South Reply Favorably

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., July 1—In the wake of the Greenville, S. C. lynching trial, public sentiment throughout the country endorses the idea of a Federal anti-lynching law, judging by the results of an Institute poll.

A majority of voters polled in the 13 Southern states say they would approve having the Federal government step in and take action if local authorities fail to deal justly with a lynching.

A Federal anti-lynch bill providing criminal penalties against local officials failing to prosecute lynchings has been proposed in Congress.

To measure the general public attitude toward the principle of Federal action, the Institute questioned a true cross-section of voters in all the 48 states on the following:

"At present, state governments deal with most crimes committed in their own state. In the case of a lynching, do you think the United States Government should have the right to step in and deal with the crime if the state government doesn't deal with it justly?"

The vote:

Yes	69%
No	20

Voters polled in the South showed a smaller vote in favor, as follows:

Southern Voters

The majority of voters feel that a Federal anti-lynch statute would serve to discourage lynchings and thus reduce their number. This belief is shown in response to a second question in the poll, as follows:

"Do you think this would reduce the number of lynchings in the United States or would it make little difference?"

In the South, however, opinion is more closely divided about the effectiveness of a Federal law in reducing lynching.

South Voters

In a companion poll, the Institute sounded the reactions of all sections, including the South, to the recent Greenville lynch case, in which a group of 31 defendants accused of lynching a Negro were acquitted.

It was found that three out of every four voters had heard or read of the Greenville affair. When asked their opinion of the outcome of the case, voters in South and in the rest of the country expressed disapproval of the acquital verdict.

Once before, in 1940, Congress debated an anti-lynch bill to provide Federal penalties on local police officers who failed to protect a prisoner from a lynch mob, and to make a county where a lynching occurred pay a fine of $10,000 to the victim's family.

When the Institute polled the country on the Gavagan bill, as the measure was called, it was found that 50 per cent favored passage, 41 per cent were opposed to the bill.

County May Be Denied Early Election System Advancement

Unless it is found that a sufficient number of those who placed their signatures to petitions to prevent the purchase of voting machines for Allegany County in time for use in the primaries in 1948 were not eligible to sign, the installation of them will be delayed until after the citizens of Allegany have had an opportunity to approve or reject the plan at the election in November, 1948. We are of the opinion they will approve.

This fight to force a referendum on the bill authorizing the County Commissioners to purchase and install voting machines was spearheaded by the president of the board, Charles N. Wilkinson, and surprisingly enough he was supported by the other commissioners—Holmes and Lemmert. By their action they have stood in the way of not only a progressive but economic move to permit annual savings to the taxpayers.

Unexpected, but not so surprising, was the aid given the County Commissioners by Mayor Thomas S. Post.

If the installation of voting machines meant constant expense to the taxpayers there might be some justification for Messrs. Wilkinson's and Post's opposition to the move. But when it has been shown conclusively that their installation could reduce the cost of elections 50 per cent annually, even though county municipalities should fail to take advantage of the opportunity to reduce the cost of their town elections by renting the voting machines, the majority of the taxpayers will find it difficult to conclude Wilkinson and Post had sound reasons for their opposition.

In face of the savings voting machines would bring to the county, Mayor Post's statement, "that such an additional burden (the purchase of voting machines) on the taxpayers who would not be justified at this time," is pure nonsense, and gives evidence that he had failed, as has been so apparent in many city affairs, to fully acquaint himself with the facts. The burden Mayor Post speaks of would be so negligible the taxpayer would probably never realize the county had purchased the machines because their payments would be spread over so many years the savings on each primary and election would provide the annual payments.

If Mr. Wilkinson had had the economic welfare of the taxpayers at heart he would never have resorted to such questionable political tactics to deprive the citizens of the county of the opportunity to reduce the costs of elections, and to deny the county the other advantages voting machines provide.

In this connection, we would like to point out that in the midst of Commissioner Wilkinson's determined effort to sidetrack for more than a year the installation of voting machines, there has come to light the fact that one out of every three ballots cast in Baltimore County in the Senatorial contest between Herbert R. O'Conor and Col. D. John Markey has been challenged in the recount now being conducted by a U. S. Senate committee.

Had voting machines been in use in the largest Maryland county outside of Baltimore City this mess would not have occurred, because a voting machine ballot cannot be thrown out because of a mark other than the voter's X. The voting machine will not permit a voter to place his ballot in jeopardy because of some unintentional pencil mark.

Voting machines give added protection against spoilage of a ballot, and are a safeguard against a voter disenfranchising himself. That is only one of the many advantages to be had through the use of voting machines.

Wilkinson and those who aided him, have gone contrary to the judgment of those in position to know what a saving voting machines would bring to the taxpayers. They defied the good intent of members of the Allegany County delegation, and Senator, to the Maryland General Assembly, in whom the citizens placed their confidence to enact bills to enable the county to install voting machines if, in their judgment, they deemed it wise.

In addition, the voting machine bills had the endorsement of both the Republican and Democratic State Central Committees for Allegany County, and the Board of Election Supervisors. And Governor Lane failed to find substance in the opposition expressed by the County Commissioners, and signed the bills.

It was to be expected the Commissioners would have accepted their defeat and would have carried out the provisions of the authorization. Instead, they disregarded all of this, and by their action will probably succeed in delaying, but not defeating, the wishes of the people for voting machines to improve our antiquated elections system.

Perhaps those restaurant workers who formerly put up sugar to resemble headache powders have been put to work putting up headache powders for taxpayers who expected a tax reduction this year.

Across A Frontier

In the infancy of science, practice commonly preceded theory. Man stumbled upon gunpowder before he learned what made it go bang. Today, theory is likely to precede practice—as when the germ theory of disease preceded antisepsis.

This month what seems to be a revolutionary advance has been made by Dr. Robert B. Woodward of Harvard. Dr. Woodward has succeeded in synthesizing substances which seem to be identical with proteins.

All proteins are made of giant molecules, which in turn are made by hooking together chains of the smaller molecules of amino-acids. Organic chemists tried for a long time to hook these amino-acid molecules together, but only Dr. Woodward succeeded.

The number of synthetic proteins which can be made is almost infinite. And so are the commercial and medical possibilities of the discovery.

Proteins are the components of animal substance—muscle, hair, nails, tendons, glands, wool, feathers, skin and leather, etc. Synthetic proteins may provide replacement for damaged body tissues which are now irreplaceable. They may give medical science a new weapon against viruses and germs, which are made of protein. Industrial uses might include synthetic wool, catgut, plastics and even leather.

None of these possibilities may materialize. And others may. But it seems clear that Dr. Woodward, who managed to synthesize quinine when the nation desperately needed it after Pearl Harbor, has made a new discovery of far-reaching possibilities.

HUMAN GASOLINE

THE body is like an engine in that it needs a constant supply of fuel to function properly. This "gas" should consist of water, minerals, vitamins, carbohydrates, proteins, and fats. When a tank is dry the engine will stop, but the human organism is different because it can manufacture from its own tissues sufficient fuel to keep going for a limited time. While this is advantageous in some ways, it represents a destructive process which imposes a severe strain upon the system.

Under certain conditions it is impossible or inadvisable to take food or water by mouth as after an intestinal infection or abdominal operation. But nourishment can be injected directly into the blood stream to tide the patient over the critical period.

Water is indispensable not only to quench thirst but to enable the kidneys to eliminate waste products and carry on their other duties. At least 2 to 3 pints daily are necessary. But this quantity may not be adequate be cause individuals who are ill, especially with fever, lose 1½ to 2 quarts via skin evaporation. Additional amounts are dissipated thru the respiratory passages with each expiration. Thus, to do the job right, from 5 to 7 pints are usually required.

Minerals are also essential to the body economy. Most important are sodium and chloride, constituents of table salt, which can be incorporated into the solutions. Carbohydrates furnish fuel and energy. One of the sugars (glucose) is generally used for this purpose because it is easily dissolved and readily assimilated.

By administering water, salt, and glucose in proper concentrations, most of the demands are met. Every hospital has sterilized bottles of such preparations handy. They are placed on a stand high above the head of the patient and connected to a needle which is inserted into a vein. With an adjuster, the material is allowed to flow freely into the circulation.

Such a mixture is extremely valuable for those who have been ill for only a short time and are in a good state of nutrition. Other cases call for supplementary food, particularly protein. This substance has many functions, the most vital of which is to act as a builder of tissue. In the past, the introduction of proteins into a vein often produced reactions which were frequently serious. This was overcome with amino acids, which are parts of the protein molecule. They are formed ordinarily by the body thru the process of digestion and consequently, when given into a vein, are utilized immediately by the patient to replenish his own supply. Blood and plasma also contain considerable protein and, as an alternative, transfusions can be employed.

Vitamins likewise can be injected. In the future, fats may also be available, and when this occurs, medical science will have another potent human gasoline for emergencies. Thus, by means of parenteral therapy, many more lives are being saved than in the past.

POTENTIAL HAZARDS

J. W. writes: What physical ailments are caused by poor tonsils and adenoids?

REPLY

If the structures are infected, possibilities include sore throat, bronchitis, ear involvement, and sinus trouble. They may also provide a nest of germs that are awaiting release. At any time they may descend to the gall bladder, kidneys, heart, or joints. If enlargement of the tissues occurs, obstruction may ensue, leading to mouth breathing or changes in the voice.

BASIL METABOLISM

T. W. writes: Do men usually have a higher basal metabolism rate than women?

REPLY

There is a difference but this is usually offset by the method of calculating the results. Thus in a man with a plus or minus 20, the findings would be the same as in a woman with a similar reading.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

Schwabs, the well-known Hollywood drug store (where many famous movie stars have been discovered), is now opening a swanky branch in Beverely Hills.

It'll probably be the only drug store in town where they serve aspirin under glass. Of course you can get it by appointment only

The grand opening will be the usual lavish Hollywood affair. They'll have searchlights crisscrossing in the sky and a spotlight on every stool.

All the products will be specially designed for the screen stars. They'll have medicine labeled "shake well and take three times a day before option drops." And makeup for comedians that you rub on early in the morning. Then by the time you get on the set your face lights up and you steal all the scenes.

And the scales will have cards telling your fortune the Hollywood way. They'll read you weigh one hundred and eight pounds, you're easy to please, and you'll be a star in three years.

The pinball machine will really be a production. When you hit the winning number the machine not only lights up, but Orson Welles narrates the Gettysburg Address while the glass slides back and fifty Goldwyn girls come up and sing "You're the Top."

I can hardly wait to get my invitation. It'll probably be uranium letters embossed on mink stationery. And the card will say "You are cordially invited to witness the unveiling of a razzberry float."

Truman Refused To Accept Old NLRB Resignations; Chief Justice Vinson Instructs New Judge On Decorum; Oil Companies Plot To Import Arabian Oil

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, July 1. — The White House kept it quiet, but Paul M. Herzog, chairman of the National Labor Relations Board, and his NLRB associates, John H. Houston and James J. Reynolds, offered their resignations privately to President Truman last week.

However, despite a vigorous demand from GOP Senator Martin of Pennsylvania that the entire board resign, the President refused to listen. Herzog told Truman that it might prove embarrassing to the three old board members to remain on the job under the Taft-Hartley labor bill which the NLRB must now enforce.

"Under the circumstances, we feel we should step aside and enable you to appoint others to our places," Herzog explained. "Some people may not have confidence in our administration of the law, since it got out to the press that we recommended a veto. Since our position is known, you might become a target of criticism, if we are charged with enforcement of the act."

"Can you administer this act fairly and in the public interest, even though you recommended a veto?" Truman asked his caller.

"Certainly we can," was the unanimous reply.

"I know you can," agreed the President. "And for that reason I am refusing to accept resignations from any of you. We've got a tough job ahead and I will need your help and experience to make a go of it."

"I was against this bill, also—so much so that I vetoed it, but I'm not quitting," Truman added brusquely. "Under our constitutional system, it is my duty to veto a bill if I do not think it is a good bill. But it is equally my duty to enforce a bill if it becomes law over my head, like the Taft-Hartley Act.

"So let's all of us get busy and see to it that this new law is efficiently carried out, night and day. You fellows can forget about quitting, I won't let you."

Jed and Judicial Decorum

Popular Chief Justice Fred Vinson descended from the marble Supreme Court building last week to the granite halls of the Department of Justice to administer the oath of office to Oklahoma's ex-Congressman Jed Johnson as a judge of the U. S. Customs Court

Various friends of the former Oklahoma congressman were on hand, including Washington lawyer Roy St. Lewis, once a federal attorney in Oklahoma City.

After he was sworn in, Johnson was introducing guests who did not know each other, and started to present St. Lewis to another friend.

"Apart from being a Republican," Johnson began, "Roy here is—"

Suddenly he stopped. The Chief Justice of the United States had plucked at his sleeve. Johnson and Vinson, a former congressman himself, whispered for a moment, then Johnson returned to finish his introduction of Roy St. Lewis.

"Let's start all over again. I forgot that I'm a judge now!"

Reason for Gas Shortage

Two-fisted Senator Owen Brewster of Maine smells a rat regarding the midwest oil shortage.

Brewster, who is one of the keenest probers in the Senate and inherited Harry Truman's old committee, has been conducting a thorough investigation of the Arabian oil situation and suspects that the so-called oil shortage, which has prompted some oil companies to reinstate gasoline rationing, is purely a fake.

Brewster has reason to believe that the big oil companies have whipped up the oil shortage story solely for the purpose of convincing Americans that oil must be imported from the Middle East. The big oil companies, he finds, plan to bring in half a million tons of Arabian oil this summer, just to convince the American public of the urgency for spending hundreds of millions of dollars to protect American oil interests in the Middle East.

Revamping Courts-Martial

GI's will now get a better break on courts-martial—if the plan of a House subcommittee goes through.

Working behind closed doors, an armed services subcommittee patched together a bill that will require no less than one-third enlisted men to sit on military courts which try fellow GI's if the defendant requests it. A two-thirds majority is necessary before punishment can be handed down. The bill also will remove the Judge Advocate's section, the Army's arm of justice, from the regular chain of command.

However, the subcommittee hasn't taken up Navy justice, recently the cause of many gripes because of the secret little court-martial. Navy courts-martial will be studied next.

Merry-Go-Round

Retiring assistant secretary of State Spruille Braden and his entire staff of Latin American experts have flatly refused to testify for the bill to arm the western hemisphere. They are convinced that arming Latin America will only bring war and dictatorship to that area. . . . Congressman Kelley of Pennsylvania, a delegate to the International Labor Organization Conference in Switzerland, may rush home because of the coal situation. Kelley owns a coal mine . . . . During the last Congressional campaign, John L. Lewis fought desperately to defeat West Virginia's Senator Harley Kilgore, a real friend of the miners. Lewis played in with Republican Senator Chapman Revercomb. But when the showdown came on labor's friends and foes on the Taft-Hartley bill, Kilgore, the man Lewis opposed, voted for labor; Revercomb whom Lewis supported, voted against labor . . . . Lewis is now getting postcards from West Virginia asking, "had enough?" . . . .

Truman's Veto Of Labor Bill Termed Foolish Party Politics

By SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL

Each House of Congress voted three times on the Labor Bill, i.e., original passage, conference report, and veto. This makes six record votes in all. In only one of the six did Mr. Truman have a majority of Democrats on his side.

In the House, the Democrats supported the bill 93 to 84; again 103 to 66, and once more, to override the veto, 106 to 71. This last was the severest repudiation of all.

In the Senate, the votes were 21 to 21 (even), 17 to 15 (a majority against Mr. Truman), and on the veto 20 to 22 (a majority of 2 for Truman).

All told, on the six different votes in the two Houses there were 360 Democratic votes for the bill, and only 279 against it.

The three votes in the House in which Mr. Truman's policy was repudiated by a majority of his own party were the more significant because every member must face the voters next year. Of the Senate, two-thirds will not feel the hot breath of the people on their necks until 1950 or 1952.

The President is the titular leader of his party, and we believe in party government. If a President vetoes bills passed by the opposition but opposed by his own party, he can count on his party's future support. But in this case, Mr. Truman, like a small-sized Ajax defying the lightning, has chosen to repudiate legislation approved by a majority of his own party and to brand them as incompetent legislators.

As a matter of party politics, this veto seems the most fool thing any President ever did. In every Congressional district and state where these Democrats reside, Mr. Truman has "sicked" the labor bloodhounds on their trails on the hottest issue in years. If he runs for re-election next year—unless he can bring about their previous defeat in the primaries—he must run on the ticket with these same Democratic congressmen and senators whom he forbade to legislate. "Veto" means "I forbid."

Will the 1948 Democratic party platform call for repeal of this bill? If Truman is the candidate, must he not demand repeal to justify his veto? But where does this leave his party associates?

What co-operation will he get from these men in his own race for re-election? If they praise him they must grovel to do so. Presidents seldom win without the wholehearted support of the "regulars." Wilkie proved that. Will the labor bosses tell their men to vote for Truman and also for the Democratic congressmen whom they now say they will defeat at any cost?

Not only in the fall elections, but in the primaries next year, Truman will be quoted to defeat the Democratic Congressmen and Senators who voted to override him. Here is some of the extravagant language Mr. Truman used: "Deny them all rights under the (Wagner) Act;" "left with no option but the use of force;" "turn in despair from peaceful procedures to economic force;" "rejects entirely the informed wisdom of those experienced in labor relations;" "such a union would have to win all its objectives by strike, rather than by orderly procedures;" etc., etc.

Ill-considered words like these will plague not only his fellow-Democrats but the country. They give moral support to strikes and lawlessness. They amount almost to an invitation to anarchy. They tie the President's hands in dealing with the national calamity of another coal strike.

Yet the man who thus condemned the Congress of the United States, proposed only a year ago to draft railroad men into the Army in peacetime and subject them to martial law! The author of the only "slave labor" bill since the Civil War vetoes a bill which has the support of millions of rank-and-file workers!

Labor Leaders Should Stop Misleading Public On New Bill

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, July 1—There's not much use for the labor-union leaders to threaten defeat for the Republicans who voted for the Taft-Harley labor bill. Even if they succeeded in election pro-union representatives in every one of the seats in the close districts, there would not be a majority in the House of Representatives to vote the repeal or drastic amendment of the new labor law.

What the labor-union leaders who are denouncing the new labor law are omitting to tell their members and the public generally is that a majority of the Democratic Party in the House of Representatives voted for the Taft-Hartley bill.

As long as there are approximately 110 southern Democrats in the House, it requires only about 108 Republican votes to make a majority.

What the labor-union folks are overlooking in their futile fight against restriction of their activities is that the House of Representatives three times passed a bill to curb labor abuses before the present law was enacted.

Votes Were Overwhelming

On each of these three occasions the vote was overwhelming. It was 258 to 129 for restriction in a measure passed in June 1940 that was even more severe in some respects than the new law.

It was 252 for and 136 against in the vote taken in December 1941 on a measure which also was highly restrictive as to labor-union practices.

The vote was 233 to 141 in 1913 when the House version of the Smith-Connally bill, later modified in conference, was adopted by the House.

In each of these cases Representative Howard Smith of Virginia, Democrat, led the fight for restriction. In each instance, the Republicans were a minority party.

The truth is that with 110 Southern Democrats, the present Republican enrollment of 245 would have to be cut down to 108, or by more than 50 per cent, in order to get a majority to permit amendment or repeal of the new law.

There are enough rural districts in the north to carry at least 108 Republicans into office no matter what the unions say or do. This means that there is not a remote possibility of labor unions winning a majority in the House until they win their battle for amendments on a fair basis in the court of public opinion.

Labor-union strategists have been unwise in assuming that only Republicans want labor-union activities restricted or abuses eliminated. It will do no good to indulge in such exhibitions of bad taste as the picketing of the wedding of Senator Taft's son in St. Joseph, Mo. last week.

It will do no good to cry out that the new law is "unworkable" and that it is going to be defied and challenged. A majority in the House of Representatives consisting of Democrats from the Southern states and Republicans from the North can keep any important amendment from passing and repeal from being voted.

Turns Tables On Labor

This, in a sense, turns the tables on the labor lobby which for nearly 14 years succeeded in running things in Congress by squelching legislation in the Senate labor committee or by trying to block action in the House labor committee. The last hurdle which the public had to overcome to get a fair bill passed was the presidential veto. Now that two-thirds of both houses have overcome this obstacle, it takes a majority of both houses to get new legislation. This means that one House by its majority can block action.

The labor-union leaders are exaggerating the ill effects allegedly to be derived from the new labor bill. These leaders are afraid to admit that the Democratic Party in the Southern states really defeated them. They are afraid to concede that the abuses of labor-union organizers in the south and misuse of the provisions of the Wagner Law by a labor-controlled board produced the backfire that aroused public sentiment.

People Fail To Read Bills

The people do not read technical provisions of these bills. They didn't read the Wagner Law, either. But when abuses occur, they side with their representatives in Congress who for many years now have tried to adjust the unbalanced situation and make labor and mangement alike toe the mark.

The labor-union leaders will be wasting their members' dues, will be losing a lot of valuable time, and will be stirring up unnecessary friction if they continue to mislead the country into believing that just the Republicans passed the labor law or that defeat of Republicans can change the situation. A majority in Congress stands ready to amend where amendments are really needed, but the labor-union leaders are off to a bad start if they think they will bring Congress to their side by displays of bad sportsmanship and bad taste.

THESE DAYS By George E. Sokolsky

GEORGE MARSHALL'S PROBLEM

THE PRESIDENT has appointed several committees here and in Europe to consider questions leading to conclusions with regard to our foreign policy, particularly the question as to how much we are to lend or give to the countries of Europe. Secretary of State Marshall delivered an address at Harvard University which was completely misunderstood by most of the European countries except Soviet Russia. Apparently the Russians grasped the fact that George Marshall could not, as Secretary of State, determine how much, if any, we are to give or lend the Europeans. He would have to go to Congress for the money and it is not likely that Congress will provide a blank check.

This is a curiously muddled situation which reflects unfavorably upon the Secretary of State's capacity to organize in the field of international economics. It is not his field. Unfortunately, George Marshall walked into a frightful situation not of his making. But that would have been true of any man who became Secretary of State at the moment of the worst degeneration of our relationship with our former allies, both the Ruslans and the British. The Greco-Turkish aid, called the Truman Doctrine, was a domestic success, but the Hungarian coup d'etat and the inability to get a loan for China from the Export-Import Bank were embarrassing.

Marshall apparently felt that he could save Western Europe from Communism by pouring huge loans into Europe, amounting to huge exports of goods and machinery to countries that cannot ever repay. Neither President Truman nor Secretary Marshall seem to grasp the extremely simple fact in economics that not money but goods must be exported; not printed paper but wheat, iron, meat, steel and all sorts of commodities, much of which is unavailable for export.

The appointment of various fact-finding committees by President Truman will solve no problem, as the Paris Conference could solve no problem. The bare facts have always been available. Those of us who for two years now have been demanding a survey of the economic condition of the United States, particularly in relationship to gifts and loans in Europe, never meant that a helter-skelter committee containing odds and ends of public men under the Chairmanship of Averell Harriman could do more than pull together data available in the Statistical Abstract of the United States or the World Almanac.

More is needed than that. An overall appraisal of this data; an analysis of its relationship to the future of this country; the projection of data, say to cover the next quarter of a century; a corelation of American with European data—this task requires extraordinary intelligence, knowledge and experience far beyond the capacity of most of the personalities appointed to these various committees. True, there are some fine persons on these committees and one hates to question their services for any reason except that the national welfare requires more. Some time ago, I suggested that Herbert Hoover, Bernard Baruch and Karl T. Compton could serve as such a board to analyze the data and to indicate a course. That suggestion apparently was unacceptable just as all suggestions, from whatever source, which could cut the Gordian Knot of our extremely complicated situation, have proved unacceptable.

The reason is that no one dares to admit that a single error has been made in our foreign policy since 1937. These errors stand out like ugly peaks: the false Atlantic Charter, the Singapore Conference, Teheran, Yalta, Potsdam, the Morganthau Plan, JCS 1067, the Spruille Braden Policy following the wild Good Neighbor Policy, the lack of clarification as to the use of the Veto, and so much else.

This country is like a neurotic woman, all tangled up, who dares not confess. Each new step leads to further complications. Each misstep involves new schemes of deception. If the entire picture were disclosed frankly, faithfully, unashamedly, the American people would not be more shocked than they are by the maddening shiftings and retreatings and sudden ejaculation which always end in a denser fog of confusion. It was hoped George Marshall, the soldier, would do what politicians and diplomats avoid—hit straight to a bull's eye. He has not done so.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

The Gospel of Earth

Earth is our Mother, and from her breast are we fed. Her smile is that from every blade of grass, from every flower, every leaf, and from every ripple that trots the stream. Her voice is that of the wind, the bird, and every swaying branch. And her spirit is the hunger of our heart. The gospel of Earth is the gospel of beauty, and there is unity in all her realm.

There is no poverty in Nature. Hers is an empire of wealth, with free gifts on every hand. Her life is one of radiation, in all directions, in all seasons, and to all peoples who would but love and appreciate. There is eloquence to every expression that she creates. Her language is simple and joyous, and there is color, in perfect blends, wherever the eye may rest.

The power behind this gospel of Earth is limitless—if we will but surrender to it, and trust its urge. It's there in farms, in roads, streams, mountains, and forests. It's in the spontaneous song of the bird, in the honest look of man's best friend, the dog. It's in the healing fragrance of the air. It's wherever the Sun's rays touch to give life and hope.

The Earth is God's apothecary shop, where every healing medicine exists for the restoration of every sick mind, body, and soul. Little do we realize the abundance that is ours. Said Shakespeare:

"The fault, dear Brutus, is not in our stars,
But in ourselves, that we are underlings."

If we would lean upon anyone, or anything, let us lean upon Nature, and trust to her revelations, be admonished by her wisdom, and take heart from her never-ending refreshment of spirit. Never does she idle. Hers is a life of movement. There is eternity in her every breath.

How full of medicine and healing is the very silence of the Earth—at early morn, or at dead of night! But we must have the right thoughts to meld with this silence, to gain its healing power.

County May Be Denied Early Election System Advancement

Unless it is found that a sufficient number of those who placed their signatures to petitions to prevent the purchase of voting machines for Allegany County in time for use in the primaries in 1948 were not eligible to sign, the installation of them will be delayed until after the citizens of Allegany have had an opportunity to approve or reject the plan at the election in November, 1948. We are of the opinion they will approve.

This fight to force a referendum on the bill authorizing the County Commissioners to purchase and install voting machines was spearheaded by the president of the board, Charles N. Wilkinson, and surprisingly enough he was supported by the other commissioners—Holmes and Lemmert. By their action they have stood in the way of not only a progressive but economic move to permit annual savings to the taxpayers.

Unexpected, but not so surprising, was the aid given the County Commissioners by Mayor Thomas S. Post.

If the installation of voting machines meant constant expense to the taxpayers there might be some justification for Messrs. Wilkinson's and Post's opposition to the move. But when it has been shown conclusively that their installation could reduce the cost of elections 50 per cent annually, even though county municipalities should fail to take advantage of the opportunity to reduce the cost of their town elections by renting the voting machines, the majority of the taxpayers will find it difficult to conclude Wilkinson and Post had sound reasons for their opposition.

In face of the savings voting machines would bring to the county, Mayor Post's statement, "that such an additional burden (the purchase of voting machines) on the taxpayers who would not be justified at this time," is pure nonsense, and gives evidence that he had failed, as has been so apparent in many city affairs, to fully acquaint himself with the facts. The burden Mayor Post speaks of would be so negligible the taxpayer would probably never realize the county had purchased the machines because their payments would be spread over so many years the savings on each primary and election would provide the annual payments.

If Mr. Wilkinson had had the economic welfare of the taxpayers at heart he would never have resorted to such questionable political tactics to deprive the citizens of the county of the opportunity to reduce the costs of elections, and to deny the county the other advantages voting machines provide.

In this connection, we would like to point out that in the midst of Commissioner Wilkinson's determined effort to sidetrack for more than a year the installation of voting machines, there has come to light the fact that one out of every three ballots cast in Baltimore County in the Senatorial contest between Herbert R. O'Conor and Col. D. John Markey has been challenged in the recount now being conducted by a U. S. Senate committee.

Had voting machines been in use in the largest Maryland county outside of Baltimore City this mess would not have occurred, because a voting machine ballot cannot be thrown out because of a mark other than the voter's X. The voting machine will not permit a voter to place his ballot in jeopardy because of some unintentional pencil mark.

Voting machines give added protection against spoilage of a ballot, and are a safeguard against a voter disenfranchising himself. That is only one of the many advantages to be had through the use of voting machines.

Wilkinson and those who aided him, have gone contrary to the judgment of those in position to know what a saving voting machines would bring to the taxpayers. They defied the good intent of members of the Allegany County delegation, and Senator, to the Maryland General Assembly, in whom the citizens placed their confidence to enact bills to enable the county to install voting machines if, in their judgment, they deemed it wise.

In addition, the voting machine bills had the endorsement of both the Republican and Democratic State Central Committees for Allegany County, and the Board of Election Supervisors. And Governor Lane failed to find substance in the opposition expressed by the County Commissioners, and signed the bills.

It was to be expected the Commissioners would have accepted their defeat and would have carried out the provisions of the authorization. Instead, they disregarded all of this, and by their action will probably succeed in delaying, but not defeating, the wishes of the people for voting machines to improve our antiquated elections system.

Perhaps those restaurant workers who formerly put up sugar to resemble headache powders have been put to work putting up headache powders for taxpayers who expected a tax reduction this year.

Across A Frontier

In the infancy of science, practice commonly preceded theory. Man stumbled upon gunpowder before he learned what made it go bang. Today, theory is likely to precede practice—as when the germ theory of disease preceded antisepsis.

This month what seems to be a revolutionary advance has been made by Dr. Robert B. Woodward of Harvard. Dr. Woodward has succeeded in synthesizing substances which seem to be identical with proteins.

All proteins are made of giant molecules, which in turn are made by hooking together chains of the smaller molecules of amino-acids. Organic chemists tried for a long time to hook these amino-acid molecules together, but only Dr. Woodward succeeded.

The number of synthetic proteins which can be made is almost infinite. And so are the commercial and medical possibilities of the discovery.

Proteins are the components of animal substance—muscle, hair, nails, tendons, glands, wool, feathers, skin and leather, etc. Synthetic proteins may provide replacement for damaged body tissues which are now irreplaceable. They may give medical science a new weapon against viruses and germs, which are made of protein. Industrial uses might include synthetic wool, catgut, plastics and even leather.

None of these possibilities may materialize. And others may. But it seems clear that Dr. Woodward, who managed to synthesize quinine when the nation desperately needed it after Pearl Harbor, has made a new discovery of far-reaching possibilities.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

HUMAN GASOLINE

THE body is like an engine in that it needs a constant supply of fuel to function properly. This "gas" should consist of water, minerals, vitamins, carbohydrates, proteins, and fats. When a tank is dry the engine will stop, but the human organism is different because it can manufacture from its own tissues sufficient fuel to keep going for a limited time. While this is advantageous in some ways, it represents a destructive process which imposes a severe strain upon the system.

Under certain conditions it is impossible or inadvisable to take food or water by mouth as after an intestinal infection or abdominal operation. But nourishment can be injected directly into the blood stream to tide the patient over the critical period.

Water is indispensable not only to quench thirst but to enable the kidneys to eliminate waste products and carry on their other duties. At least 2 to 3 pints daily are necessary. But this quantity may not be adequate be cause individuals who are ill, especially with fever, lose 1½ to 2 quarts via skin evaporation. Additional amounts are dissipated thru the respiratory passages with each expiration. Thus, to do the job right, from 5 to 7 pints are usually required.

Minerals are also essential to the body economy. Most important are sodium and chloride, constituents of table salt, which can be incorporated into the solutions. Carbohydrates furnish fuel and energy. One of the sugars (glucose) is generally used for this purpose because it is easily dissolved and readily assimilated.

By administering water, salt, and glucose in proper concentrations, most of the demands are met. Every hospital has sterilized bottles of such preparations handy. They are placed on a stand high above the head of the patient and connected to a needle which is inserted into a vein. With an adjuster, the material is allowed to flow freely into the circulation.

Such a mixture is extremely valuable for those who have been ill for only a short time and are in a good state of nutrition. Other cases call for supplementary food, particularly protein. This substance has many functions, the most vital of which is to act as a builder of tissue. In the past, the introduction of proteins into a vein often produced reactions which were frequently serious. This was overcome with amino acids, which are parts of the protein molecule. They are formed ordinarily by the body thru the process of digestion and consequently, when given into a vein, are utilized immediately by the patient to replenish his own supply. Blood and plasma also contain considerable protein and, as an alternative, transfusions can be employed.

Vitamins likewise can be injected. In the future, fats may also be available, and when this occurs, medical science will have another potent human gasoline for emergencies. Thus, by means of parenteral therapy, many more lives are being saved than in the past.

POTENTIAL HAZARDS

J. W. writes: What physical ailments are caused by poor tonsils and adenoids?

REPLY

If the structures are infected, possibilities include sore throat, bronchitis, ear involvement, and sinus trouble. They may also provide a nest of germs that are awaiting release. At any time they may descend to the gall bladder, kidneys, heart, or joints. If enlargement of the tissues occurs, obstruction may ensue, leading to mouth breathing or changes in the voice.

BASIL METABOLISM

T. W. writes: Do men usually have a higher basal metabolism rate than women?

REPLY

There is a difference but this is usually offset by the method of calculating the results. Thus in a man with a plus or minus 20, the findings would be the same as in a woman with a similar reading.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

Schwabs, the well-known Hollywood drug store (where many famous movie stars have been discovered), is now opening a swanky branch in Beverely Hills.

It'll probably be the only drug store in town where they serve aspirin under glass. Of course you can get it by appointment only.

The grand opening will be the usual lavish Hollywood affair. They'll have searchlights crisscrossing in the sky and a spotlight on every stool.

All the products will be specially designed for the screen stars. They'll have medicine labeled "shake well and take three times a day before option drops." And makeup for comedians that you rub on early in the morning. Then by the time you get on the set your face lights up and you steal all the scenes.

And the scales will have cards telling your fortune the Hollywood way. They'll read you weigh one hundred and eight pounds, you're easy to please, and you'll be a star in three years.

The pinball machine will really be a production. When you hit the winning number the machine not only lights up, but Orson Welles narrates the Gettysburg Address while the glass slides back and fifty Goldwyn girls come up and sing "You're the Top."

I can hardly wait to get my invitation. It'll probably be uranium letters embossed on mink stationery. And the card will say "You are cordially invited to witness the unveiling of a razzberry float."

Truman Refused To Accept Old NLRB Resignations; Chief Justice Vinson Instructs New Judge On Decorum; Oil Companies Plot To Import Arabian Oil

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, July 1. — The White House kept it quiet, but Paul M. Herzog, chairman of the National Labor Relations Board, and his NLRB associates, John H. Houston and James J. Reynolds, offered their resignations privately to President Truman last week.

However, despite a vigorous demand from GOP Senator Martin of Pennsylvania that the entire board resign, the President refused to listen. Herzog told Truman that it might prove embarrassing to the three old board members to remain on the job under the Taft-Hartley labor bill which the NLRB must now enforce.

"Under the circumstances, we feel we should step aside and enable you to appoint others to our places," Herzog explained. "Some people may not have confidence in our administration of the law, since it got out to the press that we recommended a veto. Since our position is known, you might become a target of criticism, if we are charged with enforcement of the act."

"Can you administer this act fairly and in the public interest, even though you recommended a veto?" Truman asked his caller.

"Certainly we can," was the unanimous reply.

"I know you can," agreed the President. "And for that reason I am refusing to accept resignations from any of you. We've got a tough job ahead and I will need your help and experience to make a go of it."

"I was against this bill, also—so much so that I vetoed it, but I'm not quitting," Truman added brusquely. "Under our constitutional system, it is my duty to veto a bill if I do not think it is a good bill. But it is equally my duty to enforce a bill if it becomes law over my head, like the Taft-Hartley Act.

"So let's all of us get busy and see to it that this new law is efficiently carried out, night and day. You fellows can forget about quitting, I won't let you."

Jed and Judicial Decorum

Popular Chief Justice Fred Vinson descended from the marble Supreme Court building last week to the granite halls of the Department of Justice to administer the oath of office to Oklahoma's ex-Congressman Jed Johnson as a judge of the U. S. Customs Court.

Various friends of the former Oklahoma congressman were on hand, including Washington lawyer Roy St. Lewis, once a federal attorney in Oklahoma City.

After he was sworn in, Johnson was introducing guests who did not know each other, and started to present St. Lewis to another friend.

"Apart from being a Republican," Johnson began, "Roy here is—"

Suddenly he stopped. The Chief Justice of the United States had plucked at his sleeve. Johnson and Vinson, a former congressman himself, whispered for a moment, then Johnson returned to finish his introduction of Roy St. Lewis.

"Let's start all over again. I forgot that I'm a judge now!"

Reason for Gas Shortage

Two-fisted Senator Owen Brewster of Maine smells a rat regarding the midwest oil shortage.

Brewster, who is one of the keenest probers in the Senate and inherited Harry Truman's old committee, has been conducting a thorough investigation of the Arabian oil situation and suspects that the so-called oil shortage, which has prompted some oil companies to reinstate gasoline rationing, is purely a fake.

Brewster has reason to believe that the big oil companies have whipped up the oil shortage story solely for the purpose of convincing Americans that oil must be imported from the Middle East. The big oil companies, he finds, plan to bring in half a million tons of Arabian oil this summer, just to convince the American public of the urgency for spending hundreds of millions of dollars to protect American oil interests in the Middle East.

Revamping Courts-Martial

GI's will now get a better break on courts-martial—if the plan of a House subcommittee goes through.

Working behind closed doors, an armed services subcommittee patched together a bill that will require no less than one-third enlisted men to sit on military courts which try fellow GI's if the defendant requests it. A two-thirds majority is necessary before punishment can be handed down. The bill also will remove the Judge Advocate's section, the Army's arm of justice, from the regular chain of command.

However, the subcommittee hasn't taken up Navy justice, recently the cause of many gripes because of the secret little court-martial. Navy courts-martial will be studied next.

Merry-Go-Round

Retiring assistant secretary of State Spruille Braden and his entire staff of Latin American experts have flatly refused to testify for the bill to arm the western hemisphere. They are convinced that arming Latin America will only bring war and dictatorship to that area. . . . Congressman Kelley of Pennsylvania, a delegate to the International Labor Organization Conference in Switzerland, may rush home because of the coal situation. Kelley owns a coal mine . . . . During the last Congressional campaign, John L. Lewis fought desperately to defeat West Virginia's Senator Harley Kilgore, a real friend of the miners. Lewis played in with Republican Senator Chapman Revercomb. But when the showdown came on labor's friends and foes on the Taft-Hartley bill, Kilgore, the man Lewis opposed, voted for labor; Revercomb whom Lewis supported, voted against labor . . . . Lewis is now getting postcards from West Virginia asking, "had enough?" . . . .

Truman's Veto Of Labor Bill Termed Foolish Party Politics

By SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL

Each House of Congress voted three times on the Labor Bill, i.e., original passage, conference report, and veto. This makes six record votes in all. In only one of the six did Mr. Truman have a majority of Democrats on his side.

In the House, the Democrats supported the bill 93 to 84; again 103 to 66, and once more, to override the veto, 106 to 71. This last was the severest repudiation of all.

In the Senate, the votes were 21 to 21 (even), 17 to 15 (a majority against Mr. Truman), and on the veto 20 to 22 (a majority of 2 for Truman).

All told, on the six different votes in the two Houses there were 360 Democratic votes for the bill, and only 279 against it.

The three votes in the House in which Mr. Truman's policy was repudiated by a majority of his own party were the more significant because every member must face the voters next year. Of the Senate, two-thirds will not feel the hot breath of the people on their necks until 1950 or 1952.

The President is the titular leader of his party, and we believe in party government. If a President vetoes bills passed by the opposition but opposed by his own party, he can count on his party's future support. But in this case, Mr. Truman, like a small-sized Ajax defying the lightning, has chosen to repudiate legislation approved by a majority of his own party and to brand them as incompetent legislators.

As a matter of party politics, this veto seems the most fool thing any President ever did. In every Congressional district and state where these Democrats reside, Mr. Truman has "sicked" the labor bloodhounds on their trails on the hottest issue in years. If he runs for re-election next year—unless he can bring about their previous defeat in the primaries—he must run on the ticket with these same Democratic congressmen and senators whom he forbade to legislate. "Veto" means "I forbid."

Will the 1948 Democratic party platform call for repeal of this bill? If Truman is the candidate, must he not demand repeal to justify his veto? But where does this leave his party associates?

What co-operation will he get from these men in his own race for re-election? If they praise him they must grovel to do so. Presidents seldom win without the wholehearted support of the "regulars." Wilkie proved that. Will the labor bosses tell their men to vote for Truman and also for the Democratic congressmen whom they now say they will defeat at any cost?

Not only in the fall elections, but in the primaries next year, Truman will be quoted to defeat the Democratic Congressmen and Senators who voted to override him. Here is some of the extravagant language Mr. Truman used: "Deny them all rights under the (Wagner) Act;" "left with no option but the use of force;" "turn in despair from peaceful procedures to economic force;" "rejects entirely the informed wisdom of those experienced in labor relations;" "such a union would have to win all its objectives by strike, rather than by orderly procedures;" etc., etc.

Ill-considered words like these will plague not only his fellow-Democrats but the country. They give moral support to strikes and lawlessness. They amount almost to an invitation to anarchy. They tie the President's hands in dealing with the national calamity of another coal strike.

Yet the man who thus condemned the Congress of the United States, proposed only a year ago to draft railroad men into the Army in peacetime and subject them to martial law! The author of the only "slave labor" bill since the Civil War vetoes a bill which has the support of millions of rank-and-file workers!

Labor Leaders Should Stop Misleading Public On New Bill

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, July 1—There's not much use for the labor-union leaders to threaten defeat for the Republicans who voted for the Taft-Harley labor bill. Even if they succeeded in election pro-union representatives in every one of the seats in the close districts, there would not be a majority in the House of Representatives to vote the repeal or drastic amendment of the new labor law.

What the labor-union leaders who are denouncing the new labor law are omitting to tell their members and the public generally is that a majority of the Democratic Party in the House of Representatives voted for the Taft-Hartley bill.

As long as there are approximately 110 southern Democrats in the House, it requires only about 108 Republican votes to make a majority.

What the labor-union folks are overlooking in their futile fight against restriction of their activities is that the House of Representatives three times passed a bill to curb labor abuses before the present law was enacted.

Votes Were Overwhelming

On each of these three occasions the vote was overwhelming. It was 258 to 129 for restriction in a measure passed in June 1940 that was even more severe in some respects than the new law.

It was 252 for and 136 against in the vote taken in December 1941 on a measure which also was highly restrictive as to labor-union practices.

The vote was 233 to 141 in 1913 when the House version of the Smith-Connally bill, later modified in conference, was adopted by the House.

In each of these cases Representative Howard Smith of Virginia, Democrat, led the fight for restriction. In each instance, the Republicans were a minority party.

The truth is that with 110 Southern Democrats, the present Republican enrollment of 245 would have to be cut down to 108, or by more than 50 per cent, in order to get a majority to permit amendment or repeal of the new law.

There are enough rural districts in the north to carry at least 108 Republicans into office no matter what the unions say or do. This means that there is not a remote possibility of labor unions winning a majority in the House until they win their battle for amendments on a fair basis in the court of public opinion.

Labor-union strategists have been unwise in assuming that only Republicans want labor-union activities restricted or abuses eliminated. It will do no good to indulge in such exhibitions of bad taste as the picketing of the wedding of Senator Taft's son in St. Joseph, Mo., last week.

It will do no good to cry out that the new law is "unworkable" and that it is going to be defied and challenged. A majority in the House of Representatives consisting of Democrats from the Southern states and Republicans from the North can keep any important amendment from passing and repeal from being voted.

Turns Tables On Labor

This, in a sense, turns the tables on the labor lobby which for nearly 14 years succeeded in running things in Congress by squelching legislation in the Senate labor committee or by trying to block action in the House labor committee. The last hurdle which the public had to overcome to get a fair bill passed was the presidential veto. Now that two-thirds of both houses have overcome this obstacle, it takes a majority of both houses to get new legislation. This means that one House by its majority can block action.

The labor-union leaders are exaggerating the ill effects allegedly to be derived from the new labor bill. These leaders are afraid to admit that the Democratic Party in the Southern states really defeated them. They are afraid to concede that the abuses of labor-union organizers in the south and misuse of the provisions of the Wagner Law by a labor-controlled board produced the backfire that aroused public sentiment.

People Fail To Read Bills

The people do not read technical provisions of these bills. They didn't read the Wagner Law, either. But when abuses occur, they side with their representatives in Congress who for many years now have tried to adjust the unbalanced situation and make labor and mangement alike toe the mark.

The labor-union leaders will be wasting their members' dues, will be losing a lot of valuable time, and will be stirring up unnecessary friction if they continue to mislead the country into believing that just the Republicans passed the labor law or that defeat of Republicans can change the situation. A majority in Congress stands ready to amend where amendments are really needed, but the labor-union leaders are off to a bad start if they think they will bring Congress to their side by displays of bad sportsmanship and bad taste.

THESE DAYS By George E. Sokolsky

GEORGE MARSHALL'S PROBLEM

THE PRESIDENT has appointed several committees here and in Europe to consider questions leading to conclusions with regard to our foreign policy, particularly the question as to how much we are to lend or give to the countries of Europe. Secretary of State Marshall delivered an address at Harvard University which was completely misunderstood by most of the European countries except Soviet Russia. Apparently the Russians grasped the fact that George Marshall could not, as Secretary of State, determine how much, if any, we are to give or lend the Europeans. He would have to go to Congress for the money and it is not likely that Congress will provide a blank check.

This is a curiously muddled situation which reflects unfavorably upon the Secretary of State's capacity to organize in the field of international economics. It is not his field. Unfortunately, George Marshall walked into a frightful situation not of his making. But that would have been true of any man who became Secretary of State at the moment of the worst degeneration of our relationship with our former allies, both the Ruslans and the British. The Greco-Turkish aid, called the Truman Doctrine, was a domestic success, but the Hungarian coup d'etat and the inability to get a loan for China from the Export-Import Bank were embarrassing.

Marshall apparently felt that he could save Western Europe from Communism by pouring huge loans into Europe, amounting to huge exports of goods and machinery to countries that cannot ever repay. Neither President Truman nor Secretary Marshall seem to grasp the extremely simple fact in economics that not money but goods must be exported; not printed paper but wheat, iron, meat, steel and all sorts of commodities, much of which is unavailable for export.

The appointment of various fact-finding committees by President Truman will solve no problem, as the Paris Conference could solve no problem. The bare facts have always been available. Those of us who for two years now have been demanding a survey of the economic condition of the United States, particularly in relationship to gifts and loans in Europe, never meant that a helter-skelter committee containing odds and ends of public men under the Chairmanship of Averell Harriman could do more than pull together data available in the Statistical Abstract of the United States or the World Almanac.

More is needed than that. An overall appraisal of this data; an analysis of its relationship to the future of this country; the projection of data, say to cover the next quarter of a century; a corelation of American with European data—this task requires extraordinary intelligence, knowledge and experience far beyond the capacity of most of the personalities appointed to these various committees. True, there are some fine persons on these committees and one hates to question their services for any reason except that the national welfare requires more. Some time ago, I suggested that Herbert Hoover, Bernard Baruch and Karl T. Compton could serve as such a board to analyze the data and to indicate a course. That suggestion apparently was unacceptable just as all suggestions, from whatever source, which could cut the Gordian Knot of our extremely complicated situation, have proved unacceptable.

The reason is that no one dares to admit that a single error has been made in our foreign policy since 1937. These errors stand out like ugly peaks: the false Atlantic Charter, the Singapore Conference, Teheran, Yalta, Potsdam, the Morganthau Plan, JCS 1067, the Sprulle Braden Policy following the wild Good Neighbor Policy, the lack of clarification as to the use of the Veto, and so much else.

This country is like a neurotic woman, all tangled up, who dares not confess. Each new step leads to further complications. Each misstep involves new schemes of deception. If the entire picture were disclosed frankly, faithfully, unashamedly, the American people would not be more shocked than they are by the maddening shiftings and retreatings and sudden ejaculation which always end in a denser fog of confusion. It was hoped George Marshall, the soldier, would do what politicians and diplomats avoid—hit straight to a bull's eye. He has not done so.

Today's Talk

The Gospel of Earth

Earth is our Mother, and from her breast are we fed. Her smile is that from every blade of grass, from every flower, every leaf, and from every ripple that trots the stream. Her voice is that of the wind, the bird, and every swaying branch. And her spirit is the hunger of our heart. The gospel of Earth is the gospel of beauty, and there is unity in all her realm.

There is no poverty in Nature. Hers is an empire of wealth, with free gifts on every hand. Her life is one of radiation, in all directions, in all seasons, and to all peoples who would but love and appreciate. There is eloquence to every expression that she creates. Her language is simple and joyous, and there is color, in perfect blends, wherever the eye may rest.

The power behind this gospel of Earth is limitless—if we will but surrender to it, and trust its urge. It's there in farms, in roads, streams, mountains, and forests. It's in the spontaneous song of the bird, in the honest look of man's best friend, the dog. It's in the healing fragrance of the air. It's wherever the Sun's rays touch to give life and hope.

The Earth is God's apothecary shop, where every healing medicine exists for the restoration of every sick mind, body, and soul. Little do we realize the abundance that is ours. Said Shakespeare:

"The fault, dear Brutus, is not in our stars,
But in ourselves, that we are underlings."

If we would lean upon anyone, or anything, let us lean upon Nature, and trust to her revelations, be admonished by her wisdom, and take heart from her never-ending refreshment of spirit. Never does she idle. Hers is a life of movement. There is eternity in her every breath.

How full of medicine and healing is the very silence of the Earth—at early morn, or at dead of night! But we must have the right thoughts to meld with this silence, to gain its healing power.

PITCHING HORSESHOES by Billy Rose

The other day my missus said, "We're having dinner tomorrow night with the Newells."

"Who dat?" I asked.

"Jane and Fred," said Eleanor. "I met them at the Milfords last week. You'll like them."

The Newell house is about a mile from our place in the country. Jane answered the doorbell when we arrived next evening. She was kind of pretty all over.

"Excuse the peasant skirt," she grinned. "I have a baby pencilled in for early fall.

Fred was in the living room listening to the radio. He had the tweedy look of the good guy in the women's magazine stories. We made chitchat for a couple of minutes before I realized he was blind. He told me he was a writer, and answered my unspoken question by explaining he dictated his stuff to his wife.

It was a fine dinner and a fine evening. Jane carried her child as if baby-having were a kind of party. I found myself laughing pretty loud at little jokes.

Around elevenish, Fred said to Jane, "Maybe the Roses would like some ice cream."

"Maybe they would," smiled Jane, "but we haven't got any. If you'll wait 20 minutes, I'll drive down to the village and get some."

"I'll go along with you," I said, "Just to make sure you don't forget chocolate."

On the way back from the ice cream parlor, I said, "Tell me about you two kids. What makes you carry on as if you had a gold mine in your cellar?"

Jane smiled. "I don't know. I guess we've been pretty lucky."

"Lucky!" I exclaimed, and then stopped, embarrassed.

"It's all right," said Jane. "Of course, it would be nicer if Fred could see, but neither of us thinks it's very important."

"How'd it happen?"

"War stuff," said Jane. "Fragments of a land mine during that business in Okinawa. We weren't married then. Fred was moved to a hospital in San Francisco. The first few letters he sent me weren't in his own handwriting. He explained he was dictating them to a nurse because he'd been wounded in the right hand. At that time there was still some hope that a special operation might restore his sight. He didn't want to tell me about his eyes until he knew for sure.

"Well, the operation was a complete miss. When Fred knew he'd never see, the darn fool wrote me I was free to marry anybody I liked. Of course, I hopped a plane to San Francisco and got my fella."

"Atta girl," I said. "Now tell me to shut my face if I'm out of line, but doesn't it ever bother you—I mean making this sacrifice . . ."

"Sacrifice, my foot," said Jane softly. "Look at this way. I'm about two years away from 30. In 10 years I'll be two years away from 40. When Fred went off to war I was 23. Real roses in the cheeks. Probably the best I ever looked in my life. No matter what happens to me from here in—wrinkles, dry skin, gray hair, babies—Fred will always see me as the fresh-faced kid he kissed good-bye in Penn Station in '42. For the guy I'm crazy about, I'll be 23 the rest of my life. Is that bad?"

"No," I said, "that isn't bad at all."

Florence Leif To Become Maurice Bernstein's Bride

Ceremony To Be Performed Saturday

Miss Florence Eleanor Leif, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert T. Leif, Meyersdale, has selected July 5 for the date of her marriage to Maurice Bernstein, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Bernstein, 836 Greene Street.

The wedding ceremony will be solemnized at 2 o'clock in the rectory of SS. Philip and James Catholic Church, Meyersdale, with Father Beightol officiating.

Miss Frances D'Amico, Meyersdale, will be the bride's maid of honor and only attendant. Henry R. Brett, Cumberland, will serve as Mr. Bernstein's best man.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Meyersdale High School, where she was a member of the Glee Club and active in dramatics and sports. Since her graduation from Memorial Hospital School of Nursing in February 1946, she has been on private duty.

Mr. Bernstein is a graduate of Allegany High School and the School of Modern Photography, New York. He is a member of the Cumberland Camera Club and Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion. A veteran of almost a year's service in the Army, he was stationed in Missouri as a radio operator. Until his resignation April 1, he was employed as staff photographer at the Celanese Corporation of America.

Miss Margaret Leif and Miss May Leif will entertain in honor of their niece and her bridal party with a wedding reception at their home, 307 North Street, Meyersdale, following the ceremony. The bridal motif will be carried out in the tiered wedding cake and decorations; they will be assisted in serving by Mrs. Mary Derry.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernstein will be hosts at an informal dinner party for their son and his fiancee tomorrow night at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

Events In Brief

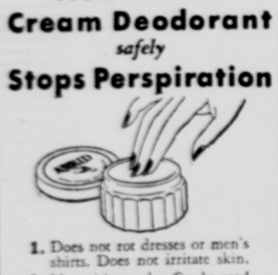

The Valley Road Homemakers Club will meet at 1:30 today at the home of Mrs. P. W. Cavanaugh, The Dingle. Mrs. J. J. Coleman will give her report of the RWSC and others attending will give highlights of the trip.

The Women's Guild of St. Mark's Reformed Church will meet at 7:30 tonight at the church.

The Rendezvous Teenager Club is sponsoring a sports wear dance Friday at the Cresaptown fire hall. Music will be by the Blue Notes Orchestra and all teenagers, even though they are not members of the club, are invited.

A moving picture, "Trees and Homes," which traces the processing of lumber from the tree to the home, will be shown at the meeting of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club in Central Y.M.C.A. at 12:15 p. m. Thursday.

Takoma Park Man Heads Twigg Clan

An election of officers for the Twigg relationship and plans for holding annual reunions were formulated at the first reunion held in honor of Daniel C. Twigg, the last surviving son of Oliver Twigg, founder of Twiggtown, Sunday at the home of Edgar O. Barnett, Green Ridge Mountain.

Charles Thomsen, Takoma Park, Washington, D. C., was elected president; Claude Twigg, Cumberland, vice president; Miss Erma Harshbarger, Cumberland, secretary-treasurer; and Mrs. Dorothy Barnes, Washington, D. C., historian.

Mrs. Alton Walston and Mrs. Oliver Blaker were appointed co-chairmen of Recreation, and Mrs. Gladys Daniels, Entertainment chairman.

It was decided that the next reunion will be held the last Sunday in June. Plans were being made to hold it at Twiggtown.

The reunion was held in the form of a basket picnic and following the organization of the clan an impromptu program was presented. There were approximately 110 members of the relationship present.

Wins 4-H Campership

The 4-H campership to Pleasant Valley Recreation Area was awarded to Adele Williams, 12, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James P. Williams, Valley Road, it has been announced. Adele was chosen by the Girl Scout Program committee for her "general attitude toward scouting and co-operation in all activities."

This is the first time the award has been made for the camp which opened Sunday under the direction of Miss Maude A. Bean and Miss Gloria Bohn. Barbara Long, La-Vale, is also attending the camp, having won a campership by placing first in the Cumberland Exchange Club contest several weeks ago.

Carol Ann Light Feted

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Light, 734 Maryland Avenue, entertained with a party for their daughter, Carol Ann, in celebration of her first birthday, Friday night. Games were played and refreshments served.

Summer Music School To Present Concert

Performance To Be Given In August

The Summer School of Music Education will give a demonstration of the results of the work in a concert at West Side School, Jack E. Platt, director of music education for Allegany County, announces.

It will be given early in August, following the final week of the Summer School, which was inaugurated in the music program this year, and consists of a six weeks course in string instruments, woodwind and brass. Classes for elementary and high school students are being held at West Side School and Central High School, Lonaconing.

The program will consist of instrumental solos, duets, trios, quartets and selection by the Summer School band. There will be 168 pupils participating in the concert.

Wilton Syckes, Harry Malcolm and S. Lua Syckes, instructors in the school, will share in directing the concert.

Ladies Aid Society Entertained At Tea

Mrs. P. W. Cavanaugh entertained members of the Ladies Aid Society of Allegany Hospital at an informal party yesterday at her home in The Dingle.

A program of various recreational games featured the entertainment during the afternoon and prizes were awarded. Mrs. Henry Gerdeman and Mrs. Mary Finan won the awards for placing the fuse in the firecracker; Mrs. Mary Keech, for the "50 yard race;" Mrs. Gerdeman, Mrs. Ralph Leonard, Mrs. Thomas O'Neal, Mrs. Fred Ruppert and Mrs. Eugene Close comprised the team which won the relay race; most clothes pins were placed in the milk bottle by Mrs. Close; Mrs. Michael O'Neal won the bean guessing contest; and other games were won by Mrs. Nelson Ressler, Mrs. Keech, Mrs. Joseph Lippold and Mrs. Cavanaugh.

A low crystal bowl of orchid Japanese iris, lavander phlox and dark green leaves on green lace doilies centered the tea table, which was covered with a cream lace cloth. Mrs. Agnes Barley presided at the punch bowl.

Twenty-five members attended and two out-of-town guests, Mrs. Paul J. Cuba and daughter, Mary Ann, Newcastle, Pa., daughter and granddaughter of the hostess.

WIFE PRESERVERS

Fourth Of July Picnic Planned By Textile Union

Preliminary plans for the annual Fourth of July picnic of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, were completed last night at a meeting of the local's special activities committee.

The all-day outing for the 3,600 members of the local and their families, will be held in Crystal Park beginning Friday at 10 a. m. and will continue until Saturday morning at 2 o'clock, Playford Aldridge, secretary of the committee, said.

Speedball and other athletic events will be scheduled as well as contests for adults and children. Free refreshments will be provided by the local.

Two bands, including the Junior Order, UAM, band of Mt. Savage, will provide music during the day and a well known local dance band will play for the dance scheduled to begin at 10 p. m. and continue until 2 a. m.

The speaking program for the meeting has been tentatively set for 7:30 p. m.

Free transportation has been furnished for the picnic. Two C. and W. buses will leave McCoole at 9:45 and 11:45 a. m. for Crystal Park by way of Westernport, Lonaconing and Frostburg.

Buses from Cresaptown will leave there at 10:30 a. m. and noon, arriving at the union hall at 11 and 12:30 and thence to the park. One bus will leave Mt. Savage at 11 a. m. and go to the park by way of Barrrelville and Corriganville.

Buses will leave the park for home at 9 p. m. and 2 a. m.

Florence Leif To Become Maurice Bernstein's Bride

Ceremony To Be Performed Saturday

Miss Florence Eleanor Leif, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert T. Leif, Meyersdale, has selected July 5 for the date of her marriage to Maurice Bernstein, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Bernstein, 836 Greene Street.

The wedding ceremony will be solemnized at 2 o'clock in the rectory of SS. Philip and James Catholic Church, Meyersdale, with Father Beightol officiating.

Miss Frances D'Amico, Meyersdale, will be the bride's maid of honor and only attendant. Henry R. Brett, Cumberland, will serve as Mr. Bernstein's best man.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Meyersdale High School, where she was a member of the Glee Club and active in dramatics and sports. Since her graduation from Memorial Hospital School of Nursing in February 1946, she has been on private duty.

Mr. Bernstein is a graduate of Allegany High School and the School of Modern Photography, New York. He is a member of the Cumberland Camera Club and Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion. A veteran of almost a year's service in the Army, he was stationed in Missouri as a radio operator. Until his resignation April 1, he was employed as staff photographer at the Celanese Corporation of America.

Miss Margaret Leif and Miss May Leif will entertain in honor of their niece and her bridal party with a wedding reception at their home, 307 North Street, Meyersdale, following the ceremony. The bridal motif will be carried out in the tiered wedding cake and decorations; they will be assisted in serving by Mrs. Mary Derry.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernstein will be hosts at an informal dinner party for their son and his fiancee tomorrow night at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

Takoma Park Man Heads Twigg Clan

An election of officers for the Twigg relationship and plans for holding annual reunions were formulated at the first reunion held in honor of Daniel C. Twigg, the last surviving son of Oliver Twigg, founder of Twiggtown, Sunday at the home of Edgar O. Barnett, Green Ridge Mountain.

Charles Thomsen, Takoma Park, Washington, D. C., was elected president; Claude Twigg, Cumberland, vice president; Miss Erma Harshbarger, Cumberland, secretary-treasurer; and Mrs. Dorothy Barnes, Washington, D. C., historian.

Mrs. Alton Walston and Mrs. Oliver Blaker were appointed co-chairmen of Recreation, and Mrs. Gladys Daniels, Entertainment chairman.

It was decided that the next reunion will be held the last Sunday in June. Plans were being made to hold it at Twiggtown.

The reunion was held in the form of a basket picnic and following the organization of the clan an impromptu program was presented. There were approximately 110 members of the relationship present.

Wins 4-H Campership

The 4-H campership to Pleasant Valley Recreation Area was awarded to Adele Williams, 12, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James P. Williams, Valley Road, it has been announced. Adele was chosen by the Girl Scout Program committee for her "general attitude toward scouting and co-operation in all activities."

This is the first time the award has been made for the camp which opened Sunday under the direction of Miss Maude A. Bean and Miss Gloria Bohn. Barbara Long, La-Vale, is also attending the camp, having won a campership by placing first in the Cumberland Exchange Club contest several weeks ago.

Carol Ann Light Feted

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Light, 734 Maryland Avenue, entertained with a party for their daughter, Carol Ann, in celebration of her first birthday, Friday night. Games were played and refreshments served.

Summer Music School To Present Concert

Performance To Be Given In August

The Summer School of Music Education will give a demonstration of the results of the work in a concert at West Side School, Jack E. Platt, director of music education for Allegany County, announces.

It will be given early in August, following the final week of the Summer School, which was inaugurated in the music program this year, and consists of a six weeks course in string instruments, woodwind and brass. Classes for elementary and high school students are being held at West Side School and Central High School, Lonaconing.

The program will consist of instrumental solos, duets, trios, quartets and selection by the Summer School band. There will be 168 pupils participating in the concert.

Wilton Sykes, Harry Malcolm and S. Lua Sykes, instructors in the school, will share in directing the concert.

Ladies Aid Society Entertained At Tea

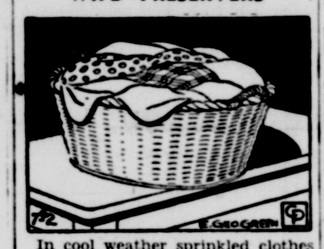

Mrs. P. W. Cavanaugh entertained members of the Ladies Aid Society of Allegany Hospital at an informal party yesterday at her home in The Dingle.

A program of various recreational games featured the entertainment during the afternoon and prizes were awarded. Mrs. Henry Gerdeman and Mrs. Mary Finan won the awards for placing the fuse in the firecracker; Mrs. Mary Keech, for the "50 yard race;" Mrs. Gerdeman, Mrs. Ralph Leonard, Mrs. Thomas O'Neal, Mrs. Fred Ruppert and Mrs. Eugene Close comprised the team which won the relay race; most clothes pins were placed in the milk bottle by Mrs. Close; Mrs. Michael O'Neal won the bean guessing contest; and other games were won by Mrs. Nelson Ressler, Mrs. Keech, Mrs. Joseph Lippold and Mrs. Cavanaugh.

A low crystal bowl of orchid Japanese iris, lavander phlox and dark green leaves on green lace doilies centered the tea table, which was covered with a cream lace cloth. Mrs. Agnes Barley presided at the punch bowl.

Twenty-five members attended and two out-of-town guests, Mrs. Paul J. Cuba and daughter, Mary Ann, Newcastle, Pa., daughter and granddaughter of the hostess.

WIFE PRESERVERS

Fourth Of July Picnic Planned By Textile Union

Preliminary plans for the annual Fourth of July picnic of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, were completed last night at a meeting of the local's special activities committee.

The all-day outing for the 8,600 members of the local and their families, will be held in Crystal Park beginning Friday at 10 a. m. and will continue until Saturday morning at 2 o'clock, Playford Aldridge, secretary of the committee, said.

Speedball and other athletic events will be scheduled as well as contests for adults and children. Free refreshments will be provided by the local.

Two bands, including the Junior Order, UAM, band of Mt. Savage, will provide music during the day and a well known local dance band will play for the dance scheduled to begin at 10 p. m. and continue until 2 a. m.

The speaking program for the meeting has been tentatively set for 7:30 p. m.

Free transportation has been furnished for the picnic. Two C. and W. buses will leave McCoole at 9:45 and 11:45 a. m. for Crystal Park by way of Westernport, Lonaconing and Frostburg.

Buses from Cresaptown will leave there at 10:30 a. m. and noon, arriving at the union hall at 11 and 12:30 and thence to the park. One bus will leave Mt. Savage at 11 a. m. and go to the park by way of Barrrelville and Corriganville.

Buses will leave the park for home at 9 p. m. and 2 a. m.

Advice To The Lovelorn

An Odd Coincidence, Or, Strange Things Happen In Miss Fairfax's Mail

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

A little while ago, I received a letter from a young man who hasn't been able to find the type of girl he is looking for. In fact, he claims "there ain't no sech animal!"

"All the girls I've met in the last two and a half years," he wrote, "have been either social bar flies, or social nincompoops, or just plain nincompoops. It would take too long to tell you what I found wrong with each girl, but after a few dates I knew she wasn't my dream girl.

This paragraph from his letter I quoted in a recent column because this correspondent was only one of a number who had sent me letters of similar tone, and I thought "the girls" might like to know how at least some of the boys were feeling.

Well, a few days after that particular column appeared in the papers I had a letter from one of "the girls" who had happened to read it and who claims to know this young man. And by some odd coincidence, she may be right. For although this column is printed in various newspapers in different sections of the country, and most correspondents who think they can identify a certain letterwriter are incorrect, this girl's letter and that of the young man in question actually do come from the same area.

If she is right in her identification, then it is very interesting to discover that the way this chap pictures himself in his letter to me, and the way he appears in person to his acquaintances as typified in the young lady who writes me, seem two quite different things. From his letter, I gathered the impression that here was a sadly disillusioned young man, hunting in vain for a girl whose conduct and general prilosophy would somehow approximate his own high standards. From the girl's description, I get an impression of a young man on the make, to whom no young woman with any standards at all would ever be attracted.

Here are some of the things she says about him:

"He has all girls wrong, and as far as I am concerned, he is a nincompoop. He likes his drinks, and wild women, and doesn't want a girl to be his wife. He would rather live with her, unmarried, and play her for a sucker if he can. If she is easy bait, and she has a job and a little money, he takes advantage of it. Then if she doesn't cater to him, he just gives her a swift kick in the pants and it's all over.

"He could be such a nice person. He has a nice disposition and personality, but otherwise he just isn't my idea of the right kind of a fellow. For a while, before I really found him out, I thought I could love him, but that all changed. I liked him more than I wanted to, and it did hurt when I realized how he was. I thought for a while that he cared for me, but he was trying me out, and when I didn't cater to him—Puff! it was over!"

As for his complaint to me that after a few dates with any girl he knew she wasn't his dream girl, his former girl friend—if, indeed, she was that—has this to say, with some bitterness:

"I'd like to know what the fellows call a dream girl. I know—a girl that doesn't exist!"

In his letter about the various types of female nincompoops, this young man said he was writing to me because he had read a column of mine titled "What makes a girl popular?" "I'd like for you to write a column on the same subject," he said, "substituting the male gender for the female . . . Let's have a nice long column on 'What makes a man popular,' and a little more light on the boy meets girl (and vice versa) subject."

Now I'm perfectly willing to offer my views on what makes a man popular. But first I'd like very much to know to which of the two characters just described—the high-minded one of the young man's letter or the questionable-minded one in the girl's letter—I'd be addressing my remarks. It would make quite a difference in what I would say.

Pittsburgh Truck Tieup Affects Local Firms

Although the month-old strike of the Teamsters and Chauffeurs Union in Pittsburgh has curtailed operations of several Cumberland trucking firms, business here has not been affected to a great degree. The chief concern here relates to items for which Pittsburgh is a distribution point.

In many cases, firms have been able to secure supplies from areas free of a trucking tieup or to resort to shipments by rail. Among trucking firms which have suspended Pittsburgh routes during the past month are the Maryland Motor Lines and the Cumberland Motor Express.

A wild goose has been photographed at an estimated height of 29,000 feet, almost 5½ miles high.

GRIN AND BEAR IT — By Lichty

"I vote no on these foreign aid bills — Imagine giving money to people who aren't even constituents!"

In 1759 Enoch Noyes invented a fine and coarse tooth comb, which was named "louse-trap." However, it launched America's first comb industry. Later Noyes introduced the 'case comb," a best seller for years. Many of his co-workers established factories in Leominster, Mass., which today leads the world in comb manufacture.

Civilian consumption of all citrus fruit, including that processed on a fresh fruit equivalent basis, is estimated at about 90 pounds per capita during 1946.

Dr. Frantz Is Named To City Health Post

The Cumberland Board of Health yesterday named Dr. Winter R. Frantz, city health officer, effective July 15, to succeed Dr. Joseph P. Franklin, who died June 15. Last week the Board of County Commissioners named Dr. Frantz, county health officer, also to succeed Dr. Franklin.

Yesterday's action by the Board of Health is subject to confirmation by the Mayor and Council next Monday. Dr. Frantz has been acting health officer since Dr. Franklin's death and was also acting health officer during the war when Dr. Franklin was in the Army.

Joins Marines -- Again

An Eckhart youth who served two months and three days in the Marine Corps last summer under the name of his stepfather because he was underage, enlisted for the second time on his 17th birthday and using his own name, according to local Marine recruiters.

He is Thomas Keller Lillard, Jr. The youth has been assigned—again—to Parris Island for boot training.

Two Permits Granted

Armanda Franchi, Hay Street, has secured a permit to build a one-story four room concrete block house on Lot 12, Eichner Avenue, at an estimated cost of $6,800. The structure will have a concrete foundation and a composition shingle roof. F. L. Thompson is the contractor.

John M. Nine obtained a permit to enclose two porches at 16 Locust Street with frame. The first story porch is 9 by 12 feet and the second floor porch is 10 by 10 feet. J. F. Jones is the contractor, and estimated cost is $350.

Capitol Limited Delayed

The Capitol Limited, a crack passenger train of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, was one hour and 25 minutes late going east through Cumberland yesterday because of the wreck of the Columbian at Westville, Ind., early Monday night. Many of the uninjured passengers transferred to the Capitol.

Due here at 5:16 a. m., a Columbian made up after the wreck was three hours and 50 minutes late in reaching Cumberland.

Dr. Frantz Is Named To City Health Post

The Cumberland Board of Health yesterday named Dr. Winter R. Frantz, city health officer, effective July 15, to succeed Dr. Joseph P. Franklin, who died June 15. Last week the Board of County Commissioners named Dr. Frantz, county health officer, also to succeed Dr. Franklin.

Yesterday's action by the Board of Health is subject to confirmation by the Mayor and Council next Monday. Dr. Frantz has been acting health officer since Dr. Franklin's death and was also acting health officer during the war when Dr. Franklin was in the Army.

Joins Marines -- Again

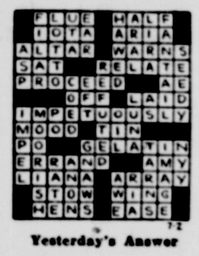

An Eckhart youth who served two months and three days in the Marine Corps last summer under the name of his stepfather because he was underage, enlisted for the second time on his 17th birthday and using his own name, according to local Marine recruiters.

He is Thomas Keller Lillard, Jr. The youth has been assigned—again—to Parris Island for boot training.

Stock Market Starts July With One Of Best Rallies In Past Six Months

NEW YORK, July 1 (AP) — The stock market today started July with one of its best rallies in six months as relatively heavy short covering and investment demand lifted leaders 1 to 3 or more points with assorted "blue chips" jumping as much as 16 and highs for the year or longer numerous.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was up 050 points at 65.3, sharpest advances since the 1.4 climb upswing of June 11 which was the widest since last Dec. 9. It was the broadest market since June 24. Of 1,012 issues appearing, 717 rose and only 131 declined.

At peaks for 1947 were Chrysler, up 3½ at 112⅜, Celanese 1 at 23½, and Standard Oil (NJ) ⅝ at 77⅛. Dow Chemical added 6 at 176, Bethlehem 3 at 87.

Ahead 1 to 2 or so were United States Steel, American Can, Westinghouse and Chesapeake & Ohio.

Forward curb movers included Electric Bond & Share, Cities Service, C. S. Merritt, United Shoe, Southland Royalty and United Light. Turnover here was 260,000 shares versus 170,000 yesterday.

Railroad issues made a good showing in the bond market today despite only limited demand. Gains of a point or more were posted at the final bell, many issues ending at the day's top marks.

A block of $400,000 of Victory Loan 2½s of Dec. 1967-'72 sold at 102 24-32, down 2-32 from the previous sale. The same issue in the over-the-counter market ended at 102 22-32 bid, off 1-32.

Stock Market Starts July With One Of Best Rallies In Past Six Months

NEW YORK, July 1 (AP) — The stock market today started July with one of its best rallies in six months as relatively heavy short covering and investment demand lifted leaders 1 to 3 or more points with assorted "blue chips" jumping as much as 16 and highs for the year or longer numerous.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was up 050 points at 65.3, sharpest advances since the 1.4 climb upswing of June 11 which was the widest since last Dec. 9. It was the broadest market since June 24. Of 1,012 issues appearing, 717 rose and only 131 declined.

At peaks for 1947 were Chrysler, up 3½ at 112⅝, Celanese 1 at 23½, and Standard Oil (NJ) ⅜ at 77⅛. Dow Chemical added 6 at 176, Bethlehem 3 at 87.

Ahead 1 to 2 or so were United States Steel, American Can, Westinghouse and Chesapeake & Ohio.

Forward curb movers included Electric Bond & Share, Cities Service, C. S. Merritt, United Shoe, Southland Royalty and United Light. Turnover here was 260,000 shares versus 170,000 yesterday.

Railroad issues made a good showing in the bond market today despite only limited demand. Gains of a point or more were posted at the final bell, many issues ending at the day's top marks.

A block of $400,000 of Victory Loan 2½s of Dec. 1967-'72 sold at 102 24-32, down 2-32 from the previous sale. The same issue in the over-the-counter market ended at 102 22-32 bid, off 1-32.

Diabetics Suffer On German Diets

AP Newsfeatures

BERLIN—German doctors in the Soviet zone are increasingly disturbed over the lack of insulin supplies for treating diabetic patients.

"Life in Germany today is twice as hard for the diabetics as for most people," one doctor explained. "The normal diet is low but, since diabetics lose sugar and burn up their calories they need to eat more. They need fats above all and that they can't get. Today a German's food consists mostly of bread and potatoes—both carbohydrates which diabetics should not eat at all."

The Soviet zone is estimated to need fourteen and a half million international units of insulin per month. Even if all producing factories could work and arrangements were tightened up to secure closer collection of all available pancreas from slaughterhouses, the doctors say only four and a half million international units would then be available, leaving a further ten million units to be imported.

They say production was particularly low in February because two of the zone's principal factories had to close through lack of coal.

Bill See Nears Records

By C. V. BURNS

Bobby Williams will not play any more baseball this season.

That's the information his father, William B. Williams, of 605 Shriver Avenue, brought home with him Sunday night from Jamestown, N. Y., where his son was injured on Thursday in a game between Hornell and Jamestown of the Pony League.

X-rays taken on Saturday showed that Bobby suffered a fractured skull following a collision with a baserunner of the Jamestown team. Williams, who is shortstop of the Hornell team, was covering second base on a double play ball. The ball thrown to him was low and as he fielded it the runner's knee struck him near the eye and knocked him unconscious. The runner who put the 170-pound Williams in the hospital tipped the beam around 200 pounds and hit the Cumberland lad while traveling at top speed.

Doctors have advised Williams to rest for six weeks before getting back on his feet. A fractured skull, they pointed out, takes time to heal, and complete rest is recommended.

It is understood that Bobby will remain at the Jamestown General Hospital for at least two weeks before being sent home. When he arrives here he will be put to bed for a period of four more weeks.

The many friends of Bobby, who saw him start his baseball career at Allegany High School, and read about his fine performances in minor league baseball, will be wishing him a speedy recovery.

There's a war going on in the golf world and George May, sponsor of the All-American tournament at the Tam O'Shanter Club at Chicago is in the middle of it.

Lew Worsham, the Oakmont, Pa., pro, who won the 1947 National Open; Ben Hogan, Hershey, Pa. pro, winner of the Chicago Victory Tournament on Sunday; Jimmy Demaret, Dick Metz and Lawson Little are skipping the $30,000 tourney this week because they don't like the way it's run.

And the PGA has hinted to extrovert May that unless there's less circus and more golf at Tam O'Shanter, he won't get dates for a tournament next year.

It didn't make the American pros any happier when May guaranteed Bobby Locke of South Africa $5,000 to play at Tam O'Shanter. Anything Locke wins will be deducted from that sum. One of the stipulations was that Bobby could not play in the Chicago Victory Tournament last week.

Frankie Sullivan, manager of the high flying Westvaco Club, current leaders of the Bi-State Baseball League, is loud in his praise of the treatment accorded his team at Hyndman, Pa., last Sunday when the Papermakers nosed out the Firemen by the score of 2-1.

"I thought the going would be tough after the exchange of pleasantries between Manager (Pete) Cook and myself in the paper but the fans apparently paid no attention to that judging from the manner in which we were treated in Pennsylvania," Sullivan said.

When his attention was called to the fact that he was the hero in Sunday's game because his pinch single in the ninth drove in the winning run, Frankie, whom we knew as "Chalk Eye" in his high school days, remarked:

"I was lucky because it was just a scratch single."

Sullivan stated that five members of the Westvaco Club are belting the ball for an average of .400 or better. They are George Pattison, "Bud" Mosser, Charley "Boob" Tysinger, Harold Robertson and Bill See.

"That kind of hitting will keep any club on top," Frankie concluded.

Bill See, pitching ace of the Westvaco Club, needs one more victory to equal the record set by James "Scotty" Stevenson, of the Potomac Edison Company team in 1934.

Thirteen years ago Stevenson, who is now clerk to the Board of Allegany County Commissioners, won 12 consecutive games. See has bagged eleven straight this season.

Stevenson's record carried over to 1935 extended to 17 straight before he was finally stopped by John Lowery and the Celanese team by the score of 3-2 in a game abbreviated by rain.

"Scotty" recalls that P. E., the visiting team, had rallied in the top half of the eighth inning, scored five runs and was leading 7-3 when [illegible] halted the battle and the score reverted to the 7th frame giving Celanese a victory.

See's last setback was on October 6, last year, when he dropped a 9-7 decision to Fort Cumberland Post, American Legion, as a relief pitcher at Community Park. He won the third and deciding game of this series on October 13 by the score of 6-1 and his 11 straight wins this year runs his two-year streak to TWELVE games.

Here's See's record:

1946: Westvaco 6, Legion 1
1947: Westvaco 14, Mt. Savage 1
Westvaco 10, Barton 1
Westvaco 14, Frostburg 1
Westvaco 3, Midland 0
Westvaco 7, Amvets 5
Westvaco 3, Mt. Savage 0
Westvaco 8, Queen City 4
Westvaco 6, Lonaconing 4
Westvaco 11, Midland 6
Westvaco 9, Frostburg 1
Westvaco 6, Hyndman 2

See has defeated every team in the ten-club Bi-State League at least once but Romney.

Al Benton Twirls 3-Hitter Against Chicago Pale Hose

Tiger Hurler Gains 2-1 Win Over Lopat

CHICAGO, July 1 (AP) — Big Alton Benton allowed only three hits today in earning his fifth triumph of the year as the Detroit Tigers defeated the Chicago White Sox, 2 to 1, for a split of their two-game series.

Detroit broke a 1-1 tie with an unearned run in the eighth inning. Jimmy Outlaw walked with one out. Pat Mullin struck out but Outlaw went to third when Cass Michaels lost Eddie Mierkowicz's pop single in the sun. Mierkowicz stole second and when Skeeter Dickey threw over Michael's head for a throwing error, Outlaw scored.

Lefty Eddie Lopat, suffering his seventh loss against five victories, allowed seven singles. Box:

Blue Jays Plan Frosh Rule For Two Sports

BALTIMORE, July 1 — (AP) — C. Gardner Mallonee, Johns Hopkins University athletics director, said today that the Blue Jays would install the freshman rule for basketball and lacrosse effective next season.

"We decided to have the freshman rule in the two sports where we felt it would work out the best and where we have the greatest amount of material," Mallonee said.

He said the school didn't have enough football material for freshman teams, and that first year men would be used on the varsity.

Sets Pacing Record

GOSHEN, N. Y., July 1. — (AP) — Forbes Chief, three-year old pacer of the Newport Stock Farm Stables, today established a course record over Goshen's historic track in winning the $4,000 pace for three-year olds which topped the card.

The brown colt toured the two lap oval in 2:03 1-5, lopping fourtenths of a second off the record set by The Widower on July 14, 1938.

Topnotch baseball teams representing the Luke, Md., and Covington, Va., plants of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company will clash today at 5:30 p. m. in Memorial Park, Westernport.

The Westvaco team from Virginia is in the running for top honors in the Cavalier State while the Luke plant team is seeking its second straight championship in the Bi-State League.

Bill See, winner of 11 consecutive games this season, is slated to start on the rubber for Manager Frankie Sullivan's team.

Three American Women Net Stars Win In England

Mesdames Osborne, Hart, Brough Score

By BILL MACKLIN

LONDON, July 1 — (AP) — Uncle Sam's nieces did today what his tennis playing nephews did yesterday—sent three players into the semi-final round of their singles division at the world - famed Wimbledon tourney.

Louise Brough

Margaret Osborne of San Francisco, Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, Calif., and Doris Hart of Miami, marched into the round of four but Mrs. Pat Canning Todd of Hidden Valley, Calif., was ousted by a 28-year old blonde from South Africa.

Mrs. Todd was the 7-5, 6-4 victim of Mrs. Sheila Summers, the first American girl of top rank to be ousted from the All-England classic by a non-U. S. player since before World War II.

Miss Osborne, seeded No. 1 in the drive to find a successor to Pauline Betz, justified her ranking by eliminating Mrs. Kay Stammers Menzies, 6-2, 6-4. Miss Brough trounced Mrs. Nancy Wynn Bolton of Australia, 6-2, 6-3. Miss Hart was the first to reach the semi-finals by defeating Mrs. Jean Bostock of England, 4-6, 6-1, 6-2. The pairings bring Miss Hart and Miss Brough together in one semi-final match, probably on Thursday, while Miss Osborne will attempt to get revenge from Mrs. Summers in the other.

The top-seeded men's doubles team of Jack Kramer and Bob Falkenberg brought the United States forces another easy triumph, the pair moving into the semi-finals with a 6-2, 6-4, verdict over Britain's Derek Barton and Geoff Paish. The first set was played before a 10-minute shower, the second immediately afterward.

Kramer plays Dinny Pails of Australia, tomorrow in one men's singles semi-finals while Budge Patty, the Los Angeles giant killer, and Tom Brown, the California law student, compete in the other.

NEW YORK YANKEES SIGN 17-YEAR-OLD NEW ENGLAND STAR

BOSTON, July 1—(AP)—The New York Yankees have signed one of Boston's best pitching prospects right under the noses of the Braves and Red Sox.

Seventeen-year-old Tommy Gallagher, three-year southpaw fast ball twirler for Somerville High for the past three years and all-scholastic choice for the last two years, was signed to a bonus contract last Thursday by Tom Whelan, principal of Lynn High School and Yankee scout.

Tommy will leave for Newark tonight where he will work out with the International League club.

Philadelphia Eagles Trade Roy Zimmerman

PHILADELPHIA, July 1 — (AP) — Quarterback Roy Zimmerman, long the passing arm of the Philadelphia Eagles, was traded to the Detroit Lions today in a surprise move Coach Earle (Greasy) Neale said was aimed at bolstering the Eagle line.

In return, the Eagles received Jim Kekeris, a huge tackle from the University of Missouri, and draft rights to Charles Hoover, 240-pound Vanderbilt University center.

Zimmerman has been one of the National Football League's standouts, both offensively and defensively, since the Eagles purchased him from the Washington Redskins after the 1942 season. In Washington he was a little-known substitute for the great Sammy Baugh.

British Champion Is Winner On Foul

LONDON, July 1—(AP)—Al Phillips retained his British Empire featherweight championship tonight when Cliff Anderson, British Guiana Negro, was disqualified for a foul blow in the eighth. Phillips weighed 125¾ and Anderson 123.

Hard rights to the body floored Phillips twice in the second round, again in the third, for a count of five, and in the sixth round he was on his back at the bell.

Lefty Grove Invited To Pilot Legion Team In All-Star Game

Forbes Field Scene Of Contest Aug. 7

Robert Moses "Lefty" Grove, of Lonaconing, major league pitching star from 1925 through 1941, and John "Honus" Wagner, Pittsburgh Pirates' shortstop from 1900 to 1917 and present coach of the National League team, have been invited to serve as managers of Western Pennsylvania District American Legion junior all-star teams in a game to be played at Forbes Field, Pittsburgh, on Thursday, August 7.

It is understood that Wagner has accepted the invitation to manage one of the boys' teams and it is believed Grove will accept, although he could not be reached by telephone last evening due to the fact that he is spending some time on the South Branch of the Potomac river on a fishing trip.

Forty boys are to be selected from American Legion junior baseball teams in Western Pennsylvania and the squad will be divided into two teams with twenty boys on each team.

Two of the forty boys chosen for the all-star contest will be presented free tickets to the 1947 World Series.

"Lefty" Grove has been serving in the capacity of adviser for the junior baseball team of Meyersdale, Pa., Post since the start of the 1947 season and he and members of the squad attended a recent game at Forbes Field, Pittsburgh.

Wagner, one of the outstanding shortstops in the National League for 18 years, has been connected with the Pirates in the capacity of coach since 1933.

Erv Dusak's Homer Wins Game In 9th

PITTSBURGH, July 1 (AP) — Despite a threat of rain and a last-place Pittsburgh ball club, another standing-room-only crowd of 37,844 was on hand tonight as the Pirates lost to the St. Louis Cardinals, 2 to 1, on a ninth inning homer by Erv Dusak.

Ernie Bonham of the Pirates and Jim Hearn were hooked up in a 1-1 pitching duel until the Cardinal centerfielder punched the ball into "Greenberg Gardens." Box:

TWO JOCKEYS HURT AT CHARLES TOWN

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va., July 1—(AP)—Two jockeys were hurt today in a spill in the running of the second race at Charles Town.

Apprentice Kenneth Williams suffered a broken arm and other injuries, while Jockey Linwood Bakhsh broke several ribs when their horses went down soon after the start of the race.

The featured Wildwood purse was won by N. S. P. Stitt's Rebline, an odds-on favorite who paid $3.20 and covered the mile and a 16th in 1:48 2-5. Second was Virginia McKenney's Aerial Gift, with Mrs. P. G. Simms' Lady Romery third.

The daily double paid $11.20 on the combination of Road Scraper and Miss Economy.

Bulla Shoots 67 For Third Place Among Qualifiers

Five U. S. Golfers Enter British Open

By GLENN WILLIAMS

HOYLAKE, England, July 1 (AP)—Curly-haired Johnny Bulla, an Arizona golfer who pilots an airplane for a living, shot a scorching 67 today and led an unbroken contingent of five Americans into the finals of the British Open and the crown being given up by Sam Snead.

Johnny Bulla

Bulla's score, which missed the day-old record of the Arrowe Park course by a single stroke, gave him a two-day card of 142 and third place in the field of 100 who tomorrow shoot the the first 18 holes of the tournament proper over the Hoylake layout.

Frank Stranahan, temperamental amateur from Toledo, Ohio, barged in with a 71 over Hoylake for 144 and fifth place. Other Americans scores were Vic Ghezzi of Kansas City, Kas., with 79-72—151; Robert Sweeney, Jr., of California and London, with 70-79—149; and Staff Sgt. Charles Jennings of Medford, N. J., and the U. S. Airforce, whose aggregate of 149 was made up of rounds of 76-73.

Norma Van Nida, tiny Australian, led the way after tacking a 69 to his first round 70 for a 139 that was three strokes better than Bulla's total and two blows less than that registered by Art Lees, little known British pro. Bert Gadd, an Englishman who holds the French open title and who set the Arrowe Park course record of 66 yesterday, zoomed to 77 today but his 143 left him in a fifth tie with Dai Rees, stubby Welshman who had 71-72—143.

Henry Cotton, British pro who ended 10 years of U. S. domination in this meet in 1934, came in with 74-72—146 that assured him of a place in the championship field and furthered his avowed intentions of regaining the trophy.

The two days of qualifying cut the field to exactly 100 golfers for the 72-hole championship which begins tomorrow morning. The figure of 155 was the magic score.

Underwrite Olympics

CHUR, Switzerland (AP) — The cantonal government of Graubunden has underwritten a guarantee of 75,000 Swiss francs (about $17,658) toward a possible deficit in the operation of the Olympic winter games at St. Moritz next Jan. 30-Feb. 8. St. Moritz is in this canton.

HERB'S IN HURRY—Herb McKenley, the Jamaican who runs for the University of Illinois, once again has cracked the accepted world mark for the quarter mile. McKenley, who finishes yards ahead of his competitors, ran the 440 in 46.3, one-tenth of a second faster than the recognized mark as the Big Nine track and field forces whipped the Pacific Coast Conference team at Berkeley, Cal.

Whitney Martin's SPORTS TRAIL

NEW YORK, July 1—(AP)—Nobody paid much attention to the big guy who stood off by himself on the dock. The reporters and photographers gathered in quantity were talking about Babe Didrikson Zaharias, whom they were going down the bay to meet on her return from a victorious golf invasion of the British Isles, and after all, the big guy was only her husband.

So he stood there, hands deep in the trouser pockets of his pin-stripe suit, a good bit of the 295 or 300 pounds he carried billowing out in front of him beneath a great expanse of white shirt. If you hadn't known he had been a wrestler, a glimpse of his ears would have told you. They looked like well-kneaded biscuit dough.

He sat silently in the stern of the tugboat going down to meet the Queen Elizabeth, staring straight ahead most of the time. Occasionally his sleepy brown eyes would meet yours and his swarthy face would crease in a slow, amiable grin.

Tell George I'm Here

As the tug pulled alongside the big ship there came an ear-piercing shrill whistle from somewhere above, followed by a woman's loud voice: "Tell George I'm here."

The Babe stood back a little from the top of the ladder from tug to ship, watching intently as each figure bobbed into view and clambered nimbly aboard. Finally there was a slight interruption in the procession and the ladder sagged noticeably.

The bulky figure of George finally emerged with ponderous dignity, and Babe ran forward eagerly to go into a clinch that would rival any movie fadeout. It was a demonstration of mutual affection and devotion good to see.

Later, after Babe had changed into her kilt costume and appeared on deck for the ordeal with photographers and reporters, George stood to one side, a big cigar protruding jauntily from his mouth, eyes seldom leaving his wife. It was the Babe's show, and he wanted it to be all hers.

Finally a picture was suggested of Babe and her husband, both wearing tams.

"Honey," she called, "Honey, come here." George ambled over like a big, tame bear and donned the headpiece she had brought for him. The rimless cap and fat cigar, topping his tremendous bulk, presented a rather incongruous appearance.

Babe, as usual, was her natural, friendly self as reporters surrounded her and hedged her in with a fence of questions. Poised, unassuming, she was in complete control of the situation, and no question stumped, or embarrassed her. You don't ask every woman her height and weight, but Babe is unperturbed by such personal queries.

Babe Weighs 146 Now

"I gained six pounds, weight 146 now," she answered promptly. "I'm five feet six."

It was mentioned she looked taller than that. The uninhibited Babe reached down, took off one high-heeled shoe, and lowered her stockinged foot to the deck, standing there lopsided, like a side-hill wampus. She laughed: "Makes quite a difference, doesn't it?"

She chatted on gaily, telling of her ordeal in standing for six hours on the train en route to Gullane, Scotland, and how she tried to get a rest by dawdling over her tea in the diner, only to be run out; of how the Scotch fans urged her to "put your lucky pants on" after she had had a bad round after changing to a skirt, and of her exhibition at the old home course of her tutor, Tommy Armour.

Through it all George stood by fairly busting with pride. The big cigar burned to a stub, his vast shirt clung to him damply in the humid air, and his collar wilted. But he didn't mind. Big George was the happiest guy on the whole blooming ship.

Phils Get Five Tallies In 6th, Top Dodgers, 5-3

Ennis' Hit Streak Stops At 19 Games

PHILADELPHIA, July 1 (AP)—The Philadelphia Phillies collected only six hits today but two of them, along with five walks in the sixth inning, produced five runs and enabled the Quakers to nip the second place Brooklyn Dodgers, 5-3.

Ennis' consecutive hitting streak was halted at 19 games as he grounded out in his first two trips to the plate and was intentionally walked in his final two appearances. The streak is the longest of the major league season so far.

Brooklyn's Jackie Robinson extended his consecutive game hitting skein to 18 by singling to center in the seventh inning. Box:

GIANTS BLAST BRAVES

NEW YORK, July 1 (AP) — Blasting five homers, the New York Giants crushed the National League's pace-setting Boston Braves, 15-3 tonight in a game that was halted at the end of seven innings because of rain.

Bob Thomson, Willard Marshall, Buddy Kerr, Walker Cooper and Johnny Mize homered for the Giants while Tommy Holmes hit two circuit drives for the Braves. Mize's four-bagger was his 21st of the season, top output in the majors. Box:

Eagles Will Meet

A meeting of the Fraternal Order of Eagles team of the Interstate Baseball League will be held tonight at 8 o'clock at the F. O. Eagles Home, North Mechanic Street.

Scout John Maher Seeks Ball Park For August 19-23

St. Louis Spokesman Meets Legion Group

Scout John J. Maher of the St. Louis Browns announced last night that the American League club will hold a baseball school here in August provided Fort Cumberland Post, No. 13, American Legion, will approve the dates for the sessions at Community Park.

Maher arrived here yesterday and last evening conferred with a number of American Legion baseball men, including Art Garbark, Eddie Diehl, Raymond "Pat" Farrell and Ralph Wilkinson, at the Legion home.

Seeks August Dates

The St. Louis scout told the Legion group that he would like to obtain use of the Wineow street park for a baseball school, August 19 to 23. The reason no approval of the dates could be given at the present time is because the post holds its annual election next week and the matter will be entirely in the hands of the new administration. Legionnaires, however, told Maher that the baseball school idea is a good one and they saw no reason why the post would not lease the park to the Browns.

Maher said the St. Louis club plans to hold schools at Orangeburg, S. C., July 15 to 19; Gainesville, Pa., July 22 to 26; Gaffney, S. C., July 29 to August 2 and Williamston, N. C., August 12 to 16.

Operate 15 "Farms"

The Browns operate 15 minor league "farms" from "D" to "AAA" classification. Among the top teams in the St. Louis chain are Toledo, of the American Association; San Antonio, Texas League; Springfied of the Three-Eye-League.

A graduate of Notre Dame University, Maher served as business manager of the Johnstown (Pa.) Middle Atlantic League team in 1936 and 1937; business manager and publicist for Art Rooney's Pittsburgh Pirates pro football team from 1935 to 1940; business manager of Pensacola in the Southeastern League in 1941 and was employed for one year as a sports writer on the New Castle, Pa. News. He also did a hitch in the army during the war. Maher is a native of New Castle, Pa., but now makes his home at Tyler, Texas, with his wife and two children.

UMPIRES ASSIGNED FOR BI-STATE TILTS

George Layman, umpire-in-chief of the Bi-State Baseball League, yesterday announced umpiring assignments as follows for Friday, Saturday and Sunday games:

Friday, July 4

Mt. Savage at Midland, Martin and Radcliffe.

Frostburg at Barton, Dunn and DiUbaldo.

Lonaconing at Queen City, Keister and Kelly.

Saturday, July 5

Amvets at Westvaco, Middleton and Davis.

Sunday, July 6

Mt. Savage at Westvaco, Blair and Keister.

Barton at Queen City, Davis and Kelly.

Double headers will be played by the league teams on July 4 and 5 with first games scheduled to start at 1:30 p. m. Sunday games will get under way at 2:30 p. m.

CASEYS PLAY TEXCEL AT PENN FIELD TODAY

The Knights of Columbus will play off a postponed game with Texcel today at 6:30 p. m. on Penn Avenue field.

Four games scheduled yesterday in the Rocking Chair Softball League were postponed on account of rain.

Bobby Thru For Season

Pro Golfers Declare War

Hyndman Fans Praised

Bill See Nears Records

By C. V. BURNS

Bobby Williams will not play any more baseball this season.

That's the information his father, William B. Williams, of 605 Shriver Avenue, brought home with him Sunday night from Jamestown, N. Y., where his son was injured on Thursday in a game between Hornell and Jamestown of the Pony League.

X-rays taken on Saturday showed that Bobby suffered a fractured skull following a collision with a baserunner of the Jamestown team. Williams, who is shortstop of the Hornell team, was covering second base on a double play ball. The ball thrown to him was low and as he fielded it the runner's knee struck him near the eye and knocked him unconscious. The runner who put the 170-pound Williams in the hospital tipped the beam around 200 pounds and hit the Cumberland lad while traveling at top speed.

Doctors have advised Williams to rest for six weeks before getting back on his feet. A fractured skull, they pointed out, takes time to heal, and complete rest is recommended.

It is understood that Bobby will remain at the Jamestown General Hospital for at least two weeks before being sent home. When he arrives here he will be put to bed for a period of four more weeks.

The many friends of Bobby, who saw him start his baseball career at Allegany High School, and read about his fine performances in minor league baseball, will be wishing him a speedy recovery.

There's a war going on in the golf world and George May, sponsor of the All-American tournament at the Tam O'Shanter Club at Chicago is in the middle of it.

Lew Worsham, the Oakmont, Pa., pro, who won the 1947 National Open; Ben Hogan, Hershey, Pa. pro, winner of the Chicago Victory Tournament on Sunday; Jimmy Demaret, Dick Metz and Lawson Little are skipping the $30,000 tourney this week because they don't like the way it's run.

And the PGA has hinted to extrovert May that unless there's less circus and more golf at Tam O'Shanter, he won't get dates for a tournament next year.

It didn't make the American pros any happier when May guaranteed Bobby Locke of South Africa $5,000 to play at Tam O'Shanter. Anything Locke wins will be deducted from that sum. One of the stipulations was that Bobby could not play in the Chicago Victory Tournament last week.

Frankie Sullivan, manager of the high flying Westvaco Club, current leaders of the Bi-State Baseball League, is loud in his praise of the treatment accorded his team at Hyndman, Pa., last Sunday when the Papermakers nosed out the Firemen by the score of 2-1.

"I thought the going would be tough after the exchange of pleasantries between Manager (Pete) Cook and myself in the paper but the fans apparently paid no attention to that judging from the manner in which we were treated in Pennsylvania," Sullivan said.

When his attention was called to the fact that he was the hero in Sunday's game because his pinch single in the ninth drove in the winning run, Frankie, whom we knew as "Chalk Eye" in his high school days, remarked:

"I was lucky because it was just a scratch single."

Sullivan stated that five members of the Westvaco Club are belting the ball for an average of .400 or better. They are George Pattison, "Bud" Mosser, Charley "Boob" Tysinger, Harold Robertson and Bill See.

"That kind of hitting will keep any club on top," Frankie concluded.

Bill See, pitching ace of the Westvaco Club, needs one more victory to equal the record set by James "Scotty" Stevenson, of the Potomac Edison Company team in 1934.

Thirteen years ago Stevenson, who is now clerk to the Board of Allegany County Commissioners, won 12 consecutive games. See has bagged eleven straight this season.

Stevenson's record carried over to 1935 extended to 17 straight before he was finally stopped by John Lowery and the Celanese team by the score of 3-2 in a game abbreviated by rain.

"Scotty" recalls that P. E., the visiting team, had rallied in the top half of the eighth inning, scored five runs and was leading 7-3 when [illegible] halted the battle and the score reverted to the 7th frame giving Celanese a victory.

See's last setback was on October 6, last year, when he dropped a 9-7 decision to Fort Cumberland Post, American Legion, as a relief pitcher at Community Park. He won the third and deciding game of this series on October 13 by the score of 6-1 and his 11 straight wins this year runs his two-year streak to TWELVE games.

Here's See's record:

1946: Westvaco 6, Legion 1
1947: Westvaco 14, Mt. Savage 1
Westvaco 10, Barton 1
Westvaco 14, Frostburg 1
Westvaco 3, Midland 0
Westvaco 7, Amvets 5
Westvaco 3, Mt. Savage 0
Westvaco 8, Queen City 4
Westvaco 6, Lonaconing 4
Westvaco 11, Midland 6
Westvaco 9, Frostburg 1
Westvaco 6, Hyndman 2

See has defeated every team in the ten-club Bi-State League at least once but Romney.

Al Benton Twirls 3-Hitter Against Chicago Pale Hose

Tiger Hurler Gains 2-1 Win Over Lopat

CHICAGO, July 1 (AP) — Big Alton Benton allowed only three hits today in earning his fifth triumph of the year as the Detroit Tigers defeated the Chicago White Sox, 2 to 1, for a split of their two-game series.

Detroit broke a 1-1 tie with an unearned run in the eighth inning. Jimmy Outlaw walked with one out. Pat Mullin struck out but Outlaw went to third when Cass Michaels lost Eddie Mierkowicz's pop single in the sun. Mierkowicz stole second and when Skeeter Dickey threw over Michael's head for a throwing error, Outlaw scored.

Lefty Eddie Lopat, suffering his seventh loss against five victories, allowed seven singles. Box:

Blue Jays Plan Frosh Rule For Two Sports

BALTIMORE, July 1 — (AP) — C. Gardner Mallonee, Johns Hopkins University athletics director, said today that the Blue Jays would install the freshman rule for basketball and lacrosse effective next season.

"We decided to have the freshman rule in the two sports where we felt it would work out the best and where we have the greatest amount of material," Mallonee said.

He said the school didn't have enough football material for freshman teams, and that first year men would be used on the varsity.

Sets Pacing Record

GOSHEN, N. Y., July 1. — (AP) — Forbes Chief, three-year old pacer of the Newport Stock Farm Stables, today established a course record over Goshen's historic track in winning the $4,000 pace for three-year olds which topped the card.

The brown colt toured the two lap oval in 2:03 1-5, lopping four-tenths of a second off the record set by The Widower on July 14, 1938.

Three American Women Net Stars Win In England

Mesdames Osborne, Hart, Brough Score

By BILL MACKLIN

LONDON, July 1 — (AP) — Uncle Sam's nieces did today what his tennis playing nephews did yesterday—sent three players into the semi-final round of their singles division at the world - famed Wimbledon tourney.

Louise Brough

Margaret Osborne of San Francisco, Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, Calif., and Doris Hart of Miami, marched into the round of four but Mrs. Pat Canning Todd of Hidden Valley, Calif., was ousted by a 28-year old blonde from South Africa.

Mrs. Todd was the 7-5, 6-4 victim of Mrs. Sheila Summers, the first American girl of top rank to be ousted from the All-England classic by a non-U. S. player since before World War II.

Miss Osborne, seeded No. 1 in the drive to find a successor to Pauline Betz, justified her ranking by eliminating Mrs. Kay Stammers Menzies, 6-2, 6-4. Miss Brough trounced Mrs. Nancy Wynn Bolton of Australia, 6-2, 6-3. Miss Hart was the first to reach the semi-finals by defeating Mrs. Jean Bostock of England, 4-6, 6-1, 6-2. The pairings bring Miss Hart and Miss Brough together in one semi-final match, probably on Thursday, while Miss Osborne will attempt to get revenge from Mrs. Summers in the other.

The top-seeded men's doubles team of Jack Kramer and Bob Falkenberg brought the United States forces another easy triumph, the pair moving into the semi-finals with a 6-2, 6-4, verdict over Britain's Derek Barton and Geoff Paish. The first set was played before a 10-minute shower, the second immediately afterward.

Kramer plays Dinny Pails of Australia, tomorrow in one men's singles semi-finals while Budge Patty, the Los Angeles giant killer, and Tom Brown, the California law student, compete in the other.

NEW YORK YANKEES SIGN 17-YEAR-OLD NEW ENGLAND STAR

BOSTON, July 1—(AP)—The New York Yankees have signed one of Boston's best pitching prospects right under the noses of the Braves and Red Sox.

Seventeen-year-old Tommy Gallagher, three-year southpaw fast ball twirler for Somerville High for the past three years and all-scholastic choice for the last two years, was signed to a bonus contract last Thursday by Tom Whelan, principal of Lynn High School and Yankee scout.

Tommy will leave for Newark tonight where he will work out with the International League club.

Philadelphia Eagles Trade Roy Zimmerman

PHILADELPHIA, July 1 — (AP) — Quarterback Roy Zimmerman, long the passing arm of the Philadelphia Eagles, was traded to the Detroit Lions today in a surprise move Coach Earle (Greasy) Neale said was aimed at bolstering the Eagle line.

In return, the Eagles received Jim Kekeris, a huge tackle from the University of Missouri, and draft rights to Charles Hoover, 240-pound Vanderbilt University center.

Zimmerman has been one of the National Football League's standouts, both offensively and defensively, since the Eagles purchased him from the Washington Redskins after the 1942 season. In Washington he was a little-known substitute for the great Sammy Baugh.

British Champion Is Winner On Foul

LONDON, July 1—(AP)—Al Phillips retained his British Empire featherweight championship tonight when Cliff Anderson, British Guiana Negro, was disqualified for a foul blow in the eighth. Phillips weighed 125¾ and Anderson 123.

Hard rights to the body floored Phillips twice in the second round, again in the third, for a count of five, and in the sixth round he was on his back at the bell.

Lefty Grove Invited To Pilot Legion Team In All-Star Game

Forbes Field Scene Of Contest Aug. 7

Robert Moses "Lefty" Grove, of Lonaconing, major league pitching star from 1925 through 1941, and John "Honus" Wagner, Pittsburgh Pirates' shortstop from 1900 to 1917 and present coach of the National League team, have been invited to serve as managers of Western Pennsylvania District American Legion junior all-star teams in a game to be played at Forbes Field, Pittsburgh, on Thursday, August 7.

It is understood that Wagner has accepted the invitation to manage one of the boys' teams and it is believed Grove will accept, although he could not be reached by telephone last evening due to the fact that he is spending some time on the South Branch of the Potomac river on a fishing trip.

Forty boys are to be selected from American Legion junior baseball teams in Western Pennsylvania and the squad will be divided into two teams with twenty boys on each team.

Two of the forty boys chosen for the all-star contest will be presented free tickets to the 1947 World Series.

"Lefty" Grove has been serving in the capacity of adviser for the junior baseball team of Meyersdale, Pa., Post since the start of the 1947 season and he and members of the squad attended a recent game at Forbes Field, Pittsburgh.

Wagner, one of the outstanding shortstops in the National League for 18 years, has been connected with the Pirates in the capacity of coach since 1933.

TWO JOCKEYS HURT AT CHARLES TOWN

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va., July 1—(AP)—Two jockeys were hurt today in a spill in the running of the second race at Charles Town.

Apprentice Kenneth Williams suffered a broken arm and other injuries, while Jockey Linwood Bakhsh broke several ribs when their horses went down soon after the start of the race.

The featured Wildwood purse was won by N. S. P. Stitt's Rebline, an odds-on favorite who paid $3.20 and covered the mile and a 16th in 1:48 2-5. Second was Virginia McKenney's Aerial Gift, with Mrs. P. G. Simms' Lady Romery third.

The daily double paid $11.20 on the combination of Road Scraper and Miss Economy.

Five U. S. Golfers Enter British Open

By GLENN WILLIAMS

HOYLAKE, England, July 1 (AP)—Curly-haired Johnny Bulla, an Arizona golfer who pilots an airplane for a living, shot a scorching 67 today and led an unbroken contingent of five Americans into the finals of the British Open and the crown being given up by Sam Snead.

Johnny Bulla

Bulla's score, which missed the day-old record of the Arrowe Park course by a single stroke, gave him a two-day card of 142 and third place in the field of 100 who tomorrow shoot the the first 18 holes of the tournament proper over the Hoylake layout.

Frank Stranahan, temperamental amateur from Toledo, Ohio, barged in with a 71 over Hoylake for 144 and fifth place. Other Americans scores were Vic Ghezzi of Kansas City, Kas., with 79-72—151; Robert Sweeney, Jr., of California and London, with 70-79—149; and Staff Sgt. Charles Jennings of Medford, N. J., and the U. S. Airforce, whose aggregate of 149 was made up of rounds of 76-73.

Norma Van Nida, tiny Australian, led the way after tacking a 69 to his first round 70 for a 139 that was three strokes better than Bulla's total and two blows less than that registered by Art Lees, little known British pro. Bert Gadd, an Englishman who holds the French open title and who set the Arrowe Park course record of 66 yesterday, zoomed to 77 today but his 143 left him in a fifth tie with Dai Rees, stubby Welshman who had 71-72—143.

Henry Cotton, British pro who ended 10 years of U. S. domination in this meet in 1934, came in with 74-72—146 that assured him of a place in the championship field and furthered his avowed intentions of regaining the trophy.

The two days of qualifying cut the field to exactly 100 golfers for the 72-hole championship which begins tomorrow morning. The figure of 155 was the magic score.

Underwrite Olympics

CHUR, Switzerland (AP) — The cantonal government of Graubunden has underwritten a guarantee of 75,000 Swiss francs (about $17,658) toward a possible deficit in the operation of the Olympic winter games at St. Moritz next Jan. 30-Feb. 8. St. Moritz is in this canton.

HERB'S IN HURRY—Herb McKenley, the Jamaican who runs for the University of Illinois, once again has cracked the accepted world mark for the quarter mile. McKenley, who finishes yards ahead of his competitors, ran the 440 in 46.3, one-tenth of a second faster than the recognized mark as the Big Nine track and field forces whipped the Pacific Coast Conference team at Berkeley, Cal.

Whitney Martin's SPORTS TRAIL

NEW YORK, July 1—(AP)—Nobody paid much attention to the big guy who stood off by himself on the dock. The reporters and photographers gathered in quantity were talking about Babe Didrikson Zaharias, whom they were going down the bay to meet on her return from a victorious golf invasion of the British Isles, and after all, the big guy was only her husband.

So he stood there, hands deep in the trouser pockets of his pin-stripe suit, a good bit of the 295 or 300 pounds he carried billowing out in front of him beneath a great expanse of white shirt. If you hadn't known he had been a wrestler, a glimpse of his ears would have told you. They looked like well-kneaded biscuit dough.

He sat silently in the stern of the tugboat going down to meet the Queen Elizabeth, staring straight ahead most of the time. Occasionally his sleepy brown eyes would meet yours and his swarthy face would crease in a slow, amiable grin.

Tell George I'm Here

As the tug pulled alongside the big ship there came an ear-piercing shrill whistle from somewhere above, followed by a woman's loud voice: "Tell George I'm here."

The Babe stood back a little from the top of the ladder from tug to ship, watching intently as each figure bobbed into view and clambered nimbly aboard. Finally there was a slight interruption in the procession and the ladder sagged noticeably.

The bulky figure of George finally emerged with ponderous dignity, and Babe ran forward eagerly to go into a clinch that would rival any movie fadeout. It was a demonstration of mutual affection and devotion good to see.

Later, after Babe had changed into her kilt costume and appeared on deck for the ordeal with photographers and reporters, George stood to one side, a big cigar protruding jauntily from his mouth, eyes seldom leaving his wife. It was the Babe's show, and he wanted it to be all hers.

Finally a picture was suggested of Babe and her husband, both wearing tams.

"Honey," she called, "Honey, come here." George ambled over like a big, tame bear and donned the headpiece she had brought for him. The rimless cap and fat cigar, topping his tremendous bulk, presented a rather incongruous appearance.

Babe, as usual, was her natural, friendly self as reporters surrounded her and hedged her in with a fence of questions. Poised, unassuming, she was in complete control of the situation, and no question stumped, or embarrassed her. You don't ask every woman her height and weight, but Babe is unperturbed by such personal queries.

Babe Weighs 146 Now

"I gained six pounds, weight 146 now," she answered promptly. "I'm five feet six."

It was mentioned she looked taller than that. The uninhibited Babe reached down, took off one high-heeled shoe, and lowered her stockinged foot to the deck, standing there lopsided, like a side-hill wampus. She laughed: "Makes quite a difference, doesn't it?"

She chatted on gaily, telling of her ordeal in standing for six hours on the train en route to Gullane, Scotland, and how she tried to get a rest by dawdling over her tea in the diner, only to be run out; of how the Scotch fans urged her to "put your lucky pants on" after she had had a bad round after changing to a skirt, and of her exhibition at the old home course of her tutor, Tommy Armour.

Through it all George stood by fairly busting with pride. The big cigar burned to a stub, his vast shirt clung to him damply in the humid air, and his collar wilted. But he didn't mind. Big George was the happiest guy on the whole blooming ship.

Ennis' Hit Streak Stops At 19 Games

PHILADELPHIA, July 1 (AP)—The Philadelphia Phillies collected only six hits today but two of them, along with five walks in the sixth inning, produced five runs and enabled the Quakers to nip the second place Brooklyn Dodgers, 5-3.

Ennis' consecutive hitting streak was halted at 19 games as he grounded out in his first two trips to the plate and was intentionally walked in his final two appearances. The streak is the longest of the major league season so far.

Brooklyn's Jackie Robinson extended his consecutive game hitting skein to 18 by singling to center in the seventh inning. Box:

Eagles Will Meet

A meeting of the Fraternal Order of Eagles team of the Interstate Baseball League will be held tonight at 8 o'clock at the F. O. Eagles Home, North Mechanic Street.

Scout John Maher Seeks Ball Park For August 19-23

St. Louis Spokesman Meets Legion Group

Scout John J. Maher of the St. Louis Browns announced last night that the American League club will hold a baseball school here in August provided Fort Cumberland Post, No. 13, American Legion, will approve the dates for the sessions at Community Park.

Maher arrived here yesterday and last evening conferred with a number of American Legion baseball men, including Art Garbark, Eddie Diehl, Raymond "Pat" Farrell and Ralph Wilkinson, at the Legion home.

Seeks August Dates

The St. Louis scout told the Legion group that he would like to obtain use of the Wineow street park for a baseball school, August 19 to 23. The reason no approval of the dates could be given at the present time is because the post holds its annual election next week and the matter will be entirely in the hands of the new administration. Legionnaires, however, told Maher that the baseball school idea is a good one and they saw no reason why the post would not lease the park to the Browns.

Maher said the St. Louis club plans to hold schools at Orangeburg, S. C., July 15 to 19; Gainesville, Pa., July 22 to 26; Gaffney, S. C., July 29 to August 2 and Williamston, N. C., August 12 to 16.

Operate 15 "Farms"

The Browns operate 15 minor league "farms" from "D" to "AAA" classification. Among the top teams in the St. Louis chain are Toledo, of the American Association; San Antonio, Texas League; Springfied of the Three-Eye-League.

A graduate of Notre Dame University, Maher served as business manager of the Johnstown (Pa.) Middle Atlantic League team in 1936 and 1937; business manager and publicist for Art Rooney's Pittsburgh Pirates pro football team from 1935 to 1940; business manager of Pensacola in the Southeastern League in 1941 and was employed for one year as a sports writer on the New Castle, Pa. News. He also did a hitch in the army during the war. Maher is a native of New Castle, Pa., but now makes his home at Tyler, Texas, with his wife and two children.

Amvets at Hyndman, Middleton and Radcliffe.

Barton at Queen City, Davis and Kelly.

Double headers will be played by the league teams on July 4 and 5 with first games scheduled to start at 1:30 p. m. Sunday games will get under way at 2:30 p. m.

CASEYS PLAY TEXCEL AT PENN FIELD TODAY

The Knights of Columbus will play off a postponed game with Texcel today at 6:30 p. m. on Penn Avenue field.

Four games scheduled yesterday in the Rocking Chair Softball League were postponed on account of rain.

The Sportlight by GRANTLAND RICE

The Incredible Bugs Raymond

Baseball, above all other games, has known more than its share in the way of masterpieces of eccentricity. Many of these I happen to know. They were true color, because they were naturals, born with oddities few could believe.

Rube Waddell was one of them, one of the greatest of all pitchers who would rather go fishing or tend bar (for nothing) than win a ball game. Another was Crazy Schmidt of the old Reds, who carried a small notebook in his hip pocket, denoting the weak spots of all opposing hitters. Against Hans Wagner's name he had this one line—"A base on balls." That's what Wagner got from Schmidt.

"Shufflin" Phil Douglas of the Giants—Dizzy Dean of the Cards—are around the head of the list. Also Flint Rhein, Babe Herman, Bobo Newsom, Germany Schaefer, Shoeless Joe Jackson, Arlie Latham—nuts, wits and halfwits—but all great ballplayers. Latham was one of the smartest. The list is too long to go into further details.

But, one of the leaders in this colorful field has been overlooked and forgotten. His name is Bugs Raymond, the pitcher John McGraw always insisted had the finest pitching motion he ever saw, including Walter Johnson, who was smooth as the west wind, and as tornadic or cyclonic. Bugs Raymond should be right around the top in this human oddity group that includes only stars.

I remember Bugs, because I happened to have a small part in his pitching career. I was working in Atlanta when I happened to read a story that came out of Shreveport, about a young pitcher named Raymond, who had made and won the following bet:

That he could eat a whole turkey, drink two bottles of Scotch—and win a double-header. He did it. I didn't believe it at the time, but I believed it later. I recommended Raymond to either Abner Powell or Billy Smith (44 years is a long time ago) that Raymond looked like a good buy. Good copy is always scarce, Raymond sounded like good copy.

So, the Atlanta team bought Bugs, along with considerable misgivings. They had checked back and found that while he was a great pitcher, he was about as easy to handle as the Balkans, or the Bubonic Plague. His owner and manager were both very much relieved to get rid of Bugs Raymond on extremely easy terms, and never mind the turkey, the Scotch and the double-header.

First Meeting With Bugs

This happened to be a spring day in Atlanta around the now forgotten era of 1904.

The Atlanta Crackers on that day were to play the world's champion Boston Americans, who, the fall before, had beaten Pittsburgh's great team in the first, but still unofficial world series of 1903.

This Boston team, managed by the brilliant Jimmy Collins, one of the greatest infielders of all time, was baseball's sensation. Big Bill Dineen had been a major factor in winning this series from a team, that had such stars as Hans Wagner, Fred Clarke, Tommy Leach, Kitty Bransfield, etc.

Boston, long before any Red Sox appellation was about a one-to-forty bet to win—champions of the world playing against a strictly bush league outfit.

By some odd chance, before starting a mile-and-a-half walk to the ball park, I happened to be taking a drink at some wayside bar in preparation for the trip. A heavy hand fell on my shoulder and, as I looked around, there was an unkempt-looking fellow, around 200 pounds, who wore no necktie and hadn't shaved in at least two days. Here was the king of all the tramps I'd ever seen.

"How about buying me a drink, fellow?" was his opening remark. I bought him a drink. Then I had to buy him another drink.

"How do we get out to this ball park?" he asked.

"We walk," I said, "if you are going with he." Then a sudden morbid thought hit me. "Isn't your name Raymond?" I asked.

"Yes," he said, "Bugs Raymond."

I figured then what my recommendation to the Atlanta team was worth. Something less than two cents.

"Do you happen to know," I suggested, "that you are pitching today against the Boston Americans, the world's champion's?"

"I never heard of 'em,' Bugs said. Where's Boston?"

On the walk to the ball park this afternoon, Bugs spent most of the trek throwing rocks at pigeons, telegraph poles and any target in sight. People I had known in Atlanta gave me an odd look after taking a brief glance at my unshaven, rough and rowdy-looking companion. Knowing what would happen later. I wasn't bothered about any social check-up.

Bugs Raymond started the game by insulting Jimmy Collins, Freddy Parent, George LaChance and every star on the Boston team. He would walk from the pitcher's box up towards the plate and let them know, in forcible and smoking language what he thought they all were.

What the Boston Americans, the world's champions, didn't know, and what I didn't know, or anyone else, was this: they were facing one of the greatest spit-ball pitchers and one of the greatest natural pitchers of all time — if you could only keep him one third sober, which even McGraw couldn't. Not even with four bodyguards. Bugs had speed, curves, control—plus an Ed Walsh spitter.

But, on this particular occasion, Bugs shut out the world's champions, 3 to 0, and allowed them just three scratch singles. As we faintly recall the hazy details, Bugs had eleven strikeouts.

"Even half sober," McGraw told me once, "Raymond would have been one of the greatest."

Bugs had one additional asset. He cost the club nothing for hotel food. His only food was alcohol, which the club didn't pay for.

Dick Gray, former Villanova basketball captain, was a candidate for assemblyman in the last primary election in Trenton, N. J.

Ellsworth Vines, former tennis champion, says tennis has been more harmful than helpful to his golf. The Los Angeles pro says he uses an entirely different set of body muscles for tennis.

Ed (Porky) Oliver of Wilmington, Del., is the heaviest golfer among the touring pros at 215 pounds. However, he weighed 255 when he got out of the Army.

The Atlanta Crackers on that day were to play the world's champion Boston Americans, who, the fall before, had beaten Pittsburgh's great team in the first, but still unofficial world series of 1903.

This Boston team, managed by the brilliant Jimmy Collins, one of the greatest infielders of all time, was baseball's sensation. Big Bill Dineen had been a major factor in winning this series from a team, that had such stars as Hans Wagner, Fred Clarke, Tommy Leach, Kitty Bransfield, etc.

Boston, long before any Red Sox appellation was about a one-to-forty bet to win—champions of the world playing against a strictly bush league outfit.

By some odd chance, before starting a mile-and-a-half walk to the ball park, I happened to be taking a drink at some wayside bar in preparation for the trip. A heavy hand fell on my shoulder and, as I looked around, there was an unkempt-looking fellow, around 200 pounds, who wore no necktie and hadn't shaved in at least two days. Here was the king of all the tramps I'd ever seen.

"How about buying me a drink, fellow?" was his opening remark. I bought him a drink. Then I had to buy him another drink.

"How do we get out to this ball park?" he asked.

"We walk," I said, "if you are going with he." Then a sudden morbid thought hit me. "Isn't your name Raymond?" I asked.

"Yes," he said, "Bugs Raymond."

I figured then what my recommendation to the Atlanta team was worth. Something less than two cents.

"Do you happen to know," I suggested, "that you are pitching today against the Boston Americans, the world's champion's?"

"I never heard of 'em,' Bugs said. Where's Boston?"

On the walk to the ball park this afternoon, Bugs spent most of the trek throwing rocks at pigeons, telegraph poles and any target in sight. People I had known in Atlanta gave me an odd look after taking a brief glance at my unshaven, rough and rowdy-looking companion. Knowing what would happen later. I wasn't bothered about any social check-up.

Bugs Raymond started the game by insulting Jimmy Collins, Freddy Parent, George LaChance and every star on the Boston team. He would walk from the pitcher's box up towards the plate and let them know, in forcible and smoking language what he thought they all were.

What the Boston Americans, the world's champions, didn't know, and what I didn't know, or anyone else, was this: they were facing one of the greatest spit-ball pitchers and one of the greatest natural pitchers of all time — if you could only keep him one third sober, which even McGraw couldn't. Not even with four bodyguards. Bugs had speed, curves, control—plus an Ed Walsh spitter.

But, on this particular occasion, Bugs shut out the world's champions, 3 to 0, and allowed them just three scratch singles. As we faintly recall the hazy details, Bugs had eleven strikeouts.

"Even half sober," McGraw told me once, "Raymond would have been one of the greatest."

Bugs had one additional asset. He cost the club nothing for hotel food. His only food was alcohol, which the club didn't pay for.

Dick Gray, former Villanova basketball captain, was a candidate for assemblyman in the last primary election in Trenton, N. J.

Ellsworth Vines, former tennis champion, says tennis has been more harmful than helpful to his golf. The Los Angeles pro says he uses an entirely different set of body muscles for tennis.

Ed (Porky) Oliver of Wilmington, Del., is the heaviest golfer among the touring pros at 215 pounds. However, he weighed 265 when he got out of the Army.

GOODYEAR TIRES
GET SET FOR SCORCHING SUMMER ROADS NOW WITH GOODYEAR DeLuxe TIRES
On a hot day at high speed, tires get so hot you can almost fry eggs on them. And heat's a major cause of blowouts. Not road heat alone, but the internal heat from flexing shortens tire life. Goodyear's thinner, stronger cords generate less friction — less heat. This means more safety, more thousands of extra miles. Get set with Goodyear tires.

On a hot day at high speed, tires get so hot you can almost fry eggs on them. And heat's a major cause of blowouts. Not road heat alone, but the internal heat from flexing shortens tire life. Goodyear's thinner, stronger cords generate less friction — less heat. This means more safety, more thousands of extra miles. Get set with Goodyear tires. $14.40 plus tax 6.00-16

Moore Sent To Jail In Default Of Fines

Magistrate Frank A. Perdew yesterday sentenced Euguene Griffith Moore, 13 Laing Avenue, this city, to 65 days in the county jail after he pleaded guilty to four motor counts in Trial Magistrates Court.

Moore was arrested Monday after a five mile chase by Maryland State Troopers William McElfish and George Coddington in a car belonging to Amos C. Baer, Maugansville, near Hagerstown.

The Cumberland man admitted also to the unauthorized use of a truck owned by the Sensabaugh Hauling Company.

At the hearing in Trial Magistrates' Court yesterday, Moore pleaded guilty to reckless driving, exceeding 70 miles per hour, unauthorized use of an automobile and operating a vehicle without a driver's permit. He was fined [illegible] the speeding charge, $11.50 for reckless driving and driving without a license and $25.75 for using a car without permission of the owner.

He was committed to the county jail in default of the fines.

Arrested early yesterday morning on Route 40 at Lovers' Leap Service Station west of here, Donald Lee Mullan, Keyser, and John T. Reitmier, 228 Arch Street, this city, were handed suspended sentences in Magistrates' Court on charges of creating a disturbance on a state highway, providing they remain away from the service station in the future. State Trooper J. B. Browning made the arrest.

Kenneth D. Wise, 21 Browning Street, was fined $5.75 on a charge of exceeding 30 miles per hour on Route 40. He was apprehended by Trooper William McElfish.

David Yates, Jr., Frostburg, forfeited $6.45 for exceeding the speed limit through LaVale Monday.

Again Sears leads the way to greater motoring safety with the original Allstate Safety Tubes. Their far-advanced design of "rubber-under-compression" instantly seals any tread break or puncture hole allowing air to escape very slowly, if at all. This allows a time-safety factor to stop your car safely and severely. Thoroughly tested and fleet-proven, Allstate Safety Tubes have extra heavy sidewalls, and herringbone design base to resist pinching and chafing for longer wear. See these tubes, now back at Sears, where high quality automotive needs cost less.

When tires puncture or blow out, "RUBBER-UNDER-COMPRESSION" in the ALLSTATE SAFETY TUBE seals the hole, and allows a safe, even stop.

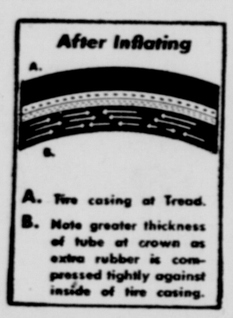

Before Inflating

Illustration shows how crown circumference is about 1.4% greater at outside than inside. Hence the wavy design.

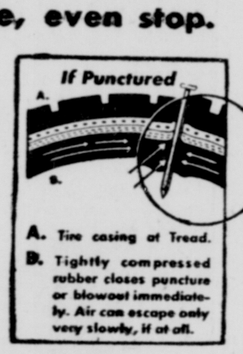

After Inflating

Crown of tube flattens against inside of tire casing, showing how air pressure compresses extra rubber to greater thickness and tightness at tire casing.

If Punctured

The tightly compressed rubber seals the hole instantly, preventing sudden loss of air. Time is allowed for safe, even stops.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, July 1—No wonder Bill Goetz is feeling pleased with himself! Wouldn't you? He's just bought "Harvey", Frank Fay's sensational stage play, for Universal-International. The tip from New York is that the all-time high price of a million dollars was paid.

Louella Parsons

This play, by Mary Chase, is history-making in the annals of the Broadway stage. It brought Frank Fay into fame in 1944 after everyone said he was through. It gave Joe E. Brown a new start, and it will introduce Jimmy Stewart to the stage this summer. I tried to pin Billy down to telling me which of these gents would get the acting plum, but he says he doesn't know. Could be Jimmy Stewart, anyway.

John Beck is named as the producer, while Miss Chase, herself, will come here from Denver to assist in adapting her play to the screen.

Esther Williams gets in early this morning on the DC-6 in its initial flight from Mexico. With her will be Ben Gage, her husband, so you can see those reports that they are splitting are absolutely untrue.

Esther's next picture, by the way, is "Neptune's Daughter," for Jack Cummings, which she'll start very soon.

Her last picture, "Fiesta", was for Cummings and it's breaking every record. The MGM publicity boys did a sensational job on "Fiesta". There's "Fiesta" powder, and "Fiesta" this, and "Fiesta" that—and even the flight is called "Fiesta".

There's a very strong possibility that Hope Hampton may become Barbara Hutton's sister-in-law. Hope is going everywhere with Youka Troubetzkoy, brother of Count Igor Troubetzkoy, Barbara's husband. Youka is big, blond and handsome, and while Hope hasn't as many millions as Barbara, she has enough to keep the wolf from ever hanging around the door. Jules Brûlatour left her plenty of money.

During all the years Hope was married to Jules, who was twice er age, she was a devoted wife, nd there's no reason why she shouldn't remarry. She's still a very attractive woman.

Chatter in Hollywood: Kay Williams and her rich bridegroom, Adolph Spreckles, can relax. Macoco, Kay's Argentine-born husband, who sued her for $35,000 for the return of gifts he made to her, has withdrawn his suit, which was scheduled to come August 24.

Over the long distance telephone, Macoco told me that when he was in Buenos Aires he made up his mind not to sue. "Besides,' he said, "I have my daughter with me in New York and I don't want all the publicity for her." Very wise of him, I think.

Very sensible of Charlie Einfeld to change the ending of "The Other Love", the Barbara Stanwyck picture. In the original ending, the girl dies of tuberculosis. In this day and age, tuberculosis is curable and, besides, with all the trouble in the world, who wants to see a story end in death.

Charlie discovered when the picture was shown in New York that people walked away feeling blue and despondent. This is the first time I've ever known of a picture being called back and an ending changed after it was already shown. Charlie says he will let the audience make up its own mind about what happens to the heroine.

Donald Nelson is now in Mexico talking to President Aleman about accepting the post of coordinator of Mexican business and industry. It's a job similar to the one he held as head of the War Production Board in this country, during the war.

If Nelson accepts, he will still remain as head of the Society of Independent Motion Picture Producers in Hollywood. I don't know how he'll manage it, but I reckon that he'll commute between Mexico City and Hollywood. In these days of fast flying, it only takes six hours.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:—There is a rumor that a certain Hollywood belle received a million dollars from a wealthy business man. The newspapers printed the story that she would wed the gentleman, but his wife refused a divorce. The money was to soothe her bruised heart.

Soon as Jane Wyman was able, she telephoned Ronald Reagan not to worry, that she was all right. Sympathy goes to them in the death of their prematurely born daughter. Ronnie, who has been seriously ill with virus pneumonia, is coming along nicely, now.

On July 10 Dore Schary will be guest of honor at the monthly luncheon of the One World Committee. They honor a distinguished guest each nth. Darryl Zanuck was Holly- 's guest last year.

Again the talk is current that Gail Russell and Guy Madison are readying an elopement.

Sympathy goes to Walter Huston in the death of his 72-year-old brother, Eric, who died suddenly in Montreal.

You can look for the marriage of Virginia Mayo and Michael O'Shea any day now.

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, July 1—No wonder Bill Goetz is feeling pleased with himself! Wouldn't you? He's just bought "Harvey", Frank Fay's sensational stage play, for Universal-International. The tip from New York is that the all-time high price of a million dollars was paid.

Louella Parsons

This play, by Mary Chase, is history-making in the annals of the Broadway stage. It brought Frank Fay into fame in 1944 after everyone said he was through. It gave Joe E. Brown a new start, and it will introduce Jimmy Stewart to the stage this summer. I tried to pin Billy down to telling me which of these gents would get the acting plum, but he says he doesn't know. Could be Jimmy Stewart, anyway.

John Beck is named as the producer, while Miss Chase, herself, will come here from Denver to assist in adapting her play to the screen.

Esther Williams gets in early this morning on the DC-6 in its initial flight from Mexico. With her will be Ben Gage, her husband, so you can see those reports that they are splitting are absolutely untrue.

Esther's next picture, by the way, is "Neptune's Daughter," for Jack Cummings, which she'll start very soon.

Her last picture, "Fiesta", was for Cummings and it's breaking every record. The MGM publicity boys did a sensational job on "Fiesta". There's "Fiesta" powder, and "Fiesta" this, and "Fiesta" that—and even the flight is called "Fiesta".

There's a very strong possibility that Hope Hampton may become Barbara Hutton's sister-in-law. Hope is going everywhere with Youka Troubetzkoy, brother of Count Igor Troubetzkoy, Barbara's husband. Youka is big, blond and handsome, and while Hope hasn't as many millions as Barbara, she has enough to keep the wolf from ever hanging around the door. Jules Brûlatour left her plenty of money.

During all the years Hope was married to Jules, who was twice her age, she was a devoted wife, and there's no reason why she shouldn't remarry. She's still a very attractive woman.

Chatter in Hollywood: Kay Williams and her rich bridegroom, Adolph Spreckles, can relax. Macoco, Kay's Argentine-born husband, who sued her for $35,000 for the return of gifts he made to her, has withdrawn his suit, which was scheduled to come August 24.

Over the long distance telephone, Macoco told me that when he was in Buenos Aires he made up his mind not to sue. "Besides," he said, "I have my daughter with me in New York and I don't want all the publicity for her." Very wise of him, I think.

Very sensible of Charlie Einfeld to change the ending of "The Other Love", the Barbara Stanwyck picture. In the original ending, the girl dies of tuberculosis. In this day and age, tuberculosis is curable and, besides, with all the trouble in the world, who wants to see a story end in death.

Charlie discovered when the picture was shown in New York that people walked away feeling blue and despondent. This is the first time I've ever known of a picture being called back and an ending changed after it was already shown. Charlie says he will let the audience make up its own mind about what happens to the heroine.

Donald Nelson is now in Mexico talking to President Aleman about accepting the post of coordinator of Mexican business and industry. It's a job similar to the one he held as head of the War Production Board in this country, during the war.

If Nelson accepts, he will still remain as head of the Society of Independent Motion Picture Producers in Hollywood. I don't know how he'll manage it, but I reckon that he'll commute between Mexico City and Hollywood. In these days of fast flying, it only takes six hours.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:—There is a rumor that a certain Hollywood belle received a million dollars from a wealthy business man. The newspapers printed the story that she would wed the gentleman, but his wife refused a divorce. The money was to soothe her bruised heart.

Soon as Jane Wyman was able, she telephoned Ronald Reagan not to worry, that she was all right. Sympathy goes to them in the death of their prematurely born daughter. Ronnie, who has been seriously ill with virus pneumonia, is coming along nicely, now.

On July 10 Dore Schary will be guest of honor at the monthly luncheon of the One World Committee. They honor a distinguished guest each month. Darryl Zanuck was Hollywood's guest last year.

Again the talk is current that Gail Russell and Guy Madison are readying an elopement.

Congratulations to the Norman Siegels on the arrival of a baby girl born in Cleveland. Papa is a former newspaper man, now with Paramount.

Sympathy goes to Walter Huston in the death of his 72-year-old brother, Eric, who died suddenly in Montreal.

You can look for the marriage of Virginia Mayo and Michael O'Shea any day now.

Shirts Are Stolen

Raymond Stewart, 508 Hill Street, whose car was recovered by police Friday night, informed police yesterday that a number of articles had been removed from the vehicle, apparently by the persons who stole the car here Thursday night.

He listed the missing articles as seven shirts, six white and one brown, an inch and three-quarter crescent wrench and a pair of rubber boots.

Watermelons, carload, ripe, black seeds, best cutters, your choice 89c. We plug 'em. Cantaloupes, basket $1.69. Bananas, bunch and pound. Hager's Lovers Leap in the Narrows.

Excise Tax Added To W. Va. Cigarets

A one cent excise tax on a package of cigarets became effective yesterday in West Virginia. A total of 10 cents tax has been added to the price of a carton.

One store owner in Ridgeley said the new cigaret stamp tax law makes the cost per package 19 cents and $1.58 per carton. Wholesalers and jobbers affix stamps to the cigarets and then charge the retailer.

422 Marriage Licenses Issued Here In June

A total of 422 marriage licenses was issued at the office of Robert Jackson, clerk of court, here during June or an average of about 17 a day for each day of business. However, Dan Cupid seemed to be taking it easy as July came into the picture with only three licenses issued yesterday. They went to:

Irvin Lloyd Miller and Elva Henrietta Miller, both of Eckhart.

William Kore Kaufman, Rockwood, Pa., and Dorotohy Pauline Sanner, Fort Howard.

Faces Driving Charge

William H. Smith, 315 Central Avenue, is being held in the city jail for a hearing in Trial Magistrates Court Saturday at 10:30 a. m. on a charge of driving in Maryland on a revoked license. He was arrested yesterday afternoon by State Trooper Thomas H. Barton.

Beetle Battle Begins In Allegany County

The yearly battle against the Japanese beetle is underway in the county, according to Ralph F. McHenry, county farm agent.

The beetles first started hatching from the ground last Sunday which is later than usual due to the cool spring. McHenry advises farmers and gardners to combat the pests by using 50 per cent wettable D. D. T. For spraying he recommends using one ounce of D.D.T. with a gallon of water applied directly to the infested vine or bush.

Beetle traps may be obtained at the Court House basement and bait bottles for those who have traps may be purchased for a nominal fee.

"CAPTAIN OF THE MEN OF DEATH"

★ Pneumonia is a disease which strikes swiftly and proceeds quickly and dramatically to a crisis. Until recent years little could be done to help the patient. The brief decisive struggle between the infection and the patient earned for pneumonia the dreadful title, "Captain of the men of death."

In the parlance of the army, the captain has been "busted." First came antipneumococcic serum, which removed one bar. Later, powerful sulfa drugs teamed up with serum to completely break the captain. Both of these powerful weapons are kept in readiness in our prescription department, waiting only for the physician's orders.

Excise Tax Added To W. Va. Cigarets

A one cent excise tax on a package of cigarets became effective yesterday in West Virginia. A total of 10 cents tax has been added to the price of a carton.

One store owner in Ridgeley said the new cigaret stamp tax law makes the cost per package 19 cents and $1.58 per carton. Wholesalers and jobbers affix stamps to the cigarets and then charge the retailer.

422 Marriage Licenses Issued Here In June

A total of 422 marriage licenses was issued at the office of Robert Jackson, clerk of court, here during June or an average of about 17 a day for each day of business. However, Dan Cupid seemed to be taking it easy as July came into the picture with only three licenses issued yesterday. They went to:

Irvin Lloyd Miller and Elva Henrietta Miller, both of Eckhart.

William Kore Kaufman, Rockwood, Pa., and Dorotohy Pauline Sanner, Fort Howard.

Faces Driving Charge

William H. Smith, 315 Central Avenue, is being held in the city jail for a hearing in Trial Magistrates Court Saturday at 10:30 a. m. on a charge of driving in Maryland on a revoked license. He was arrested yesterday afternoon by State Trooper Thomas H. Barton.

Beetle Battle Begins In Allegany County

The yearly battle against the Japanese beetle is underway in the county, according to Ralph F. McHenry, county farm agent.

The beetles first started hatching from the ground last Sunday which is later than usual due to the cool spring. McHenry advises farmers and gardners to combat the pests by using 50 per cent wettable D. D. T. For spraying he recommends using one ounce of D.D.T. with a gallon of water applied directly to the infested vine or bush.

Beetle traps may be obtained at the Court House basement and bait bottles for those who have traps may be purchased for a nominal fee.

"CAPTAIN OF THE MEN OF DEATH"

★ Pneumonia is a disease which strikes swiftly and proceeds quickly and dramatically to a crisis. Until recent years little could be done to help the patient. The brief decisive struggle between the infection and the patient earned for pneumonia the dreadful title, "Captain of the men of death."

In the parlance of the army, the captain has been "busted." First came antipneumococcic serum, which removed one bar. Later, powerful sulfa drugs teamed up with serum to completely break the captain. Both of these powerful weapons are kept in readiness in our prescription department, waiting only for the physician's orders.

A-26's Will Appear At Air Show, July 4

PETERSBURG, W. Va., July 1— The Army Air Force's fastest attack bomber, the A-26 "Invader," will make an appearance at the air show to be held at the Petersburg Municipal Airport July 4.

A formation of six of the craft from the 162nd Reconnaissance Squadron, Night Photographic, Langley Field, Va., will fly over the field in review during the show. The airplanes are a part of the Ninth Air Force.

During the past two weeks one photographic mission from this squadron flew over Savage River Dam, near Westernport, and another mission was sent over the flood areas in the Iowa-Missouri region.

A former citizen of Grant County, W. Va., is a member of this group. Cpl. Paul B. Hood, formerly of Lahmansville, is the squadron's intelligence specialist as the non-commissioned officer in charge of S-2.

Westernport Church Holds 10-Day Celebration Honoring 32nd Year

By GEORGE W. DADDYSMAN

WESTERNPORT, July 1—The 32nd anniversary of the Pentecostal Assembly of God Church was marked by a 10-day celebration of preaching with 34 ministers in attendance and a ceremony in which the mortgage of the church was burned.

Rev. and Mrs. O. P. Brann, pastor of the church, presided at the mortgage burning ceremonies which made the institution debt-free after the minister and congregation in four years cleared an indebtedness of $25,000 for construction of the present building.

A parade and memorial service were held on other nights during the celebration. The meetings each night were conducted by former members of the church who are now ordained ministers.

J. N. Smith Rites

A funeral service for Joseph N. Smith, 61, who died at his home near Barton Sunday night following an illness of two years, will be conducted at the residence, Wednesday at 2:30 p. m. by Rev. J. Emmert Dettra, pastor of the Church of the Brethren, Westernport. Interment will be in Philos Cemetery.

A native of Luray, Va., Mr. Smith was a son of the late Thomas and Jane Crites Smith and lived near Barton for 26 years. He was employed at the Luke plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company for four years.

Besides his widow, Mr. Smith is survived by four sons, Thomas, Lonaconing; Clifton, Westernport; Harry, Reynolds, and David at home; four sisters, Mrs. Henrietta Broy, Baltimore; Mrs. Maggie McCleahen, Tom Brooks, Va.; Mrs. Burt Selvis, New Market, Va., and Mrs. Blanche Jewell, address unknown.

Judges Appointed

William Phelps, president of the Westernport and Luke Lions Club announces that P. J. O'Brien, Luke; G. Harley Dixon, Piedmont; and Dr. Donald P. Whitworth, Westernport; have been appointed judges of the letter writing contest sponsored by the civic improvement committee of the club for the best suggestions for improvements for Tri-Towns. The contest closed last night. The decisions of the judges will be announced by July 15.

Brief Mention

The street carnival being held in the vicinity of the Piedmont swimming pool, sponsored by Kelly-Mansfield Post No. 52, American Legion, was featured last night with a parade by the drum corps of the post marching to Westernport and returning to the carrfival grounds.

At Westernport beginning Thursday night and continuing through Saturday, Victory Post No. 155, American Legion, will hold a street carnival on their lot on Washington Street.

The vestry of St. James Episcopal Church will meet in the rectory Wednesday at 7:30 p. m., Rev. G. Stanley Schwind, rector, announces. Holy communion will be administered at the church Friday, July 4, at 10 a. m.

Personals

Mrs. Gertrude Galloway, Main Street, returned from a visit with relatives in North Carolina. She was accompanied home by her great-nephew, L. F. Bullard, Garland, N. C.

Mrs. Teressie Dugan, Parsons, W. Va.; Mrs. Sudie Kellar, Miss Dolores Ann Morrison, Mrs. Alice Strauderman and Mr. and Mrs. L. Heishman, Lost River, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Harry Roye, Sr.

12 Men Enlist In Regular Army

The Cumberland Army Recruiting station yesterday signed 12 men for duty in the Regular Army, Capt. L. M. Baistow announced.

Two men, both veterans of World War II, enlisted in Ordnance Department for three years. Robert Ellsworth McGruder, and Paul Franklin Johnson, both of Keyser, signed as a private first class and corporal, respectively. McGruder is a veteran of three years and five months service while Johnson served two years and eight months.

Seven men from Petersburg, W. Va., are included in the group. They are Ralph William Hartman, Regular Army, unassigned for two years; Charles Oscar Sears, Jr., unassigned for 18 months; Earl Thomas Porter, a veteran of four years and 10 months in the Air Force, enlisted as a corporal in the Air Force for three years; Paul Clifton Keplinger, unassigned for 18 months; Clifton Rudolph George, unassigned for two years; Richard Wayne Keplinger, unassigned for two years, and Donald Evers Swick, unassigned for 18 months.

Raymond Lewis Shears, Elk Garden, W. Va., enlisted for three years as a pricate first class in the AAF. He served two years and three months with the Navy. Cecil Levi Schaefer, Grantsville, signed for three years in the Signal Corps.

A Cumberland man, Floyd L. Scott, 929 Glenwood Street, a veteran of one year and eight months previous duty, enlisted as a private first class in the Regular Army.

Fire Destroys Barn

FROSTBURG, July 1—The barn and two outbuildings on the farm of Arch Wolfe, who lives two and one-half miles off the Finzel Road, near Frostburg, were destroyed by fire of undetermined origin at 2:50 this morning.

The Frostburg Fire Department was called to the blaze and estimated that damage amounted to $8,000. In addition to the structures, a pickup truck and four hogs were destroyed.

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

Loot and Consequences

Ralph Edwards, the scrambled Svengali of "Truth or Consequences," (N. B. C. 8:30 p. m. E. D. T., Saturdays) has devoted the last seven years to disproving the whole field of psychiatry. According to a great deal of impressive evidence amassed on his program, there are no such things as inhibitions, at least among Americans. Without use of hypnosis, merely by waving a $1,000 bill or so in front of his contestants, Edwards has persuaded them to kiss lady wrestlers at the corner of Hollywood and Vine, to ride subways wearing custard pies as hats, or to plumb the Hudson River in diving suits.

Ralph Edwards

As this is being written, he is sending a man across the country squeezing oranges for all persons named Edwards in the cities where he stops. When he hits the right Edwards, the man will get $1,000. An ex-GI was sent to the Arctic Circle to dig a sample of gold and got $1,000 for the trip. Another man dashed off to Minnesota to catch a certain tagged fish, and with the aid of the Governor of the state and a couple of game wardens, caught it. Another man spent three weeks living in a traffic island in Los Angeles to win $1,500, which was presented to him in pennies. Edwards blew this contestant to a taxi ride home, which, it developed, was in Brooklyn. The ride cost a pretty sum.

It was on "Truth or Consequences" that young Ensign Richard Bartholemew won $13,500 in assorted loot for correctly identifying the voice of a mysterious "Mr. Hush" as that of Jack Dempsey. That may or may not have been the all-time record for give-away prizes. If it was, it was subsequently broken by Mrs. William McCormick, of Lock Haven, Pa., who identified "Mrs. Hush" as Clara Bow. This contest had the listeners tied in knots for eight weeks, during which the prizes mounted. When Mrs. McCormick got her hands on it, it amounted to about $18,000 worth, including an airplane, a car, a lot of jewelry and free maid service for a year.

While this was the most fabulous, it was far from the nuttiest stunt ever pulled by Edwards. In 1945, he told a man name Wickel that he would find $1,000 silver dollars if he dug up a street in Holyoke, Mass. By the time he got there, half the citizens of Holyoke were tearing up the streets. The $1,000 had been lugged off by someone else. Wickel got his $1,000 by opening a two-ton safe, then opening 17,000 books to page 13.

At various times Edwards has persuaded governors, city officials and others to co-operate on these stunts but he doesn't always succeed. Last winter, Edwards wanted to send a contestant to the South Pole. The plan was to have the man walk up to Admiral Byrd's hut, pound on the door and yell "Open the door, Richard." The Navy said nix.

All this, I find, is more fun to read about than to listen to. Edwards is a high-powered personality whose voice only occasionally is lowered to an ordinary shout. He likes to say "Oooh," "Ooooh, aren't we devils?" "Oooh, aren't we Mephistophelian?" "Ooooh, what he's going to get.") His enthusiasm is unlimited though not especially contagious and his ingenuity, it must be admitted, has no bounds.

These assaults on civic order are carried out willingly by hundreds of citizens, lured on undoubtedly by cash but also by the mysterious urge to get their voices on the radio. I have never heard anyone fail to submit to Edwards indignities and all contestants seem to enjoy it. Whether they are a special class of people unable to say no to masters of ceremonies or whether all people have a special quirk to which Edwards has the key, I have no way of knowing. I incline toward the first theory. I'm an optimist.

Two Women Get Divorces; Five Seek Freedom

Two women gained divorces yesterday in decrees signed by Chief Judge William A. Huster in Circuit Court. One was granted on a cross-bill filed by the wife after her husband entered a suit for divorce.

Mrs. Mildred F. Swauger, Mt. Savage, was divorced from Cecil C. Swauger on a cross-bill.

The couple was married October 31, 1942, and has one child. The mother obtained custody of the child and $6 weekly for its support.

Wilma B. Hamilton, 1011 Glenwood Street, was granted an absolute divorce by Judge Huster in her suit against Robert T. Hamilton. The suit was docketed through her mother, Mrs. Irene King, because she is a minor. The wife also obtained custody of their child and $6 weekly for its support. The couple was married in Hagerstown in the fall of 1946 and separated June 4, 1947.

Five divorce suits were docketed yesterday in Circuit Court. Gladys R. Blacker seeks divorce from William Blacker, to whom she was married January 28, 1946, here, and separated June 29, last. They have no children.

Mildred F. Brady seeks divorce from Virgil H. Brady. They were married here October 27, 1945, and separated December 27, 1945. They have no children.

Isabelle Parrill docketed suit against Edward C. Parrill; Marie Drew seeks divorce from Edward Drew, and Mary J. Reece entered suit against Robert M. Reece.

A gas-mask chemical, invented in 1946, made from the peroxides of sodium, potassium, magnesium and certain organic substances, renders the worst of known war gases completely harmless.

Westernport Church Holds 10-Day Celebration Honoring 32nd Year

By GEORGE W. DADDYSMAN

WESTERNPORT, July 1—The 32nd anniversary of the Pentecostal Assembly of God Church was marked by a 10-day celebration of preaching with 34 ministers in attendance and a ceremony in which the mortgage of the church was burned.

Rev. and Mrs. O. P. Brann, pastor of the church, presided at the mortgage burning ceremonies which made the institution debt-free after the minister and congregation in four years cleared an indebtedness of $25,000 for construction of the present building.

A parade and memorial service were held on other nights during the celebration. The meetings each night were conducted by former members of the church who are now ordained ministers.

J. N. Smith Rites

A funeral service for Joseph N. Smith, 61, who died at his home near Barton Sunday night following an illness of two years, will be conducted at the residence, Wednesday at 2:30 p. m. by Rev. J. Emmert Dettra, pastor of the Church of the Brethren, Westernport. Interment will be in Philos Cemetery.

A native of Luray, Va., Mr. Smith was a son of the late Thomas and Jane Crites Smith and lived near Barton for 26 years. He was employed at the Luke plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company for four years.

Besides his widow, Mr. Smith is survived by four sons, Thomas, Lonaconing; Clifton, Westernport; Harry, Reynolds, and David at home; four sisters, Mrs. Henrietta Broy, Baltimore; Mrs. Maggie McCleahen, Tom Brooks, Va.; Mrs. Burt Selvis, New Market, Va., and Mrs. Blanche Jewell, address unknown.

Judges Appointed

William Phelps, president of the Westernport and Luke Lions Club announces that P. J. O'Brien, Luke; G. Harley Dixon, Piedmont; and Dr. Donald P. Whitworth, Westernport; have been appointed judges of the letter writing contest sponsored by the civic improvement committee of the club for the best suggestions for improvements for Tri-Towns. The contest closed last night. The decisions of the judges will be announced by July 15.

Brief Mention

The street carnival being held in the vicinity of the Piedmont swimming pool, sponsored by Kelly-Mansfield Post No. 52, American Legion, was featured last night with a parade by the drum corps of the post marching to Westernport and returning to the carnival grounds.

At Westernport beginning Thursday night and continuing through Saturday, Victory Post No. 155, American Legion, will hold a street carnival on their lot on Washington Street.

The vestry of St. James Episcopal Church will meet in the rectory Wednesday at 7:30 p. m., Rev. G. Stanley Schwind, rector, announces. Holy communion will be administered at the church Friday, July 4, at 10 a. m.

Personals

Mrs. Gertrude Galloway, Main Street, returned from a visit with relatives in North Carolina. She was accompanied home by her great-nephew, L. F. Bullard, Garland, N. C.

Mrs. Teressie Dugan, Parsons, W. Va.; Mrs. Sudie Kellar, Miss Dolores Ann Morrison, Mrs. Alice Strauderman and Mr. and Mrs. L. Heishman, Lost River, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Harry Roye, Sr.

12 Men Enlist In Regular Army

The Cumberland Army Recruiting station yesterday signed 12 men for duty in the Regular Army, Capt. L. M. Baistow announced.

Two men, both veterans of World War II, enlisted in Ordnance Department for three years. Robert Ellsworth McGruder, and Paul Franklin Johnson, both of Keyser, signed as a private first class and corporal, respectively. McGruder is a veteran of three years and five months service while Johnson served two years and eight months.

Seven men from Petersburg, W. Va., are included in the group. They are Ralph William Hartman, Regular Army, unassigned for two years; Charles Oscar Sears, Jr., unassigned for 18 months; Earl Thomas Porter, a veteran of four years and 10 months in the Air Force, enlisted as a corporal in the Air Force for three years; Paul Clifton Keplinger, unassigned for 18 months; Clifton Rudolph George, unassigned for two years; Richard Wayne Keplinger, unassigned for two years, and Donald Evers Swick, unassigned for 18 months.

Raymond Lewis Shears, Elk Garden, W. Va., enlisted for three years as a pricate first class in the AAF. He served two years and three months with the Navy. Cecil Levi Schaefer, Grantsville, signed for three years in the Signal Corps.

A Cumberland man, Floyd L. Scott, 929 Glenwood Street, a veteran of one year and eight months previous duty, enlisted as a private first class in the Regular Army.

Fire Destroys Barn

FROSTBURG, July 1—The barn and two outbuildings on the farm of Arch Wolfe, who lives two and one-half miles off the Finzel Road, near Frostburg, were destroyed by fire of undetermined origin at 2:50 this morning.

The Frostburg Fire Department was called to the blaze and estimated that damage amounted to $8,000. In addition to the structures, a pickup truck and four hogs were destroyed.

Loot and Consequences

Ralph Edwards, the scrambled Svengali of "Truth or Consequences," (N. B. C. 8:30 p. m. E. D. T., Saturdays) has devoted the last seven years to disproving the whole field of psychiatry. According to a great deal of impressive evidence amassed on his program, there are no such things as inhibitions, at least among Americans. Without use of hypnosis, merely by waving a $1,000 bill or so in front of his contestants, Edwards has persuaded them to kiss lady wrestlers at the corner of Hollywood and Vine, to ride subways wearing custard pies as hats, or to plumb the Hudson River in diving suits.

Ralph Edwards

As this is being written, he is sending a man across the country squeezing oranges for all persons named Edwards in the cities where he stops. When he hits the right Edwards, the man will get $1,000. An ex-GI was sent to the Arctic Circle to dig a sample of gold and got $1,000 for the trip. Another man dashed off to Minnesota to catch a certain tagged fish, and with the aid of the Governor of the state and a couple of game wardens, caught it. Another man spent three weeks living in a traffic island in Los Angeles to win $1,500, which was presented to him in pennies. Edwards blew this contestant to a taxi ride home, which, it developed, was in Brooklyn. The ride cost a pretty sum.

It was on "Truth or Consequences" that young Ensign Richard Bartholemew won $13,500 in assorted loot for correctly identifying the voice of a mysterious "Mr. Hush" as that of Jack Dempsey. That may or may not have been the all-time record for give-away prizes. If it was, it was subsequently broken by Mrs. William McCormick, of Lock Haven, Pa., who identified "Mrs. Hush" as Clara Bow. This contest had the listeners tied in knots for eight weeks, during which the prizes mounted. When Mrs. McCormick got her hands on it, it amounted to about $18,000 worth, including an airplane, a car, a lot of jewelry and free maid service for a year.

While this was the most fabulous, it was far from the nuttiest stunt ever pulled by Edwards. In 1945, he told a man name Wickel that he would find $1,000 silver dollars if he dug up a street in Holyoke, Mass. By the time he got there, half the citizens of Holyoke were tearing up the streets. The $1,000 had been lugged off by someone else. Wickel got his $1,000 by opening a two-ton safe, then opening 17,000 books to page 13.

At various times Edwards has persuaded governors, city officials and others to co-operate on these stunts but he doesn't always succeed. Last winter, Edwards wanted to send a contestant to the South Pole. The plan was to have the man walk up to Admiral Byrd's hut, pound on the door and yell "Open the door, Richard." The Navy said nix.

All this, I find, is more fun to read about than to listen to. Edwards is a high-powered personality whose voice only occasionally is lowered to an ordinary shout. He likes to say "Oooh," "Oooh, aren't we devils?" "Oooh, aren't we Mephistophelian?" "Ooooh, what he's going to get.") His enthusiasm is unlimited though not especially contagious and his ingenuity, it must be admitted, has no bounds.

These assaults on civic order are carried out willingly by hundreds of citizens, lured on undoubtedly by cash but also by the mysterious urge to get their voices on the radio. I have never heard anyone fail to submit to Edwards indignities and all contestants seem to enjoy it. Whether they are a special class of people unable to say no to masters of ceremonies or whether all people have a special quirk to which Edwards has the key, I have no way of knowing. I incline toward the first theory. I'm an optimist.

Two Women Get Divorces; Five Seek Freedom

Two women gained divorces yesterday in decrees signed by Chief Judge William A. Huster in Circuit Court. One was granted on a cross-bill filed by the wife after her husband entered a suit for divorce.

Mrs. Mildred F. Swauger, Mt. Savage, was divorced from Cecil C. Swauger on a cross-bill.

Wilma B. Hamilton, 1011 Glenwood Street, was granted an absolute divorce by Judge Huster in her suit against Robert T. Hamilton. The suit was docketed through her mother, Mrs. Irene King, because she is a minor. The wife also obtained custody of their child and $6 weekly for its support. The couple was married in Hagerstown in the fall of 1946 and separated June 4, 1947.

Five divorce suits were docketed yesterday in Circuit Court. Gladys R. Blacker seeks divorce from William Blacker, to whom she was married January 28, 1946, here, and separated June 29, last. They have no children.

Isabelle Parrill docketed suit against Edward C. Parrill; Marie Drew seeks divorce from Edward Drew, and Mary J. Reece entered suit against Robert M. Reece.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Mary Katherine Dawson, Plaintiff, vs. Irvin Thomas Dawson, Defendant.

No. 20041 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree of divorce a vinculo matrimonii, divorcing the plaintiff from the defendant. The bill states that the parties were married at Hagerstown, Maryland, on December 6th, 1941; that no children were born of said marriage; that defendant deserted and abandoned the plaintiff without just cause or reason, and that said desertion has continued uninterrupted for over eighteen months and is final and deliberate and beyond any reasonable expectation of reconciliation; that the plaintiff is a resident of Allegany County, Maryland, whereas the defendant is a non-resident of the State of Maryland.

It is thereupon this 24th. day of June, 1947, by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, in Equity, ordered that the plaintiff by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Allegany County once a week for four successive weeks, before the 26th. day of July, 1947, giving notice to the absent defendant of the object and substance of this bill, and warning him to be and appear in this court in person or by solicitor on or before the 19th day of July, 1947, and show cause why a decree should not be passed as prayed.

ROBERT JACKSON, Clerk.

Comedy Replaces Dennis Day For Summer Period

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, July 1—A couple more additions to the summer show list will be apparent to network listeners Wednesday night.

To take over from Dennis Day for the vacation period is Gramps, a domestic comedy. It's on NBC at 7.

The other is the Pat O'Brien theater, which becomes the replacement in the summer time for Jimmy Durante. Actually, it's more than that, for it, together with Durante, is moving to NBC from CBS. The time it is taking is 9:30, Kay Kyser's former time, in an arrangement with his sponsor, who is to take a Friday spot in the fall.

American Melodies of CBS, ex-Tuesday evening at 6:30, hereafter is to be Wednesday nights at 7.

The Paul Whiteman Assembly, ABC at 8:30, plans to salute South Carolina's Infantry Division of the National Guard in his "then and now" song spot. Mindy Carson, 19-year-old, does the necessary singing; so does a chorus.

Works of J. Christian Bach, youngest son of Johann Sebastian Bach, will be included in the weekly concert of Invitation to Music on CBS at 10:30. Bernard Herrmann directs some more.

The Mills Brothers, who recently dropped out of the Music Hall on NBC, will drop around for a Jack Smith show guest spot on CBS at 6:15.

An added summer filler for CBS will be Doorway to Life, dealing with psychological problems of childhood by means of the drama, goes into the Information Please time at 9:30.

In addition to all the other items, there's the appearance of a new Tex and Jinx show — they're the Mr. and Mrs. broadcasters in the persons of Tex McCrary and his wife, Jinx Faulkenberg — as the summer show for Ed Gardner's Duffy's Tavern on NBC at 8 p. m. They specialize in interviews, and will include Mary Martin and Billy Rose in their starter. Up to now they've been broadcasting New York local only.

Law Offices of Morris Baron, S. Liberty Street, Cumberland, Md.
ORDER OF PUBLICATION
Mary Katherine Dawson, Plaintiff, vs. Irvin Thomas Dawson, Defendant.
No. 20041 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.
The object of this suit is to procure a decree of divorce a vinculo matrimonii, divorcing the plaintiff from the defendant. The bill states that the parties were married at Hagerstown, Maryland, on December 6th, 1941; that no children were born of said marriage; that defendant deserted and abandoned the plaintiff without just cause or reason, and that said desertion has continued uninterrupted for over eighteen months and is final and deliberate and beyond any reasonable expectation of reconciliation; that the plaintiff is a resident of Allegany County, Maryland, whereas the defendant is a non-resident of the State of Maryland.
It is thereupon this 24th. day of June, 1947, by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, in Equity, ordered that the plaintiff by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Allegany County once a week for four successive weeks, before the 26th. day of July, 1947, giving notice to the absent defendant of the object and substance of this bill, and warning him to be and appear in this court in person or by solicitor on or before the 19th day of July, 1947, and show cause why a decree should not be passed as prayed.

Comedy Replaces Dennis Day For Summer Period

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, July 1—A couple more additions to the summer show list will be apparent to network listeners Wednesday night.

To take over from Dennis Day for the vacation period is Gramps, a domestic comedy. It's on NBC at 7.

The other is the Pat O'Brien theater, which becomes the replacement in the summer time for Jimmy Durante. Actually, it's more than that, for it, together with Durante, is moving to NBC from CBS. The time it is taking is 9:30, Kay Kyser's former time, in an arrangement with his sponsor, who is to take a Friday spot in the fall.

American Melodies of CBS, ex-Tuesday evening at 6:30, hereafter is to be Wednesday nights at 7.

The Paul Whiteman Assembly, ABC at 8:30, plans to salute South Carolina's Infantry Division of the National Guard in his "then and now" song spot. Mindy Carson, 19-year-old, does the necessary singing; so does a chorus.

Works of J. Christian Bach, youngest son of Johann Sebastian Bach, will be included in the weekly concert of Invitation to Music on CBS at 10:30. Bernard Herrmann directs some more.

The Mills Brothers, who recently dropped out of the Music Hall on NBC, will drop around for a Jack Smith show guest spot on CBS at 6:15.

An added summer filler for CBS will be Doorway to Life, dealing with psychological problems of childhood by means of the drama, goes into the Information Please time at 9:30.

In addition to all the other items, there's the appearance of a new Tex and Jinx show — they're the Mr. and Mrs. broadcasters in the persons of Tex McCrary and his wife, Jinx Faulkenberg — as the summer show for Ed Gardner's Duffy's Tavern on NBC at 8 p. m. They specialize in interviews, and will include Mary Martin and Billy Rose in their starter. Up to now they've been broadcasting New York local only.

Nominations Are Submitted For Charter Group

Commission Planned To Study Report

Approximately 20 names have been submitted to the Mayor and Council by the Chamber of Commerce and the Junior Association of Commerce as nominations for a proposed commission to study the report on Cumberland's city government, submitted last April by Dr. Joseph M. Ray of the University of Maryland.

Mayor Thomas S. Post said yesterday that it is likely that one or two women may be included on the commission, which will probably number seven persons.

When he submitted the report, Dr. Ray suggested that such a commission be appointed to embody its proposals in recommendations to be submitted to the next session of the state legislature, if the report is approved. Charter changes for Cumberland can be enacted only by the General Assembly.

Among the recommendations in the 13-point program were that Cumberland should have municipal home rule, abandon the present commission form of government and adopt the council-manager form. Mayor Post has already stated that he favors those proposals.

The mayor said he hopes to call a meeting of the Mayor and Council in the near future to act upon the nominations, so that the commission can begin work on its study of the report. He explained that no announcement of nominations to the commission will be made pending approval by the Mayor and Council.

Dr. Ray began his study of city government here last October at the suggestion of the Jaycees. He is head of the Department of Government and Politics, College of Business and Public Administration, of the University of Maryland.

W. Va. High Court Upholds McCauley Death Sentence

The death sentence and conviction of Mark McCauley, 30-year-old strip miner, who killed State Police Sgt. Joseph Horne last September 9 near Emoryville in Mineral County, was upheld yesterday by the West Virginia Supreme Court.

Tucker County Sheriff O. Gay Hovatter was also fatally shot and his son was wounded as Tucker County authorities and State Police attempted to arrest the miner on a truck theft charge.

Judge W. T. Lovins wrote the opinion affirming the Mineral Circuit Court decision.

Counsel for McCauley, asking the Supreme Court appeal, presented evidence purporting to show that McCauley had been a patient in the Stockton State Hospital in Stockton, Cal., and that he had never recovered from an illness that made him a "raving maniac."

Later in the case, the prosecution revealed that a mistake had been made at the California asylum and that McCauley had been an employe at the institution farm but never a patient. A mixup in records due to the similarity of McCauley's name with that of a patient gave rise to the first reports that he had been an inmate, it was reported.

Woman Is Injured When Hit By Car

A 27-year-old Paw Paw, W. Va., woman was slightly injured here last night after she was struck by a car on Third Street between Virginia Avenue and Springdale Street.

The woman, identified as Mrs. Delda Robertson, was taken to Memorial Hospital at 10:15 p. m., suffering from abrasions of the face and right knee.

Police said Officer J. Carl Stouffer investigated.

Chamber To Elect 10 New Directors

A primary election will be held at the meeting of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club Tuesday, July 22, to select nominees for the 10 directors positions that will expire.

At this meeting brief reports will be given by the president, treasurer and other officials covering the fiscal year ending June 30.

Each member attending will select the names of 10 nominees for the board of directors and the 20 receiving the highest vote will be placed on the ballot at the annual election.

Werner's Condition "Slightly Improved"

Frank L. Werner, 326 Avirett Avenue, telegraph editor of the Cumberland Evening and Sunday Times, was reported in a slightly improved condition last night at Allegany Hospital, where he underwent an emergency appendectomy Sunday night.

FIRST DAY OF NEW SALES TAX LEAVES RETAILERS BEWILDERED

Various Collection Methods Reported

Cumberland consumers were taking the new state sales tax in their stride yesterday, but local retailers were bewildered as to how to record pennies collected under the tax law, which went into effect at 12:01 in the morning.

Several business places had glass jars, saucers, paper boxes, cigar boxes or other receptacles alongside cash registers where tax pennies were tossed as each sale was made. A more methodical method of collecting the tax was noted at one local grocery store, however, where each sale and the tax were rung up separately on the cash register.

Druggists reported considerable confusion about which items to tax. They said there was a tax on ice bags but none on such similar items as ice caps and hot water bottles, although all are used in connection with medication, which is not taxed.

One woman, learning that toothpaste was taxed, bought a brand advertised as preventing gums from becoming soft, and told the druggist she chose the brand because it could be considered as "medication." The argument failed to convince the druggist, who collected the tax anyway.

Grocers said they did not know how to keep records of the amount of tax they collected because they had not received forms on which returns are to be made. "We're just collecting the pennies," one said.

Treating was much in evidence at Cumberland bars. Instead of buying a single beer at 15 cents plus a one-cent tax, many a thirsty patron would band with one or two others, and they would buy the brew on one order—and at the same one cent extra impost if less than 50 cents were involved.

At least one store inaugurated a sales slip plan, designed to save the customer duplication in payment of tax. The customer goes to a counter, buys an item for 10 cents and pays a penny tax. The clerk gives the customer a sales slip which is presented at the next counter where a purchase is made. The sales slip is presented and the clerk enters the amount of purchase. When total purchases amount to 50 cents, the clerk destroys the slip and the customer starts again, if he wishes to make more purchases.

Several retailers appeared at the Court House yesterday and asked for license applications, saying they "hadn't bothered about the tax yet." At least one local groceryman declared "I don't know what to tax and what not to tax so I'm not taxing anything until I get definite information from someone who knows."

Sick Benefits For Railroaders Cited

Railroad workers who wish to apply for sickness benefits which became effective yesterday under provisions of the amended Railroad Unemployment Insurance Act must follow certain instructions carefully, according to G. W. Roth, district manager of the Railroad Retirement Board. They are:

1. Obtain initial form S. I.-la (application for sickness benefits) and SI-lb (statement of sickness) which is a combined form.

2. Carefully fill out and sign application for sickness benefits. Have his own doctor fill out and sign "statement of sickness" from.

3. Mail the combined form, which is pre-addressed, to the appropriate board office on either the sixth or seventh day after the first day he wishes to claim. The local office is located in the Postoffice Building. All correspondence should bear the applicant's name, address and social security account number.

The board will process the application and statement of sickness. If it appears that the applicant is unable to work and had sufficient railroad earnings ($150 or more in the base year), he will be supplied with a claim for sickness benefits to cover, the 14 days beginning with the first day of sickness.

The employe should complete this form and mail it to the board as his claim for days of sickness for the 14-day registration period. Subsequent claims for sickness benefits for continued sickness are sent him by the board if his most recently filed claim indicates that he is still sick.

Roth stated that the necessary forms have been distributed to the local office.

Reserve Unit Officers To Speak At Lions Club

The commanding officer and inspector-instructor of the Cumberland Marine Corps Reserve Unit, Maj. Remsen J. Cole, USMCR, and First Lt. Thomas L. Cobb, USMC, respectively, will be the guest speakers at the weekly meeting of the Cumberland Lions Club at Central "Y" today at 12:15 p. m.

The Marine officers will speak on the proposed plans for building and equipping a Marine Corps armory here, and the system that will be used to train and educate some 250 youths in this area.

Maj. Cole is at present assistant advertising and sales promotion manager at Kelly-Springfield Tire Company and Lt. Cobb is assigned here on temporary duty to organize the unit.

Hoffman Will Report At DAV Meeting Tonight

A report on the second executive committee meeting of the State Department of Maryland, Disabled American Veterans, held in Baltimore last Friday, will be submitted by John E. Hoffman, executive committeeman, at the meeting of Fort Washington Chapter No. 2, DAV, at the home, 113 South Centre Street, tonight at 8 o'clock.

The meeting, first of the chapter's new year, is open to all old and new members. The chapter will conduct a membership drive this month.

New Stamp On Sale

The new three-cent stamp issued in honor of America's medical profession went on sale yesterday morning at the Cumberland Postoffice. The large maroon-colored stamp bears a reproduction of a painting by Sir Luke Fildes titled "The Doctor."

BIRTHS

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Welch, Hazen Road, announce the birth of a son Tuesday morning in Allegany Hospital.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Ruckman, Route 1, Oldtown, Tuesday morning in Allegany Hospital. The father is stationed on Guam with the Navy.

Progress Is Slow On Kelly Contract

The negotiating committee of Local 26, United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastic Workers of America, CIO, will meet with the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company again this morning at 10 o'clock to continue negotiations on changes in the union's contract, according to A. E. Johnson, president, who commented that progress has been "slow" during the past few days.

Johnson added that the executive board, at its meeting last night, cancelled the regular membership meeting scheduled tomorrow night since it falls on the night before the Fourth of July.

The next regular meeting, he added, will be held Sunday, July 20, at 2:30 p. m.

Several special meetings will be called during the next two weeks, he added, to keep the membership informed on the progress of contract negotiations.

The present contract, Johnson added, will remain in force until an agreement is reached or either party presents a 30-day notice of desire to cancel the agreement.

Harry E. Castle, a member of the local's educational committee and chairman of the legislative committee, was chosen to attend a week's educational course to be held the week of July 27 in Antioch College, Yellow Springs, Ohio.

Johnson said the course is being conducted by the school's faculty for the URCLPWA in order to educate employes in union affairs.

Board Requests Audit Of Savage River Dam Work

Allegany County Commissioners yesterday unanimously passed an order instructing the clerk to request an audit of the Upper Potomac River Commission, accounting for all county funds expended on the Savage River Dam project, as of December 1942, when work was halted due to the war.

M. F. Prendergast, Washington Street, who raised the question of the audit, appeared before the Board yesterday and reminded them that the Board had previously requested an audit from the Commission by June 30. In a letter from members of the Commission on May 23, an audit was offered.

Commissioner William Lemmert made the motion yesterday for the audit and it was seconded by Commissioner James Holmes, and the clerk was instructed to notify the Commission to furnish the audit as offered by them in their letter.

A letter was received from William Boyd Coleman, president of Textile Workers Local 1874, expressing appreciation for the Board's support and co-operation during the recent Celanese strike and thanking Board members for passing a resolution urging settlement of the strike. Members of the Board were also invited to attend a picnic of Celanese workers to be held July 4 at Crystal Park, with a speaking program at 7:30 p. m.

A bid was received from John C. Brinker, in the amount of $15,968 for repairs to the Court House roof and gutters. Commissioners had instructed Brinker to submit an estimate a couple of weeks ago, when he called attention to the condition of the Court House roof. In the estimate he submitted, practically the entire roof would be renewed and nearly all rain gutters replaced. Commissioners regarded the estimate as high at the present time.

E. Taschenberger inquired about the completion of Oldtown Road to Williams Road. The requests were referred to Albert S. Paye, county engineer.

Enter Naval Reserve

Two enlistments in the V-6 inactive naval reserve were reported yesterday by Chief Torpedoman Edgar L. Schrader, local Navy recruiter.

Local Man Promoted

Gene T. Files, son of Mrs. Charles Dietz, 420 North Centre Street, has been promoted to sergeant while serving with occupation troops in Wetzlar, Germany. He enlisted in the Army in January 1946 while a junior at Allegany High School and has been overseas 14 months.

1,227 Pre-School Children Checked At Spring Clinics

Tooth Trouble Tops List Of Defects

Health Department officials reported yesterday that 1,227 Allegany County children who will start to school next fall were examined in clinics held at 45 public and parochial schools during the spring. Last year 1,042 pre-school children were examined.

Of that number, 947 were vaccinated against smallpox and 923 received diphtheria immunizations.

The Cresaptown clinic, with 70 children examined, led the list of county schools with the highest number of examinations of pre-school children. Other schools high on the list were Beall Elementary, Frostburg, 62; SS. Peter and Paul, 60; Pennsylvania Avenue, 55; Hill Street School, Frostburg, 50; and Hammond Street School, Westernport; Columbia Street and St. Michael's, Frostburg, each with 49.

Defective teeth led the list of physical defects noted in the examinations, with 747 such cases reported. Throat difficulties, including tonsils and adenoids which should be removed, were second with 311. Other defects listed were impaired hearing, 19; visual defects, 9; orthopedic difficulty, 8; heart defects, 7, and speech difficulty, 5.

The Health Department said that physical defects were called to the attention of mothers, the majority of whom accompanied their children to the clinics for conferences with the examining physician and public health nurses. Parents were urged to have the defects corrected before the children enter school in September.

Maternal, Infant Care Program Being Ended

The federal Emergency Maternal and Infant Care program is being terminated gradually, effective as of yesterday, according to Mrs. Louise C. Dean, home service secretary of Allegany County Chapter, American Red Cross.

Maternity and infant care for wives or infants of servicemen in the four lowest grades will be completed if initial care was authorized prior to June 30.

Maternity care will be authorized after June 30 if the mother was eligible under the program as of June 30, even though she may have applied for care subsequent to that date.

Infant care will be authorized after June 30 if the mother or infant was eligible for or received care under the program as of June 30.

Mrs. Dean said that any questions regarding eligibility for care under the EMIC program should be referred to the Red Cross office in the Postoffice Building.

Optimist Club Meets

Motion pictures of Joe Louis' heavyweight championship bouts will be shown by Harold Naughton at the meeting of the Optimist Club today at 6:15 p. m. at Central YMCA.

A membership drive will be conducted by the club during July to replace the members who have dropped from the organization.

vate, and Charles T. Simmons, 554 North Centre Street, and Billy C. Menges, 47 Lamont Street, both enlisted as corporals.

The next meeting of the company will be held at headquarters next Tuesday night at 7:30.

Stolen Property Valued At $1,127 Found At Thomas

Former Benbush Resident Held

By HELEN COLLETT

PARSONS, W. Va., July 1—The West Virginia State Police Detachment at Thomas, W. Va., disclosed yesterday that $1,127 worth of property stolen from Milton, Del. hardware store had been recovered at Thomas. A former resident of Benbush is being held in that city, charged with the robbery.

Sgt. Charles Burke, of the Thomas State Police, and Sgt. J. M. Johnson, of the Elkins Detachment, identified the man as George Alan Pase, 30, who was convicted of a breaking and entering charge in 1934 and sentenced to two years in the state penitentiary.

Police reported that the merchandise stolen consisted of six radios, four electric irons, two sweepers, two floor sanders, two large floor sanders, an electric clock, garage tools and two shotguns.

Pase confessed to bringing the goods to Thomas, disposing of the loot on June 3 and returning to Delaware where he was arrested as a suspect in the case on June 4, police stated.

After his arrest, West Virginia State Police were asked by authorities in Delaware to investigate. The first lead Trooper Burke had to the whereabouts of the merchandise was from information that a Thomas business man was offering to sell a shotgun for a very low price, according to officers, who added that the merchant, when contacted stated that he had bought a quantity of merchandise valued at $1,127 from Pase on June 3 for $200.

The body is at the home.

LaVale Residents Await Change In Name Of Their Post Office

See No Reason For Title Of "Long"

No official word had been received yesterday by George Dressman, postmaster at Long, regarding the change of the name of the office to LaVale, although many people living in the LaVale section favor the idea, and await official announcement that the change has gone through.

Dressman was named postmaster of Long, October 12, 1943, and it was moved to Dressman's Store on U. S. Route 40 from its old location at the Community Store, about a half-mile west on Route 40, where Miss Alma Dannecker had been postmistress for over 15 years.

Miss Dannecker recalled yesterday that when she became postmistress, there were only six customers or patrons, but over a period of time the number grew to more than 150, and the office became a third class post office shortly before she relinquished it.

She explained she had to give it up during the war because she could obtain insufficient help to do the job justice and operate her store too. She said, "I sold thousands of dollars worth of war bonds here and the amount of mail and parcel post to servicemen became more than I could handle."

History Of Long

Miss Dannecker recalled the history of the Long post office. She said that according to the late Fred Zihlman, congressman, who told her the story, the old Braddock Distillery which was operated about across the road from her present place of business, wanted a post office in the neighborhood for their convenience.

An office was finally assigned there, and two maiden ladies named Kelly operated the post office "in a little red house" near where the LaVale Fire Station now stands. Prior to that time, they operated it for a short time on Cash Valley Road. When the Misses Kelly died, Miss Dannecker said, a family named Fischell had the post office in the same house for several years, until they died, and Miss Dannecker became postmistress in 1928.

Asked how the post office happened to be named Long, Miss Dannecker said.

"Most of the land around here had been owned by a family named Long, so their family name was used. The name LaVale was coined by the late W. T. Laiken, an official at the distillery. He said 'We are down here in a sort of vale and it sounds nice,' so it was adopted," she said.

Could Serve Larger Area

Actually the post office at Dressman's is now outside the area which was originally known as Long, old residents declare, but the office is in a position to serve about 2,600 families and should be called LaVale, to avoid confusion, they maintain.

Petitions were circulated recently to have the change made, and last May, Rep. J. Glenn Beall stated he had been notified by the Post Office Department that the office would be changed to LaVale about July 1. However, the change had not been made yesterday.

The move to change the name had the active support of LaVale Volunteer Firemen, Parent-Teachers Association, LaVale Homemakers, and LaVale Civic Improvement Association and other groups and individuals.

Much confusion results now since mail is received at the Long post office addressed to LaVale, Md., or to Long, Md., or to LaVale, Cumberland, Md., and to Long, LaVale, Cumberland, Md. and numerous other combinations.

Sentimental Attachment

Outside of sentiment for a mere handful, there is no rhyme or reason for the name of Long, since the entire area from Narrows Park to Allegany Grove, including Long, is popularly known as LaVale, residents generally agree.

Cumberland post office has some problems in connection with the area, since two Rural Free Delivery Routes are operated out of the city post office for LaVale. Part of the area is on Route No. 1 and part on Route No. 5. Most residents get their mail on the RFD routes; however, there are about 200 families who use the post office, and this number is steadily increasing.

A check of the Postal Guide shows no other post office in the United States with the name of "LaVale". However, there is a town known as Lavelle, Pa., and two listed as LaValle, one in Missouri and one on Wisconsin. The only other Long listed is in Mississippi.

VFW Plans Picnic And Institution Of Oldtown Post

Will Also Initiate Group At Oakland

Members of Henry Hart Post No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars, meeting last night at the post home completed plans for their annual picnic to be held at Smouse's Beach Sunday, and also considered plans for the installation of officers at Oakland and the institution of a new post at Oldtown.

David L. Rinker, past commander, will go to Oakland July 21, accompanied by a delegation from the post to install officers of Henry and Luther Schmidt Post No. 5282, at 8 p. m. standard time.

Thomas K. Whalley, post adjutant and a department officer, accompanied by a delegation from the post will go to Oldtown tonight to institute Clifford B. Sisler Post No. 9451, at 7:30 p. m. in the Community Center.

Plans for Sunday's picnic include a softball game between a team from Alvin C. Neat Post, 5280, Lonaconing and the local post team. Games and refreshments and other entertainment will feature the day. The picnic, for members and their families will start at 10 a. m. and continue all day. Buses will leave post headquarters at 10 a. m., 11 a. m. and 1 p. m., returning from Smouse's at 7, 8 and 9 p. m. All VFW cards will be honored.

Verner J. Winner reported on the department encampment held at Ocean City, Md., last week and an announcement was made that the degree team will hold a rehearsal at 8 p. m. July 9, to prepare for the installation and initiation at Oakland, July 21.

Lee J. Thrasher, post commander, told members he had no knowledge of any arrangements to discuss the purchase of the Southern Hotel property, as published in the local press. Members expressed the opinion generally they are not interested in the building as a possible location for a VFW home and club. It was indicated that members of the VFW building committee had been approached about the proposition but none of them was present last night.

Coal Production In Entire Area At Standstill

Holiday Spreads To Strip Mines

The 10-day holiday of union miners in this area, which has closed practically all deep mines, had spread yesterday to include non-union stripping operations, and railroad officials declared, "practically no coal is moving in Western Maryland."

Strip mine operators stated that in several instances groups of pickets had appeared and told the strippers to cease operations on the threat that "your trucks will be wrecked if you don't." Rather than risk trouble and possible damage, they declared they have ceased production.

Small quantities of coal moved into Cumberland yesterday by truck, but most of it came from nearby operations in Somerset County, Pa., truckers explained.

Railroad officials said that coal moving over their lines has dropped as much as 85 per cent below normal, and that seen going through on coal and freight trains was mined before the holiday and is still in transit.

No Baltimore and Ohio Railroad furloughs are expected here although crews are expected to make fewer runs during the holiday, officials said. On the other hand, the Western Maryland Railway was reported yesterday to be preparing to slash crews as shipments of coal, down to a mere trickle, have eliminated about half of the road's normal traffic.

Local industries report they have enough coal in their yards to see them through the holiday and perhaps three or four weeks beyond. However, conservation methods are in progress. Coal yards which serve consumers claim they are handling normal warm weather orders, but there is not a large amount of retail coal available here. If the miners do not return to work after their paid holiday, and they indicate they won't unless contracts are signed, a serious coal shortage is expected, officials indicate.

Two Suits Filed As Result Of Alleged Assaults

Two suits were filed in Circuit Court yesterday for $1,000 each as the result of injuries from alleged assaults.

Mrs. Minnie Evarts, Westernport, sued Garland Groves, Westernport Hill, charging he struck her, causing injuries and medical expense. Mrs. Evarts is a tenant in a house owned by Groves.

Charles L. Yost has filed suit for $1,000 damages against Ossie J. Hutson as a result of an alleged assault during an argument over an automobile.

The declaration in the suit states that Yost was assaulted June 14 by Hutson and suffered severe bruises, that a tooth was knocked out and that he sustained head and back injuries. Yost said he incurred dental and medical bills as a result of the assault.

Suit Entered for Child

A suit for $5,000 damages was filed by James McDonald, an infant, through his father, Joseph W. McDonald, against Albert Angelilli for injuries allegedly received when he was struck by the defendant's car on Oldtown Road.

The declaration states that Angelilli attempted to pass another machine and struck McDonald. He charges that he suffered fractures of the leg and pelvis and other injuries. Edward J. Ryan is counsel in all three cases.

suit by titling was filed through William L. Wilson, Jr., attorney for Dorothy Dicken, by her next friend, Margaret Albright, against William E. Niland and Frank J. Palumbo.

Ort Is Installed As Exchange Head

J. Lewis Ort, newly elected president of the Cumberland Exchange Club, was installed last night at a "Ladies Night" dinner and dance held at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

Other officers of the club, who were obligated by Charles L. George, past president and past district Exchange governor are:

Carl Daum, plant manager of the Cumberland Brewing Company, vice president, and Thomas Shannon, manager of Mexico Farms airport and local teacher, secretary-treasurer.

Obligated as new members of the board of control were Daniel L. D'Amicol, Russell Shaffer and Albert Kalbaugh. Hold overs on the Board are Blair Welsh, Daniel Brown and Edward Wolfe.

D'Amicol, retiring president, who was in charge of the dinner meeting, was presented with a past president's pin and Carl G. Perry, local teacher, gave the invocation. George H. Tederick gave a brief talg on the subject, "Exchange."

The civic organization, chartered in May, 1939, now has 36 active members.

May Protest Charge

James Bonner, this city, posted $5 bond in police headquarters last night for a hearing today on a charge of illegal parking at a taxicab stand. He was arrested by Officer William E. Valentine on North Liberty Street. Bonner indicated to police that he welcomed the charge since it would give an opportunity to test the city's ordinance on the subject.

Visits Philippine Capitol

Pfc. Charles Edward Bohrer, son of Mrs. Myrtle Bohrer, who is stationed with the 795th Military Police Battalion in the Philippines, recently spent an all-day furlough in Baguio, Luzon, capitol of the islands. He enlisted at Cumberland in March, 1946, and has been overseas since August, 1946.

Nominations Are Submitted For Charter Group

Commission Planned To Study Report

Approximately 20 names have been submitted to the Mayor and Council by the Chamber of Commerce and the Junior Association of Commerce as nominations for a proposed commission to study the report on Cumberland's city government, submitted last April by Dr. Joseph M. Ray of the University of Maryland.

Mayor Thomas S. Post said yesterday that it is likely that one or two women may be included on the commission, which will probably number seven persons.

When he submitted the report, Dr. Ray suggested that such a commission be appointed to embody its proposals in recommendations to be submitted to the next session of the state legislature, if the report is approved. Charter changes for Cumberland can be enacted only by the General Assembly.

Among the recommendations in the 13-point program were that Cumberland should have municipal home rule, abandon the present commission form of government and adopt the council-manager form. Mayor Post has already stated that he favors those proposals.

The mayor said he hopes to call a meeting of the Mayor and Council in the near future to act upon the nominations, so that the commission can begin work on its study of the report. He explained that no announcement of nominations to the commission will be made pending approval by the Mayor and Council.

Dr. Ray began his study of city government here last October at the suggestion of the Jaycees. He is head of the Department of Government and Politics, College of Business and Public Administration of the University of Maryland.

W. Va. High Court Upholds McCauley Death Sentence

The death sentence and conviction of Mark McCauley, 30-year-old strip miner, who killed State Police Sgt. Joseph Horne last September 9 near Emoryville in Mineral County, was upheld yesterday by the West Virginia Supreme Court.

Tucker County Sheriff O. Gay Hovatter was also fatally shot and his son was wounded as Tucker County authorities and State Police attempted to arrest the miner on a truck theft charge.

McCauley was captured after a widespread manhunt and was lodged in the Harrison County Jail at Clarksburg for safekeeping prior to his trial in Keyser.

Judge W. T. Lovins wrote the opinion affirming the Mineral Circuit Court decision.

Counsel for McCauley, asking the Supreme Court appeal, presented evidence purporting to show that McCauley had been a patient in the Stockton State Hospital in Stockton, Cal., and that he had never recovered from an illness that made him a "raving maniac."

Later in the case, the prosecution revealed that a mistake had been made at the California asylum and that McCauley had been an employe at the institution farm but never a patient. A mixup in records due to the similarity of McCauley's name with that of a patient gave rise to the first reports that he had been an inmate, it was reported.

The Supreme Court granted the appeal from the conviction on January 13, five days before his execution was scheduled by the Mineral County Court.

Woman Is Injured When Hit By Car

A 27-year-old Paw Paw, W. Va., woman was slightly injured here last night after she was struck by a car on Third Street between Virginia Avenue and Springdale Street.

The woman, identified as Mrs. Delda Robertson, was taken to Memorial Hospital at 10:15 p. m., suffering from abrasions of the face and right knee.

Police said Officer J. Carl Stouffer investigated.

Treated in Allegany Hospital were Milton Norris, 39, 302 Park Street, who caught his left thumb in the door of a car; and Mrs. Veirda Albright, 51, 25 Thomas Street, who ran a needle into the palm of her left hand.

A 6-year-old Mt. Savage boy, Merrill Llewellyn, was treated in Miners Hospital, Frostburg, for a laceration of the right ankle, suffered when he fell from a bicycle.

Chamber To Elect 10 New Directors

A primary election will be held at the meeting of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club Tuesday, July 22, to select nominees for the 10 directors positions that will expire.

At this meeting brief reports will be given by the president, treasurer and other officials covering the fiscal year ending June 30.

Each member attending will select the names of 10 nominees for the board of directors and the 20 receiving the highest vote will be placed on the ballot at the annual election.

Werner's Condition "Slightly Improved"

Frank L. Werner, 326 Avirett Avenue, telegraph editor of the Cumberland Evening and Sunday Times, was reported in a slightly improved condition last night at Allegany Hospital, where he underwent an emergency appendectomy Sunday night.

FIRST DAY OF NEW SALES TAX LEAVES RETAILERS BEWILDERED

Various Collection Methods Reported

Cumberland consumers were taking the new state sales tax in their stride yesterday, but local retailers were bewildered as to how to record pennies collected under the tax law, which went into effect at 12:01 in the morning.

Several business places had glass jars, saucers, paper boxes, cigar boxes or other receptacles alongside cash registers where tax pennies were tossed as each sale was made. A more methodical method of collecting the tax was noted at one local grocery store, however, where each sale and the tax were rung up separately on the cash register.

Druggists reported considerable confusion about which items to tax. They said there was a tax on ice bags but none on such similar items as ice caps and hot water bottles, although all are used in connection with medication, which is not taxed.

One woman, learning that toothpaste was taxed, bought a brand advertised as preventing gums from becoming soft, and told the druggist she chose the brand because it could be considered as "medication." The argument failed to convince the druggist, who collected the tax anyway.

Grocers said they did not know how to keep records of the amount of tax they collected because they had not received forms on which returns are to be made. "We're just collecting the pennies," one said.

Treating was much in evidence at Cumberland bars. Instead of buying a single beer at 15 cents plus a one-cent tax, many a thirsty patron would band with one or two others, and they would buy the brew on one order—and at the same one cent extra impost if less than 50 cents were involved.

At least one store inaugurated a sales slip plan, designed to save the customer duplication in payment of tax. The customer goes to a counter, buys an item for 10 cents and pays a penny tax. The clerk gives the customer a sales slip which is presented at the next counter where a purchase is made. The sales slip is presented and the clerk enters the amount of purchase. When total purchases amount to 50 cents, the clerk destroys the slip and the customer starts again, if he wishes to make more purchases.

Several retailers appeared at the Court House yesterday and asked for license applications, saying they "hadn't bothered about the tax yet." At least one local groceryman declared "I don't know what to tax and what not to tax so I'm not taxing anything until I get definite information from someone who knows."

Sick Benefits For Railroaders Cited

Railroad workers who wish to apply for sickness benefits which became effective yesterday under provisions of the amended Railroad Unemployment Insurance Act must follow certain instructions carefully, according to G. W. Roth, district manager of the Railroad Retirement Board. They are:

1. Obtain initial form S. I.-la (application for sickness benefits) and SI-lb (statement of sickness) which is a combined form.

2. Carefully fill out and sign application for sickness benefits. Have his own doctor fill out and sign "statement of sickness" from.

3. Mail the combined form, which is pre-addressed, to the appropriate board office on either the sixth or seventh day after the first day he wishes to claim. The local office is located in the Postoffice Building. All correspondence should bear the applicant's name, address and social security account number.

The board will process the application and statement of sickness. If it appears that the applicant is unable to work and had sufficient railroad earnings ($150 or more in the base year), he will be supplied with a claim for sickness benefits to cover, the 14 days beginning with the first day of sickness.

The employe should complete this form and mail it to the board as his claim for days of sickness for the 14-day registration period. Subsequent claims for sickness benefits for continued sickness are sent him by the board if his most recently filed claim indicates that he is still sick.

Roth stated that the necessary forms have been distributed to the local office.

Reserve Unit Officers To Speak At Lions Club

The commanding officer and inspector-instructor of the Cumberland Marine Corps Reserve Unit, Maj. Remsen J. Cole, USMCR, and First Lt. Thomas L. Cobb, USMC, respectively, will be the guest speakers at the weekly meeting of the Cumberland Lions Club at Central "Y" today at 12:15 p. m.

The Marine officers will speak on the proposed plans for building and equipping a Marine Corps armory here, and the system that will be used to train and educate some 250 youths in this area.

Maj. Cole is at present assistant advertising and sales promotion manager at Kelly-Springfield Tire Company and Lt. Cobb is assigned here on temporary duty to organize the unit.

Hoffman Will Report At DAV Meeting Tonight

New Stamp On Sale

The new three-cent stamp issued in honor of America's medical profession went on sale yesterday morning at the Cumberland Postoffice. The large maroon-colored stamp bears a reproduction of a painting by Sir Luke Fildes titled "The Doctor."

BIRTHS

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Welch, Hazen Road, announce the birth of a son Tuesday morning in Allegany Hospital.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Ruckman, Route 1, Oldtown, Tuesday morning in Allegany Hospital. The father is stationed on Guam with the Navy.

Progress Is Slow On Kelly Contract

The negotiating committee of Local 26, United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastic Workers of America, CIO, will meet with the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company again this morning at 10 o'clock to continue negotiations on changes in the union's contract, according to A. E. Johnson, president, who commented that progress has been "slow" during the past few days.

Johnson added that the executive board, at its meeting last night, cancelled the regular membership meeting scheduled tomorrow night since it falls on the night before the Fourth of July.

The next regular meeting, he added, will be held Sunday, July 20, at 2:30 p. m.

Several special meetings will be called during the next two weeks, he added, to keep the membership informed on the progress of contract negotiations.

The present contract, Johnson added, will remain in force until an agreement is reached or either party presents a 30-day notice of desire to cancel the agreement.

Harry E. Castle, a member of the local's educational committee and chairman of the legislative committee, was chosen to attend a week's educational course to be held the week of July 27 in Antioch College, Yellow Springs, Ohio.

Johnson said the course is being conducted by the school's faculty for the URCLPWA in order to educate employes in union affairs.

Board Requests Audit Of Savage River Dam Work

Allegany County Commissioners yesterday unanimously passed an order instructing the clerk to request an audit of the Upper Potomac River Commission, accounting for all county funds expended on the Savage River Dam project, as of December 1942, when work was halted due to the war.

M. F. Prendergast, Washington Street, who raised the question of the audit, appeared before the Board yesterday and reminded them that the Board had previously requested an audit from the Commission by June 30. In a letter from members of the Commission on May 23, an audit was offered.

Commissioner William Lemmert made the motion yesterday for the audit and it was seconded by Commissioner James Holmes, and the clerk was instructed to notify the Commission to furnish the audit as offered by them in their letter.

A letter was received from William Boyd Coleman, president of Textile Workers Local 1874, expressing appreciation for the Board's support and co-operation during the recent Celanese strike and thanking Board members for passing a resolution urging settlement of the strike. Members of the Board were also invited to attend a picnic of Celanese workers to be held July 4 at Crystal Park, with a speaking program at 7:30 p. m.

A bid was received from John C. Brinker, in the amount of $15,968 for repairs to the Court House roof and gutters. Commissioners had instructed Brinker to submit an estimate a couple of weeks ago, when he called attention to the condition of the Court House roof. In the estimate he submitted, practically the entire roof would be renewed and nearly all rain gutters replaced. Commissioners regarded the estimate as high at the present time.

Lemuel Galen Smith asked the Board to have a drainage pipe installed under a county road at Shaft.

E. Taschenberger inquired about the completion of Oldtown Road to Williams Road. The requests were referred to Albert S. Paye, county engineer.

Enter Naval Reserve

Two enlistments in the V-6 inactive naval reserve were reported yesterday by Chief Torpedoman Edgar L. Schrader, local Navy recruiter.

Local Man Promoted

Gene T. Files, son of Mrs. Charles Dietz, 420 North Centre Street, has been promoted to sergeant while serving with occupation troops in Wetzlar, Germany. He enlisted in the Army in January 1946 while a junior at Allegany High School and has been overseas 14 months.

1,227 Pre-School Children Checked At Spring Clinics

Tooth Trouble Tops List Of Defects

Health Department officials reported yesterday that 1,227 Allegany County children who will start to school next fall were examined in clinics held at 45 public and parochial schools during the spring. Last year 1,042 pre-school children were examined.

Of that number, 947 were vaccinated against smallpox and 923 received diphtheria immunizations.

The Cresaptown clinic, with 70 children examined, led the list of county schools with the highest number of examinations of pre-school children. Other schools high on the list were Beall Elementary, Frostburg, 62; SS. Peter and Paul, 60; Pennsylvania Avenue, 55; Hill Street School, Frostburg, 50; and Hammond Street School, Westernport; Columbia Street and St. Michael's, Frostburg, each with 49.

Defective teeth led the list of physical defects noted in the examinations, with 747 such cases reported. Throat difficulties, including tonsils and adenoids which should be removed, were second with 311. Other defects listed were impaired hearing, 19; visual defects, 9; orthopedic difficulty, 8; heart defects, 7, and speech difficulty, 5.

The Health Department said that physical defects were called to the attention of mothers, the majority of whom accompanied their children to the clinics for conferences with the examining physician and public health nurses. Parents were urged to have the defects corrected before the children enter school in September.

Maternal, Infant Care Program Being Ended

The federal Emergency Maternal and Infant Care program is being terminated gradually, effective as of yesterday, according to Mrs. Louise C. Dean, home service secretary of Allegany County Chapter, American Red Cross.

Maternity and infant care for wives or infants of servicemen in the four lowest grades will be completed if initial care was authorized prior to June 30.

Maternity care will be authorized after June 30 if the mother was eligible under the program as of June 30, even though she may have applied for care subsequent to that date.

Infant care will be authorized after June 30 if the mother or infant was eligible for or received care under the program as of June 30.

Mrs. Dean said that any questions regarding eligibility for care under the EMIC program should be referred to the Red Cross office in the Postoffice Building.

Optimist Club Meets

Motion pictures of Joe Louis' heavyweight championship bouts will be shown by Harold Naughton at the meeting of the Optimist Club today at 6:15 p. m. at Central YMCA.

A membership drive will be conducted by the club during July to replace the members who have dropped from the organization.

vate, and Charles T. Simmons, 554 North Centre Street, and Billy C. Menges, 47 Lamont Street, both enlisted as corporals.

The next meeting of the company will be held at headquarters next Tuesday night at 7:30.

Stolen Property Valued At $1,127 Found At Thomas

Former Benbush Resident Held

By HELEN COLLETT

PARSONS, W. Va., July 1—The West Virginia State Police Detachment at Thomas, W. Va., disclosed yesterday that $1,127 worth of property stolen from Milton, Del. hardware store had been recovered at Thomas. A former resident of Benbush is being held in that city, charged with the robbery.

Sgt. Charles Burke, of the Thomas State Police, and Sgt. J. M. Johnson, of the Elkins Detachment, identified the man as George Alan Pase, 30, who was convicted of a breaking and entering charge in 1934 and sentenced to two years in the state penitentiary.

Police reported that the merchandise stolen consisted of six radios, four electric irons, two sweepers, two floor sanders, two large floor sanders, an electric clock, garage tools and two shotguns.

Pase confessed to bringing the goods to Thomas, disposing of the loot on June 3 and returning to Delaware where he was arrested as a suspect in the case on June 4, police stated.

After his arrest, West Virginia State Police were asked by authorities in Delaware to investigate. The first lead Trooper Burke had to the whereabouts of the merchandise was from information that a Thomas business man was offering to sell a shotgun for a very low price, according to officers, who added that the merchant, when contacted stated that he had bought a quantity of merchandise valued at $1,127 from Pase on June 3 for $200.

LaVale Residents Await Change In Name Of Their Post Office

See No Reason For Title Of "Long"

No official word had been received yesterday by George Dressman, postmaster at Long, regarding the change of the name of the office to LaVale, although many people living in the LaVale section favor the idea, and await official announcement that the change has gone through.

Dressman was named postmaster of Long, October 12, 1943, and it was moved to Dressman's Store on U. S. Route 40 from its old location at the Community Store, about a half-mile west on Route 40, where Miss Alma Dannecker had been postmistress for over 15 years.

Miss Dannecker recalled yesterday that when she became postmistress, there were only six customers or patrons, but over a period of time the number grew to more than 150, and the office became a third class post office shortly before she relinquished it.

She explained she had to give it up during the war because she could obtain insufficient help to do the job justice and operate her store too. She said, "I sold thousands of dollars worth of war bonds here and the amount of mail and parcel post to servicemen became more than I could handle."

History Of Long

Miss Dannecker recalled the history of the Long post office. She said that according to the late Fred Zihlman, congressman, who told her the story, the old Braddock Distillery which was operated about across the road from her present place of business, wanted a post office in the neighborhood for their convenience.

An office was finally assigned there, and two maiden ladies named Kelly operated the post office "in a little red house" near where the LaVale Fire Station now stands. Prior to that time, they operated it for a short time on Cash Valley Road. When the Misses Kelly died, Miss Dannecker said, a family named Fischell had the post office in the same house for several years, until they died, and Miss Dannecker became postmistress in 1928.

Asked how the post office happened to be named Long, Miss Dannecker said.

"Most of the land around here had been owned by a family named Long, so their family name was used. The name LaVale was coined by the late W. T. Laiken, an official at the distillery. He said 'We are down here in a sort of vale and it sounds nice,' so it was adopted," she said.

Could Serve Larger Area

Actually the post office at Dressman's is now outside the area which was originally known as Long, old residents declare, but the office is in a position to serve about 2,600 families and should be called LaVale, to avoid confusion, they maintain.

Petitions were circulated recently to have the change made, and last May, Rep. J. Glenn Beall stated he had been notified by the Post Office Department that the office would be changed to LaVale about July 1. However, the change had not been made yesterday.

The move to change the name had the active support of LaVale Volunteer Firemen, Parent-Teachers Association, LaVale Homemakers, and LaVale Civic Improvement Association and other groups and individuals.

Much confusion results now since mail is received at the Long post office addressed to LaVale, Md., or to Long, Md., or to LaVale, Cumberland, Md., and to Long, LaVale, Cumberland, Md. and numerous other combinations.

Sentimental Attachment

Outside of sentiment for a mere handful, there is no rhyme or reason for the name of Long, since the entire area from Narrows Park to Allegany Grove, including Long, is popularly known as LaVale, residents generally agree.

Cumberland post office has some problems in connection with the area, since two Rural Free Delivery Routes are operated out of the city post office for LaVale. Part of the area is on Route No. 1 and part on Route No. 5. Most residents get their mail on the RFD routes; however, there are about 200 families who use the post office, and this number is steadily increasing.

A check of the Postal Guide shows no other post office in the United States with the name of "LaVale". However, there is a town known as Lavelle, Pa., and two listed as LaValle, one in Missouri and one on Wisconsin. The only other Long listed is in Mississippi.

VFW Plans Picnic And Institution Of Oldtown Post

Will Also Initiate Group At Oakland

Members of Henry Hart Post No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars, meeting last night at the post home completed plans for their annual picnic to be held at Smouse's Beach Sunday, and also considered plans for the installation of officers at Oakland and the institution of a new post at Oldtown.

David L. Rinker, past commander, will go to Oakland July 21, accompanied by a delegation from the post to install officers of Henry and Luther Schmidt Post No. 5282, at 8 p. m. standard time.

Thomas K. Whalley, post adjutant and a department officer, accompanied by a delegation from the post will go to Oldtown tonight to institute Clifford B. Sisler Post No. 9451, at 7:30 p. m. in the Community Center.

Plans for Sunday's picnic include a softball game between a team from Alvin C. Neat Post, 5280, Lonaconing and the local post team. Games and refreshments and other entertainment will feature the day. The picnic, for members and their families will start at 10 a. m. and continue all day. Buses will leave post headquarters at 10 a. m., 11 a. m. and 1 p. m., returning from Smouse's at 7, 8 and 9 p. m. All VFW cards will be honored.

Verner J. Winner reported on the department encampment held at Ocean City, Md., last week and an announcement was made that the degree team will hold a rehearsal at 8 p. m. July 9, to prepare for the installation and initiation at Oakland, July 21.

Lee J. Thrasher, post commander, told members he had no knowledge of any arrangements to discuss the purchase of the Southern Hotel property, as published in the local press. Members expressed the opinion generally they are not interested in the building as a possible location for a VFW home and club. It was indicated that members of the VFW building committee had been approached about the proposition but none of them was present last night.

Coal Production In Entire Area At Standstill

Holiday Spreads To Strip Mines

The 10-day holiday of union miners in this area, which has closed practically all deep mines, had spread yesterday to include non-union stripping operations, and railroad officials declared, "practically no coal is moving in Western Maryland."

Strip mine operators stated that in several instances groups of pickets had appeared and told the strippers to cease operations on the threat that "your trucks will be wrecked if you don't." Rather than risk trouble and possible damage, they declared they have ceased production.

Small quantities of coal moved into Cumberland yesterday by truck, but most of it came from nearby operations in Somerset County, Pa., truckers explained.

Railroad officials said that coal moving over their lines has dropped as much as 85 per cent below normal, and that seen going through on coal and freight trains was mined before the holiday and is still in transit.

No Baltimore and Ohio Railroad furloughs are expected here although crews are expected to make fewer runs during the holiday, officials said. On the other hand, the Western Maryland Railway was reported yesterday to be preparing to slash crews as shipments of coal, down to a mere trickle, have eliminated about half of the road's normal traffic.

Local industries report they have enough coal in their yards to see them through the holiday and perhaps three or four weeks beyond. However, conservation methods are in progress. Coal yards which serve consumers claim they are handling normal warm weather orders, but there is not a large amount of retail coal available here. If the miners do not return to work after their paid holiday, and they indicate they won't unless contracts are signed, a serious coal shortage is expected, officials indicate.

Two Suits Filed As Result Of Alleged Assaults

Two suits were filed in Circuit Court yesterday for $1,000 each as the result of injuries from alleged assaults.

Mrs. Minnie Evarts, Westernport, sued Garland Groves, Westernport Hill, charging he struck her, causing injuries and medical expense. Mrs. Evarts is a tenant in a house owned by Groves.

Charles L. Yost has filed suit for $1,000 damages against Ossie J. Hutson as a result of an alleged assault during an argument over an automobile.

The declaration in the suit states that Yost was assaulted June 14 by Hutson and suffered severe bruises, that a tooth was knocked out and that he sustained head and back injuries. Yost said he incurred dental and medical bills as a result of the assault.

Suit Entered for Child

A suit for $5,000 damages was filed by James McDonald, an infant, through his father, Joseph W. McDonald, against Albert Angelilli for injuries allegedly received when he was struck by the defendant's car on Oldtown Road.

The declaration states that Angelilli attempted to pass another machine and struck McDonald. He charges that he suffered fractures of the leg and pelvis and other injuries. Edward J. Ryan is counsel in all three cases.

Ort Is Installed As Exchange Head

J. Lewis Ort, newly elected president of the Cumberland Exchange Club, was installed last night at a "Ladies Night" dinner and dance held at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

Carl Daum, plant manager of the Cumberland Brewing Company, vice president, and Thomas Shannon, manager of Mexico Farms airport and local teacher, secretary-treasurer.

Obligated as new members of the board of control were Daniel L. D'Amicol, Russell Shaffer and Albert Kalbaugh. Hold overs on the Board are Blair Welsh, Daniel Brown and Edward Wolfe.

D'Amicol, retiring president, who was in charge of the dinner meeting, was presented with a past president's pin and Carl G. Perry, local teacher, gave the invocation. George H. Tederick gave a brief talg on the subject, "Exchange."

The civic organization, chartered in May, 1939, now has 36 active members.

May Protest Charge

James Bonner, this city, posted $5 bond in police headquarters last night for a hearing today on a charge of illegal parking at a taxicab stand. He was arrested by Officer William E. Valentine on North Liberty Street. Bonner indicated to police that he welcomed the charge since it would give an opportunity to test the city's ordinance on the subject.

Visits Philippine Capitol

Pfc. Charles Edward Bohrer, son of Mrs. Myrtle Bohrer, who is stationed with the 795th Military Police Battalion in the Philippines, recently spent an all-day furlough in Baguio, Luzon, capitol of the islands. He enlisted at Cumberland in March, 1946, and has been overseas since August, 1946.
